

GOP Accepts Bid From Lehman for Budget Court Test

Conference Held Between Administration and Republican Leaders and Plans Develop

'Little SEC' Bill

Measure to Curb Stock Funds Goes Before State Senate

Albany, May 5 (AP)—Republican acceptance of Democratic Governor Lehman's challenge to a court test of the slashed-state budget's constitutionality assured today the second legal battle in a decade over "lump sum" budget appropriations.

Preliminary plans to contest Republican pruning of $30,000,000 from the administration's $415,000,000 program for 1939-1940 took form at a conference between the executive and Republican legislative majority leaders. Both pledged cooperation to obtain a decision before July 1.

Agrees to Law

Governor Lehman, who contends the substituted "lump sum" appropriations are unconstitutional, agreed to permit the amended budget to become law to facilitate the court action.

Republicans, conceding to the governor the services of Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., who has held their financial plan unconstitutional, will name a counsel soon. The Legislature has an "inherent right" to change the form of appropriations presented by the governor, they will argue. The nature and amount of reductions in the new budget is not involved.

Should the lawmakers quit before May 12, making the budget a "30 day" bill requiring his approval or veto, the governor said, he would sign it. If the legislature remains in session longer, he said, the bill can become law without his signature within 10 days after he receives it.

A Democratic administration won over a Republican legislature majority in 1929 in the only other constitutional dispute since establishment of the executive budget system, under which the governor is responsible for formulating and administering the budget. Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor, challenged the validity of a section of the finance law on which Republicans based their claim that "lump sum" appropriations for state departments could be segregated only with approval of the Republican chairmen of the legislative fiscal committee.

The administration was overruled in the appellate division but won finally in the court of appeals.

'Little SEC' Bill
A bill designed to curb "stock frauds" by creation of a "little SEC" and requiring registration of securities before their issuance went into the Senate today.

The measure would have brokers, dealers and salesmen in the securities business register with a state commission of three members.

Democratic Senator John T. McColl, New York city, sponsored the proposal, prepared by Democratic Assemblyman Robert F. Wagner, Jr., after the deadline for introduction of bills in the Assembly.

Wagner said the requirement for registration of securities would "offer some assurance to the purchaser that the scheme is not a swindle."

He termed present state laws punitive rather than regulatory and said "we let a promoter deprive an investor of his hard-earned money by some fraudulent scheme and then punish him in jail. But the damage to the investor is complete because he never again sees his money."

Meantime Governor Lehman vetoed, as a "weakening" of existing law, a bill repealing the requirement of revocation of the license of a motorist convicted of drunken driving.

He also disapproved a measure to permit a person to regain a motor vehicle registration, suspended for failure to pay a judgment, on proof all judgments over $100 have been satisfied. No proof of financial responsibility would have been required.

Enjoys Commotion

Washington, May 5 (AP)—Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.) said today "the best way to keep this country out of war is for Congress to quit talking and go home." Bankhead chuckled at the commotion he caused earlier this week by proposing in the Senate that Congress adjourn June 15.

Senator Johnson (R., Calif.) had replied that Congress should stay in session to keep the country out of war. "That's ridiculous," Bankhead told reporters. "Only Congress can declare war, and if it's not in session there can be no war for us. We ought to adjourn."

Anthracite Miners Extend Their Pact

New York, May 5 (AP)—The joint conference of anthracite miners and operators today agreed to extend until May 13 the present contract, thus averting a threatened work stoppage in the industry which was to have started this week-end.

The contract expired last April 30. Today's action was the second extension, pending further negotiations on a new contract which have been in session since April 18.

Customs Men Seize $30,000 in Parisian Goods in New York

Mrs. James Ayer's Apartment Yields Gowns and Jewels; Warrant Is Issued for Search

New York, May 5 (AP)—The treasury department today announced that customs agents had seized approximately $30,000 worth of Parisian gowns and jewelry in the apartment of Mrs. James C. Ayer, who is listed in the Social Register. The customs men charged that the confiscated articles had been smuggled into the country.

The customs agents, led by Gordon H. Pike and John Buchal, raided Mrs. Ayer's apartment at 435 East 52nd street last night on a warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter. The warrant stated that Mrs. Ayer purchased merchandise in France and "with intent to defraud the revenue of the United States, unlawfully and knowingly did fail to declare such merchandise at the port of New York and declare duty thereon."

Goods in Trunks
The treasury department said the agents found the goods in several trunks. Confiscated articles included a pair of diamond earrings, a black enamel and diamond cigarette case, a diamond and platinum bracelet with two diamond clips, an ermine cape, a caracul jacket, a silver fox cape, a mink jacket, dresses, lingerie and other jewelry.

The alleged smuggling took place on four voyages since the summer of 1935, the treasury department said.

Additional 5,000 Workers Ready to Join Walkout by Midnight; Biggest Stoppage Since '22

New York, May 5 (AP)—Delays in the movement of some trains and unusually large crowds on platforms at key stations marked today's first curtailment of subway service in the move to conserve bituminous coal because of the miners' work stoppage.

The Brooklyn-Manhattan line reported that its express trains were delayed from six to eight minutes because of the heavy loads carried by the trains following the 20 to 25 per cent curtailment.

The worst congestion on the Interborough system was at Times Square and Grand Central, and at 86th and 135th streets on the Lexington avenue line, where passengers change from platforms at different levels to transfer between express and locals.

Many New Yorkers, however, anticipating delays and crowds, went to work earlier, thus relieving, to some degree, the crush.

95,000 Men Join
New York, May 5 (AP)—The nation's soft coal industry, stagnant since April 1, was further paralyzed today by the walkout of 95,000 anthracite miners, bringing to $33,000 the number of men who are idle.

In addition, 5,000 others were ready to join the walkout by midnight tonight.

The walkout, bringing the threat of a coal shortage sharply to the fore, was the biggest stoppage in the industry since 1922 when a half million men were out for 11 months.

The 95,000 men who quit the mines last night and early today did so in response to orders from John L. Lewis, CIO chief and head of the United Mine Workers of America, after two months of contract negotiations with bituminous operators collapsed yesterday.

Miss Perkins' Hope
As the pinch of soft coal shortage made itself felt in various sections of the nation—notably in New York, where a 25 per cent curtailment in transit operations was ordered—a hope that a solution for the impasse might be found today was expressed in Washington by Secretary of Labor Perkins.

There were 18,000 members of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, an AFL union, continuing work in Illinois.

In the immediate offing also appeared the possibility of similar action in the anthracite fields, for current negotiations between the union and operators for renewal of their contract, expired April 30, have not borne fruit. An extension

Boy Uses 'Fake Bomb' in Fatal Attempt to Force Marriage

Jackson Tenn., May 5 (AP)—A crudely-fashioned "fake bomb" apparently was used by an unemployed youth in a fatal effort to frighten a well-to-do widow 50 years his senior into marriage, police said today.

Deputy Coroner H. R. Belew described as "clearly murder and suicide" the street shooting yesterday in which Mrs. Alma J. Donnell, 70, and Lee J. Burns, 20, both of Oklahoma City, Okla., were killed.

Witnesses said the woman ran from the county courthouse crying for help when Burns left the clerk's office to seek a witness for the marriage, after obtaining a license.

Guy R. Windrom, city editor of the Jackson Sun, who had been tipped off a youth-age marriage was about to take place, witnessed the shooting.

He said the woman ran to an automobile across the street, followed by the youth.

"I went up to the car," Windrom said, "and the man reached in the pocket and pulled out a gun. I dropped down just as he shot through the glass. He then shot the woman through the head and killed himself."

Friends said Mrs. Donnell had hired Burns to drive her to Memphis to visit a sister.

Assistant Police Chief J. T. Cretchfield said the "fake bomb" was tucked in Burns' shirt. It consisted of three sticks of wood and a metal mine bomb bound together, in crude simulation of a dynamite time-bomb.

Cretchfield advanced the opinion "the marriage license was his idea and he forced her to accompany him by threatening her with that contraption."

Charles V. Brown Suspended From Fire Department

Fireman, Who Is in Ulster County Jail, Set Down for Failure to Report to Central Station

Charles V. Brown has been suspended from active duty as a member of the Kingston paid fire department for failure to report for duty.

Fireman Brown has not reported for duty because he is being held in the Ulster county jail in default of putting up a bond of $500 guaranteeing the payment of $15 weekly to his wife.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy when questioned today in regard to the Brown case said that Fireman Brown could not be reinstated until a hearing was held by the Board of Fire Commissioners.

Will Await Release

Asked if the board was planning to meet tonight the fire chief said there was no use of the board holding a meeting until Brown was released from jail.

Fireman Brown has been stationed for a number of years at the Central Fire Station, holding the position of supervisor of motors of the fire department. He is said to be a skilled auto mechanic.

Brown was committed to the county jail on Wednesday when he appeared before Judge Matthew V. Cahill on complaint of Mrs. Brown who informed the court that her husband had failed to provide for her support.

Mrs. Brown is represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan while Mr. Brown is represented by Attorney Joseph Avis.

City Judge's Orders

Judge Cahill, after hearing both sides of the story, directed Brown to post the bond to guarantee the weekly payments.

When Brown failed to post the bond he was remanded to the county jail where he is being held until the bond is posted.

Fire Chief Murphy said that Fireman Brown automatically suspended himself when he failed to report for duty on Wednesday, and has since failed to report.

Just what action the fire board will take, of course, is not known, but as Brown is entitled to a hearing on the charge, he undoubtedly will be given an opportunity as soon as he is released from custody.

Duke Reported Dead

Vienna, May 5 (AP)—Persistent but unverified rumors circulated in Vienna today that Duke Ernst Hohenberg, second son of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, died in a concentration camp at Buchenwald, Germany. Duke Ernst, 35, and his brother Max—whose father was assassinated at Sarajevo in 1914, an event which led to the World War—were arrested after the Austrian Anschluss in March, 1938. Max, the older brother, who is 37, was released several months ago from a concentration camp.

New York, May 5 (AP)—John T. Kieley, suspended investigator for the federal alcohol tax unit in Poughkeepsie, testified in federal court today that he and John F. Many Foreigners Taken Aboard U. S. and British Gunboats; 27 Planes in Raiding Party

Hongkong, May 5 (AP)—Dispatches received by the private wireless station of a Chinese bank here said that Japanese warplanes made a devastating raid on Chungking today, the third attack on the Chinese provisional capital in three days.

The dispatches said the Kin-cheng Bank, one of the largest buildings in Chungking, was destroyed.

More than 2,000 casualties were caused by a Japanese raid yesterday on Chungking, 1,370 miles up the Yangtze river, and about 200 more by a Wednesday raid.

Ordinary commercial communications with Chungking were crippled today as a result of yesterday's raid.

(By KARL ESKELUND)

Chungking, May 5 (AP)—Hundreds of Chinese were reported today to have been trapped by the flaming devastation spread by incendiary bombs in a Japanese air raid yesterday and it was estimated 2,000 had perished or had been injured.

Fires today swept at least one-eighth of this provisional Chinese capital. Thousands of terrified natives milled along the banks of the Yangtze river, seeking conveyance from the ravaged city.

Most of the foreigners, including many Americans who narrowly escaped death and injury, were taken aboard the United States and British gunboats Tutuila and Falcon. Landing parties escorted them to safety past lines of burning buildings.

Chungking is 1,370 miles up river from Shanghai.

27 Planes in Raid

While thousands of persons were thronging the narrow streets at 6:30 p. m. (5:30 a. m. E. S. T.) yesterday and with Chungking barely recovered from a raid of the day before which caused perhaps 200 casualties, 27 planes swept overhead and started emptying their bomb racks.

There had been a false alarm at 4 p. m. The people had grown tired of sweltering in dugouts tunneled into the hills of the city and had emerged to go about their business.

The flimsy construction of Chungking's buildings made for greater damage and more casualties than in comparable raids at Hankow and Canton last fall.

Even before the raiders had disappeared, police were seeking to control mobs and fire fighters were on the job. But flames sped through the closely packed wooden houses.

This correspondent witnessed the big fires caused by air raids in Canton before that South China metropolis capitulated last October 21 and Chungking's fires looked just as bad—unlikely to be controlled for several days.

Defenders Not Seen

Sixteen Chinese planes took to the air at 4:20 p. m. after the first alarm but when the Japanese bombers finally appeared the defending craft were not to be seen. Chinese ground forces met the attackers with anti-aircraft gunfire but without success, it was reported.

At least 100 large bombs were dropped. One fell within 60 feet of the Associated Press office which this correspondent had just abandoned. Probably the building was burned. I have not had time to find out.

One bomb struck the electric power plant. The Chungking wireless station was silenced. In the gathering darkness countless thousands of half-crazed civilians, many of them carrying babies and household goods, rushed through the streets to the river-side.

With only burning ruins for illumination, over-loaded boats ferried the refugees to sections undamaged.

Two Americans believed to be aviators were seen entering a Chinese Hotel just before it was struck and burned. Their fate was not known.

Vaughn's House Burns

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vaughn, Americans connected with the International Friends' Mission, was struck and burned. They were not injured, however. The Vaughns are from Minnesota. The home of the British vice consul was struck three times and John Tajourdin, secretary to the British ambassador, suffered a head injury from falling rock. Except for a German injured in the collapse of a building, other foreigners—so far as could be learned—were safe.

'Now Let Me Tell You, Young Fellow'

Those may, or may not, have been the words Bainbridge Colby (left) is shown using in a dramatic exchange with Sen. Robert Reynolds (D-N.C.) when Colby, President Wilson's post-war secretary of state, testified before the Senate foreign relations committee in Washington recently. The white-haired former official expressed the measured opinion that the United States made a mistake in entering the World War—a mistake he said America must not make again by being "sucked in as a belligerent when we think we are being neutral."

Their British Majesties Are All Primed for Canada, U.S.

London, May 5 (AP)—King George VI. getting an early start on his last day in Buckingham Palace before sailing for Canada and the United States, breakfasted before 7:30 a. m. today.

He dealt with state papers during the morning, held a privy council and received Prime Minister Chamberlain at 11:30 a. m. (5:30 a. m. E. S. T.) in a farewell audience.

Queen Elizabeth, who has spent some 50 hours in recent months on dress fittings, was busy seeing that her dresser and other attendants got all the trunks aboard the special luggage cars which preceded the royal train to Portsmouth by 24 hours.

Officials disclosed that the battle cruiser Repulse would escort the Empress of Australia, the liner on which the royal party will sail, for a short distance from Portsmouth. Two cruisers will escort the liner on the entire voyage.

Wawarsing Folk To Get Good Sum For Lands Taken Near Kansas City

Lehman's Signature on Bill Provides That New York Will Have to Double Deposit for Lands

Under the bill sponsored by Assemblyman J. Edward Conway which was signed last week by Governor Lehman and is now law, residents of the town of Wawarsing, whose property is taken by the city of New York for water works purposes through condemnation proceedings, will receive a very substantial increase in initial payment for their lands taken. In fact the city of New York will have to almost double the deposit paid for lands taken in Wawarsing under the new law.

In the past and since 1905 when the Water Supply Act was first passed, the city has been required to deposit a sum equal to one half the assessed valuation of property, the assessed valuation being taken from the prior year. In many cases the deposit was very small since many properties are assessed for a very small part of their value.

Workmen Find Pendergast's Aide and Identify Him by Signet Ring; Vanished Monday

Kansas City, May 5 (AP)—The body of Edward L. Schneider, 46, missing business aide of T. J. Pendergast, political boss under indictment for income tax evasion, was taken from the Missouri river today.

Schneider's motor car, containing two suicide notes, was found Monday on a Missouri river bridge. On the preceding Friday he testified before a federal grand jury which the following day indicted Pendergast. The indictment alleged Pendergast obtained money from business interests under Schneider's name and did not report the income.

Workmen found the body near the Kansas City water department's intake about two and a half miles downstream from the Fairfax bridge where the automobile was abandoned.

Italy Steps Up Arms Estimates To Make War Quick Victory

Rome, May 5 (AP)—The Italian government today announced an $85,000,000 increase in army and air force estimates for the year beginning July 1 and declared that Italy wanted to make any war she fought a "quick war" with "certainty of victory."

The war ministry budget, introduced in the Fascist chamber, provided for an appropriation of 3,427,541,000 lire (about $171,000,000), representing an increase of 814,874,000 lire (about $40,000,000) over the amount allotted for the present fiscal year.

The air ministry proposed expenditures of 2,190,000,000 lire (about $110,000,000) for the air force, an increase of 965,000,000 lire (about $45,000,000) over the present year.

"A quick war" has been determined upon as the type of war which Fascist Italy, in case of armed conflict, would desire to impose on her eventual enemies.

CHUNGKING—Estimates place toll of 2,000 in Japanese air raid yesterday on Chinese; part of city still aflame.

Beck Replies to Germany

Warsaw, May 5 (AP)—Poland's Col. Joseph Beck replied to Germany today with firm rejection of Adolf Hitler's demands for Danzig and a wide German right of way through the Polish corridor, but left the door open for further "peaceful conversations."

Speaking before the Sejm (Parliament), and interrupted constantly by thunderous applause, the foreign minister declared that Pomerania (the Polish corridor) and right in the free city of Danzig belonged to Poland, and that Poland would not give them up.

He called Germany's claims "one-sided demands."

Poland is willing to negotiate, he declared, only on the basis of "peaceful intentions" and "careful methods of action" and only as regards matters not directly affecting Polish sovereignty over the corridor and her rights in Danzig.

Memorandum to Berlin
A memorandum to this effect, Beck announced, was being delivered today to the German foreign office in Berlin.

The German ambassador to Warsaw, Dr. Adolf Hans Von Moltke, was not present to hear Beck's address.

Among diplomats applauding Beck's address, however, was the United States ambassador, Anthony Drexel Biddle, Jr.

Beck began his address at 11:15 a. m. (5:15 a. m. E. S. T.) and for 20 minutes delivered a carefully-worded declaration of Polish policy which left no doubt as to the attitude of his country toward Germany's claims.

He concluded with emphasis on Poland's desire for peace, but brought Polish deputies to their feet in cheers with this declaration:

"We in Poland do not know the conception of peace at any price. There is only one thing in the life of men and nations and states which is without price—that is honor."

Outlines Four Principles

Beck enumerated four principles which he insisted must be respected in negotiations with Germany:

Poland stands firmly by her rights and interests in Danzig, trade and maritime policy in Danzig.

Poland will not let itself be barred from the Baltic.

Poland will not permit her sovereignty to be restricted in the corridor—which Beck insisted on calling the "Province of Pomerania"—although she has no desire to obstruct Germans in their communications with East Prussia.

Although the population of Danzig is predominantly German, its livelihood and prosperity depend upon Poland.

Beck criticized Hitler's "pretense" for denouncing the Polish-German non-aggression pact because of Poland's new mutual guarantees with Britain.

He said that although he was ready to explain the real nature of Beck's guarantees to Germany, the German ambassador did not give him a chance until today.

Special Significance
Observers saw special significance in Beck's speech.

Asked if the board was planning to meet today, the fire chief said there was no use of the board holding a meeting until Brown was released from jail.

Fireman Brown has been stationed for a number of years at the Central Fire Station, holding the position of supervisor of motors of the fire department. He is said to be a skilled auto mechanic.

Brown was committed to the county jail on Wednesday when he appeared before Judge Matthew V. Cahill on complaint of Mrs. Brown who informed the court that her husband had failed to provide for her support.

Mrs. Brown is represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan while Mr. Brown is represented by Attorney Joseph Avis.

City Judge's Orders

Judge Cahill, after hearing both sides of the story, directed Brown to post the bond to guarantee the weekly payments.

When Brown failed to post the bond he was remanded to the county jail, where he is being held until the bond is posted.

Fire Chief Murphy said that Fireman Brown automatically suspended himself when he failed to report for duty on Wednesday, and has since failed to report.

Just what action the fire board will take, of course, is not known, but as Brown is entitled to a hearing on the charge, he undoubtedly will be given an opportunity as soon as he is released from custody.

Duke Reported Dead

Vienna, May 5 (AP)—Persistent but unverified rumors circulated in Vienna today that Duke Ernst Hohenberg, second son of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, died in a concentration camp at Buchenwald, Germany. Duke Ernst, 35, and his brother Max—whose father was assassinated at Sarajevo in 1914, an event which led to the World War—were arrested after the Austrian Anschluss in March, 1938. Max, the elder brother, who is 37, was released several months ago from a concentration camp.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 5 (AP)—The position of the Treasury May 3: Receipts $30,902,740.87; expenditures $28,802,887.39; net balance $3,075,368,556.26; working balance included $2,410,881,287.76; customs receipts for month $2,690,789.61; receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $4,750,993,398.75; expenditures $7,681,087,650.38; emergency expenditures included $2,622,201,436.67; excess of expenditures $2,930,094,251.63; gross debt $40,124,593,501.75; increase above previous day $9,105,531.93; gold assets $15,800,705,884.71.

Liquor Case Aired

New York, May 5 (AP)—John T. Kitchy, suspended investigator for the federal alcohol tax unit in Poughkeepsie, testified in federal court today that he and John F. Collins, another suspended investigator, took part in a raid on the farm of Michael Saccamando, near Poughkeepsie, and helped seize a large illicit still.

Decline Bout

London, May 5 (AP)—The British boxing board of control today declined to sanction a world light heavyweight championship bout between John Henry Lewis and Len Harvey after giving Lewis a physical examination.

'Now Let Me Tell You, Young Fellow'

These may, or may not, have been the words Bainbridge Colby (left) is shown using in a dramatic exchange with Sen. Robert Reynolds (D-N.C.) when Colby, President Wilson's post-war secretary of state, testified before the Senate foreign relations committee in Washington recently. The white-haired former official expressed the measured opinion that the United States made a mistake in entering the World War—a mistake he said America must not make again by being "sucked in as a belligerent when we think we are being neutral."

Their British Majesties Are All Primed for Canada, U.S.

London, May 5 (AP)—King George VI, getting an early start on his last day in Buckingham Palace before sailing for Canada and the United States, breakfasted before 7:30 a. m. today.

He dealt with state papers during the morning, held a privy council and received Prime Minister Chamberlain at 11:30 a. m. (5:30 a. m. E. S. T.) in a farewell audience.

Queen Elizabeth, who has spent some 50 hours in recent months on dress fittings, was busy seeing that her dresser and other attendants got all the trunks aboard the special luggage cars which preceded the royal train to Portsmouth by 24 hours.

Officials disclosed that the battle cruiser Repulse would escort the Empress of Australia, the liner on which the royal party will sail, for a short distance from Portsmouth. Two cruisers will escort the liner on the entire voyage.

Wawarsing Folk To Get Good Sum For Lands Taken

Lehman's Signature on Bill Provides That New York Will Have to Double Deposit for Lands

Under the bill sponsored by Assemblyman J. Edward Conway which was signed last week by Governor Lehman and is now law, residents of the town of Wawarsing, whose property is taken by the city of New York for water works purposes through condemnation proceedings, will receive a very substantial increase in initial payment for their lands taken.

In fact the city of New York will have to almost double the deposit paid for lands taken in Wawarsing under the new law.

In the past and since 1905 when the Water Supply Act was first passed, the city has been required to deposit a sum equal to one half the assessed valuation of property, the assessed valuation being taken from the prior year. In many cases the deposit was very small since many properties are assessed for a very small part of their value.

Schneider's Body Taken From River Near Kansas City

Workmen Find Pendergast's Aide and Identify Him by Signet Ring; Vanished Monday

Kansas City, May 5 (AP)—The body of Edward L. Schneider, 46, missing business aide of T. J. Pendergast, political boss under indictment for income tax evasion, was taken from the Missouri river today.

Schneider's motor car, containing two suicide notes, was found Monday on a Missouri river bridge. On the preceding Friday he testified before a federal grand jury which the following day indicted Pendergast. The indictment alleged Pendergast obtained money from business interests under Schneider's name and did not report the income.

Workmen found the body near the Kansas City water department's intake about two and a half miles downstream from the Fairfax bridge where the automobile was abandoned.

Ring on Finger
The body was identified by a signet ring bearing the initials (Continued on Page Three)

Italy Steps Up Arms Estimates To Make War Quick Victory

Rome, May 5 (AP)—The Italian government today announced an $85,000,000 increase in army and air force estimates for the year beginning July 1 and declared that Italy wanted to make any war she fought a "quick war" with "certainty of victory."

The war ministry budget, introduced in the Fascist chamber, provided for an appropriation of $4,271,541,000 lire (about $171,000,000), representing an increase of $14,874,000 lire (about $400,000) over the amount allotted for the present fiscal year.

The air ministry proposed expenditures of 2,190,000,000 lire (about $110,000,000) for the air force, an increase of 905,000,000 lire (about $45,000,000) over the present year.

"A quick war" has been determined upon as the type of war which Fascist Italy, in case of armed conflict, would desire to impose on her eventual enemies,"

Beck Addresses Parliament Amid Thunderous Applause and Spurns 'One-Sided Demands'

Four Principles

Beck Enumerates Four Points Which He Insists Must Be Rejected

FOREIGN-AT-GLANCE

(By The Associated Press)

WARSAW—Foreign Minister Beck rejects German demands on Danzig and Polish corridor but leaves door open to negotiation; calls Hitler offer "one-sided"; urges peaceful settlement.

BERLIN—German news agency calls Beck's speech "brusque."

BERCHTESGADEN—Danzig Nazi leaders, German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop gather to confer with Hitler.

LONDON—British government endorses Beck's offer; Polish minister's speech seen reflecting Britain's stand as well as Poland's; Chamberlain gives House of Commons hope of success in negotiations to bring Soviet Russia into French-British front.

PARIS—Sources close to government call Beck speech "calm, logical answer to Hitler"; France supports Polish stand.

MOSCOW—Soviet Russia watches Polish-German situation, still silent on replacement of Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov.

CHUNGKING—Estimates place toll of 2,000 in Japanese air raid yesterday on Chinese; part of city still aflame.

Beck Replies to Germany

Warsaw, May 5 (AP)—Poland's Col. Joseph Beck replied to Germany today with firm rejection of Adolf Hitler's demands for Danzig and a wide German right of way through the Polish corridor, but left the door open for further "peaceful conversations."

Speaking before the Sejm (Parliament), and interrupted constantly by thunderous applause, the foreign minister declared that Pomerania (the Polish corridor) and rights in the free city of Danzig belonged to Poland and that Poland would not give them up.

He called Germany's claims "one-sided demands."

Poland is willing to negotiate, he declared, only on the basis of "peaceful intentions" and "peaceful methods of action" and only as regards matters not directly affecting Polish sovereignty over the corridor and her rights in Danzig.

Memorandum to Berlin
A memorandum to this effect, Beck announced, was being delivered today to the German foreign office in Berlin.

The German ambassador to Warsaw, Dr. Adolf Hans Von Moltke, was not present to hear Beck's address.

Among diplomats applauding Beck's address, however, was the United States ambassador, Anthony Drexel Biddle, Jr.

Beck began his address at 11:15 a. m. (5:15 a. m. E. S. T.) and for 20 minutes delivered a calm, carefully-worded declaration of Polish policy which left no doubt as to the attitude of his country toward Germany's claims.

He concluded with emphasis on Poland's desire for peace, but brought Polish deputies to their feet in cheers with this declaration:

"We in Poland do not know the conception of peace at any price. There is only one thing in the life of men and nations and states which is without price—that is honor."

Outlines Four Principles

Beck enumerated four principles which he insisted must be respected in negotiations with Germany:

Poland stands firmly by her rights and interests in overseas trade and maritime policy in Danzig.

Poland will not let itself be barred from the Baltic.

Poland will not permit her sovereignty to be restricted in the corridor—which Beck insisted on calling the "Province of Pomerania"—although she has no desire to obstruct Germans in their communications with East Prussia.

Although the population of Danzig is predominantly German, its livelihood and prosperity depend upon Poland.

Beck criticized Hitler's "pretext" for denouncing the Polish-German non-aggression pact because of Poland's new mutual guarantees with Britain.

He said that although he was ready to explain the real nature of British guarantees to Germany, the German ambassador did not give him a chance until today.

Special Significance
Observers saw special significance in Beck's speech.

Schneider's Body Taken From River

Schneider, secretary-treasurer of seven Pendergast business enterprises, disappeared Monday at about the time Pendergast appeared in federal court and pleaded innocent to federal charges of evading taxes on $443,500 income in 1935 and 1936.

In the automobile were found two notes, one addressed to his wife and the other to a friend, Phil Abry. Both indicated suicide but U. S. District Attorney Maurice Milligan at once expressed a doubt.

He ordered an immediate investigation "to ascertain whether his disappearance is a hoax, a suicide or that he met foul play."

The district attorney said Schneider had made a "complete and detailed statement" regarding Pendergast's affairs and income with relation to the various corporations he headed and of which Schneider was an official. This statement could not be used at any trial in Schneider's absence because the defense would have no way of challenging it.

Continues Dragging

After Schneider's disappearance officials and rivermen dragged the river continuously. Mrs. Schneider, accepting the suicide theory, offered a reward of $250 for recovery of her husband's body.

Meantime, reports came in that a man resembling Schneider had been seen at several points, including Cincinnati, Hays, Kas., and Denver.

Three government river workers, making soundings from a launch, found the body.

The workers tied a rope to the body, pulled it ashore and called Coroner W. L. Wyson in North Kansas City. FBI agents and police hurried to the place.

The body was identified definitely by Robert T. Lyons, superintendent of the Ready Mixed Concrete Company of which Schneider was secretary-treasurer.

'Bigger' Than Lauer Case

The case, agents said, was "bigger" than the one involving Mrs. Elma Lauer, wife of State Supreme Justice Edgar J. Lauer.

Mrs. Lauer recently was fined for smuggling and is serving a three-months sentence in the Women's House of Detention. She pleaded guilty.

Justice Lauer issued a statement today following publication of a letter from U. S. Attorney John T. Cahill to Governor Lehman charging the justice with "participation" in smuggling activities. Lauer said:

"It seems to be improper at this time to make any detailed comment. I wish to give assurance, however, to the public that during my 34 years of active judicial service in this city no private or judicial act of mine has been other than to reflect honor and dignity upon my judicial office and upon me personally."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 5, 1939.

APPLY THE GOLDEN RULE

Kingston will be host this week-end to many visitors from sections throughout the county, neighboring communities and adjoining states as well as from distant places. Many will be coming here for the first time to witness the program in connection with the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival. Every courtesy should be shown these visitors while in our midst. Well known for its hospitality, Kingston residents will have another opportunity to extend its usual warm welcome.

Local residents who have experienced the pleasure which comes from feeling that they are welcome in a community know what good will such a hospitable attitude creates. If visitors are greeted pleasantly and made to feel that they are welcome they will come again. And it is important that they return. To a large extent the business of Ulster county is dependent in large measure upon vacationist trade both in winter and summer. The prosperity of the county will fluctuate according as the vacationists extend or withhold their patronage. Without the vacationists real estate values would be affected adversely and local business would suffer loss of trade.

Advertising our county to attract visitors here is not enough. When they arrive all should see that they are made welcome and pleased. Tourists, vacationists, sightseers and visitors are treated very well in communities today. The Ulster county resident who travels knows this. Natives go out of their way to be of assistance, they are courteous and helpful in giving road directions and they are usually inclined to be indulgent in overlooking any little breach of minor convention.

Competition is high in communities today. If from a business angle alone, we should be hospitable and friendly to the many visitors expected here both for the Apple Blossom Festival and from the World's Fair.

PIANOS AND ROASTERS

These times, as nearly everybody knows, are not very good. There is much unemployment, business profits are small, and boys and girls emerging from high school and college still have a hard time finding jobs. Nearly all of us have to economize.

Still, things might be worse. There are indications that for many people life is at least tolerable. For instance, consider pianos and electric roasters. Current reports show, according to a business columnist, that "sales of both are running well ahead of last year's figures, and the piano business is doing so well that the manufacturers have passed a formal resolution of thanks to the industry's advertising managers."

It is well known, too, that automobiles are selling well this spring. There's another pickup, too, in home building.

Now, when so many people are buying pianos and electric roasters and automobiles, and building or buying homes, American prosperity is not scraping the bottom. Pianos are luxuries, and so are electric roasters, and possession of the latter certainly implies that the owner has something to roast.

Hard times are comparative. Our normal economic standards are so high that what seems poverty to us would be considered prosperity almost anywhere else. With our resources we should be doing still better; but even so, we might as well keep our economic perspective on straight.

NEUTRALITY

After being kicked around pretty freely in Chancellor Hitler's latest speech, Americans can find some comfort in reading the words of President Hambro of the Norwegian legislature. His people follow American action regarding the Central European crisis "with the utmost respect," he says, "because the United States is the only World War participant which did not extend its territory, is not ruling over any conquered people, and is not directly threatened by attacks."

The German people may appreciate these facts in some happier day, when they are able to get full information as to what is going on in the world.

As for the Scandinavian countries, Mr. Hambro continues, they do not want guarantees of any kind from any state groups. "We wish to remain absolutely free of alliances, absolutely neutral, because in our opinion a small neutral group is of the highest importance for European civilization in case of war."

The same thing is true of our own great group of states. If another general war breaks out, somebody should be left capable of putting the pieces together afterward.

CIVILIAN SERVICE

Holland is considering compulsory civilian service for boys of 18 and 19 years, somewhat like our own voluntary CCC service. The plan contemplates putting 60,000 youths in 200 camps for six months a year before they take their military training.

They would be given, in addition to physical education, training in trades. There would be mild discipline of the kind found in our own Boy Scout movement.

Those in favor of the plan speak of its great moral and physical advantages. They mention also that it would protect youth from unemployment. No doubt it is expected that many will not only be better prepared for jobs but will actually get jobs after the special training, as do many of the boys who emerge from the CCC camps in this country.

We still prefer to have such opportunities on a voluntary, rather than a compulsory, basis. But we have found that the CCC work has built health, morale and initiative, in addition to its accomplishments in education and relief for the boys and their families. These gains do not include important conservation and forestry work done to the advantage of the whole nation.

EVERGREENS FROM CLIPPINGS

An assistant in the botany department of the University of Washington has been experimenting for two years in the reproduction of fir trees from clippings. He has accomplished a feat formerly considered impossible.

Clippings of Douglas fir were dipped for a few minutes in synthetic compounds. Then they were set out in greenhouses and treated like ordinary seedlings. They have lived and grown. Similar cuttings, not chemically treated, died soon after planting.

The botanist is now trying the same stunt with Sitka spruce clippings. Early developments indicate that this tree may be reproduced in the same way. The result might be a spread of these fine trees to many other parts of the country.

SURGERY IN CASES OF EPILEPSY

Many of us who have followed the treatment now given to prevent attacks of epilepsy, or if not prevented, the number and severity of attacks is lessened, have perhaps believed that this treatment was effective in all cases. That there are some cases not reached by the three diet methods and phenobarbital is only too true. Surgery is now used in cases that cannot be helped by other methods.

The diet treatment is:
(a) Cut down on all starch foods—bread, sugar, potatoes, pastry.
(b) Cut down on all liquids—water, tea, coffee, milk, and all soft and hard drinks.
(c) Increase the fat foods—cream, butter, fat meat, egg yolks.

To these diet rules is added a daily dose of phenobarbital as prescribed by the physician.

While the cause in most cases of epilepsy is unknown, a cause in a number of cases is damage to the brain, either by a fall or by infection which has arisen in some other part of the body and has found its way to the brain by the blood stream.

After mentioning some "tests" which help to show that there is some damage in a portion of the brain, including X-rays, Dr. J. P. Evans, Cincinnati, Ohio State Medical Journal, says:
"Before the complete surgical operation to remove this damaged part is undertaken, this part should be stimulated by electricity. If this stimulation causes an epileptic attack, the surgeon is justified in removing the damaged portion of the brain."

However, before even this test is made, Dr. Evans states that the patient should be given a thorough trial of phenobarbital or other "quieting" drugs, partly to avoid unnecessary operation, partly to prove that any quieting drug used after the operation is not bringing the benefit instead of the operation itself.

The aim of the operation is to remove the damaged part of the brain, leaving a lessened degree of damage than was caused by the original injury.

The thought then is when the above diet and drug treatment does not bring relief to epileptics, damage from injury or infection may be the cause. And if by careful tests this is believed to be the cause, surgery offers a fair chance of relief.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

NO A. F. OF L. C. I. O. PEACE THIS YEAR

Babson Says C. I. O. Is Losing Ground

Babson Park, Mass., May 5.—There is no sign of peace this year between Mr. Green and Mr. Lewis. From 1935 through last Fall the C. I. O. group steadily gained ground on the A. F. of L. A year and a half ago Lewis was so strong that he threatened to merge the less picturesque A. F. of L. into his C. I. O. Caged old William Green, however, called time out to take the edge off the Lewis drive. Meanwhile, the breaks began to go against the C. I. O. and Lewis has since been on the defensive. However, he is not yet licked. In any event, moreover, if a consolidation ever takes place, I do think either Green or Lewis will be in the saddle.

The Law of Action and Reaction works in human relations just as it does in physics and in economics. The public is badly fed up on the C. I. O. and Uncle John's Lewis's movement, popular when it started, has made enemies of many former friends. While the public is not in love with the A. F. of L., at least the methods used by Mr. Green's group seem less obnoxious than those used by the more youthful C. I. O. crowd. This public reaction is, therefore, having its effect on Lewis's power. What has happened the past week brings this out clearly.

Recession Slows Down C. I. O.

The business recession has given the Lewis unions some more bad jolts. The widespread lay-offs in the automobile and steel centers have strained the treasuries of the new C. I. O. unions. Because the A. F. of L. groups are older, they are richer than Uncle John's new unions. Their finances can stand the gaff of this slowing-down period of business better than can those of the C. I. O. To meet the reduction in income, the latter has had to let a lot of valuable organizers and other staff workers go. This has halted their drive to lose by joining up with the C. I. O. The latter group want to get together with the A. F. of L. but on their own terms. Hence, the deadlock.

Public "Holds the Bag"

Meanwhile, patient John Q. Public has been taking it on the chin as usual. The 340,000 idle miners were declared eligible for Unemployment Insurance Compensation. The unemployment fund, of course, represents the contributions of all workers. It was not set up to support strikes. Moreover, the coal tie-up has cost many railroad workers their jobs. Steel operations have dropped and general business has sagged 5 per cent. We need a Labor Act that will prevent such situations—one that will protect consumers and the jobs of innocent workers in other industries.

Once Cooked for Prince Of Wales in Budapest

Anna Takacs, who claims the distinction of having at one time served the dinner for the Prince of Wales, on the occasion of his visit to one of the largest restaurants in Budapest, in which she was then employed, is to join the force at the Valley Inn, Rosendale, on May 18.

The Inn will feature American-Hungarian cooking, according to the new proprietor, Stephen Balogh, formerly of Jersey City, and Miss Takacs will have charge of preparation of the Hungarian portions of the menu.

The Valley Inn was for many years, until recently, conducted by Mrs. Schinnen.

Achilles heel of the C. I. O.—the treasury of the United Mine Workers.

The story is that if the "war chest" of the United Mine Workers can be destroyed, the C. I. O. will be ready for honest dealing. It is pretty well known that the millions of thrifty stockholders of this country feel that Mr. Green is fairer and more dependable than Mr. Lewis. Many impartial leaders believe that labor itself would, in the long run, be better off under a man like Mr. Green than under a man like Mr. Lewis. On the other hand, the vertical system of unionization which Mr. Lewis advocates is sounder than the horizontal system for which Mr. Green stands. Hence, if the A. F. of L. group win they must adopt the C. I. O. idea in order to avoid another fight later on.

What the Operators Say

The mine operators, however, insist that they have always been fair in the contract which expired April 1. Their story is that the A. F. of L. is "muscling in" on the C. I. O. with a new union in the coal fields. It is making progress and it worries Mr. Lewis. He wants to eliminate the fines imposed in the old contracts for unauthorized lockouts and pickets, so that he can call his C. I. O. men out of any mine that hires an A. F. of L. worker. The operators have fought against throwing out these penalties. They believe that if both sides unite on a contract, both sides should be liable to the same penalty for breaking it.

The whole situation has been very interesting. On the surface, there is now absolutely no sign of a permanent armistice between these two major groups. But perhaps we are now witnessing strategy which in the end will bring peace with the A. F. of L. securing the lion's share of the laurels. The fact that the average annual wage of the C. I. O. worker is $1,200 compared with $2,000 for the A. F. of L. worker has been a major stumbling block to date. The A. F. of L. members feel that they have nothing to gain and a lot to lose by joining up with the C. I. O. The latter group want to get together with the A. F. of L. but on their own terms. Hence, the deadlock.

Business in About Eight States May Within This Year Actually Be Given Cut in Payroll Taxes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 5.—Good news for business men is sometimes imbedded in the technical phraseology of official announcements. That's the case with the action of the ways and means committee of the House of Representatives, as revealed by Chairman Doughton. For the fact is, businesses, large and small, in about eight states and the District of Columbia may within this year actually be given a cut in payroll taxes.

This does not mean a paper cut, such as was announced a few weeks ago when administration leaders determined not to increase the payroll taxes due next January, but a dollars and cents cut affecting the payroll taxes which businesses are now paying. It comes about through the decision of the ways and means committee, which doubtless will be translated into law by both Houses of Congress, to permit the states to reduce the present three per cent tax which employers now pay on unemployment insurance. The reduction, however, may take place only when states have built up what are considered by the federal government to be adequate reserves and when states have met the minimum standards set up by the social security board here.

Another important change recommended by the ways and means committee and which is likely to become law would enable the several states to set up rating systems for individual employers, so that businesses with a good employment record would pay a lower tax than employers with a poor record. In other words, a company which has been paying payroll taxes in sufficient amounts to constitute an adequate reserve against the usual hazards of unemployment will not be asked to continue to pay beyond that point.

Just what the reduction may amount to is difficult to estimate, but some of the experts figure that the unemployment insurance tax may actually be lowered in some states down to one per cent, which, compared with the three per cent now paid on payrolls, is quite a sizeable saving for a business nowadays, especially the ones in the red.

Now, as soon as about eight states begin to give these reductions, the employers in other states will want to do all they can to bring about conditions which will affect all businesses in all savings. The states which would appear to be qualified already include New York and Massachusetts, as well as the District of Columbia.

The imposition of these heavy social security taxes has been a severe drain on business. Indeed, some economists have insisted that the recession in business which started in the summer of 1937 was the direct consequence of the sudden jumping of expenses to American business in the field of payroll taxes. The deflationary effect of this tax load has been especially noted because the taxes have not been assessed on a capacity to pay, but on each and every business, irrespective of whether the business was earning money.

If the effect in the first instance was deflationary, the relief from payroll taxes may well bring on a bit of business expansion. Entirely aside from this is the confidence that will be instilled among business men as they come to understand that the congress of the United States is at last giving consideration to the drastic economic effects of the payroll taxes, the need for which has for a long time been stressed in these dispatches.

Immunization and Vaccination Said To Preserve Health

Editor, The Freeman:

Recently one of the oldest, most loved and respected residents of Kingston said to me, "I have seen many places in the world but I think Ulster county is the most beautiful of them all to live in."

No one who has lived in this county any length of time or who has chosen it as a place in which to carry on his work will either disagree with the statement of this dear lady or will long remain immune to the lure of the charm and beauty of living in our country. But beauty of natural surroundings is not the sole basis upon which can be built the full realization of well being and happiness. Health is the prime factor which must exist before the individual can do all he can reach any high level of culture or begin to appreciate what nature has provided or man has made possible. Nor is health in our modern age a gift that is given to some and withheld from others by a whim of nature. Science and organization is bringing it, almost daily, nearer to complete realization.

During the last 30 or 40 years painstaking and laborious investigation, together with federal, state, municipal and county organizations, health programs, have made it possible for every individual, and therefore every community, to protect himself from two diseases that once ranked as the greatest scourges of humanity. Diphtheria and smallpox.

To the politically minded there is growing a strong belief that collective security and peace-loving nations is the only road to world peace. To the health-minded there are the proven facts that health can be achieved only by the application of collective prevention against disease. Thomas Jefferson's words, "The people are the only sure reliance for the preservation of liberty" might well be paraphrased. The people are the only sure reliance for the preservation of health. For in the last analysis the health of a community depends upon the cooperation of the people of that community. It is the knowledge and understanding and use that is made of the means of prevention of disease that determines our combined health.

Ulster county can point with pride to a splendid record in the elimination of diphtheria. The continued vigilance of the State and the City Boards of Health, backed by the almost universal cooperation of the public has made this possible.

During the last five years there has been but one case of diphtheria in the City of Kingston and less than a dozen in the county, while the number of the cases in the state has been 9,036 with deaths among these of 530. For the same period there has not been one case of smallpox in the whole county while in the state there were about 200.

This magnificent record must be sustained at its present high level and can be so sustained by the cooperation of every individual. Such cooperation is not only a protection to oneself and ones children but is the first duty of everyone who has any regard for the people among whom he must live.

Individuals are not naturally immune to these dread diseases which can take such heavy toll of life, especially among the young, unless they are made immune by means which fortunately are made available to rich and poor alike. City Boards of Health, health officers in townships and state clinics in the county will furnish this protection for the asking.

The World's Fair will bring countless visitors from various parts of our country where these diseases still exist. Ulster county must be made immune to such possible invasion of contagion. There are no contra-indications against vaccination or diphtheria immunization. Both are simple procedures, attended by no risks or bad after effects. It is well known that vaccination during the first year of life gives far less reaction than when done later in childhood. The diphtheria toxoid immunization gives no reaction at all and should be given as soon as possible after the first six months of infancy.

Apple Blossom Time will soon be the first year of life for many seasons in our county—a time of freshness and beauty. It can be kept so only by keeping out the ugliness of disease. This should be the immediate task of everyone, for the collective good of all.

St. Joseph's Holy Name Breakfast To Be Held May 14

St. Joseph's Holy Name Society will hold its annual communion breakfast Sunday, May 14, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Following the 8 o'clock Mass and communion, St. Joseph's Boy Scout Troop will lead the members in march from the church to the hotel.

The speakers at the breakfast will be Prof. William R. White of Fordham University School of Law and the Rev. John P. McCaffrey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church. Assemblyman J. Edward Conway will act as toastmaster.

Present indications point to a successful function. Members who expect to attend the breakfast are urged, however, to obtain tickets as soon as possible so that proper reservation may be made with the hotel management.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the committee and officers of the society.

National Consumption of Fruit Juice in Huge Gain

The average American today drinks 24 times as much fruit juice as he did eight years ago, according to Bruce McDaniel, general manager of the Mutual Orange distributors of Redland, Calif.

Last year the nation's pack of unfermented fruit juices, exclusive of cider, was 24 million cases; in 1931 it was slightly over one million cases, McDaniel stated. At least 14 different juices are being packed today, with citrus fruits and pineapple leading the field, he said.

"Changes in public taste are responsible only in part for this huge increase," McDaniel said. "A bigger factor is said to be the rapid development of America's efficient mass distribution system, which has brought an abundant supply of fresh fruits and vegetables within the budget range of millions of families in the lower income brackets."

McDaniel cited a recent nationwide citrus fruit campaign launched by chain stores and other retailers to move bumper crops in Florida, California and Texas, as a graphic example of the operation of this system. During the campaign, consumption of citrus fruits and fruit juices was boosted as much as 60 per cent over the same period of the previous year, he said. In 1931 of the three 10-day periods of the campaign, one chain store organization alone moved approximately 78,000,000 oranges, equal to two and a half oranges for every family in the nation.

"Extensive newspaper advertising, co-ordinated sales promotion efforts and consumer education programs were utilized by 240,000 participating chain and independent stores," McDaniel said. "The campaign was the latest of more than a score of similar 'producer-consumer' movements staged to assist producers and at the same time provide substantial savings to housewives."

Loan Exhibition At Woodstock for Period 1915-1925

Woodstock, May 5.—A loan exhibition of paintings and drawings by Woodstock artists has been collected in the Woodstock art gallery by Carl Eric Lindin, president of the Woodstock Artists' Association.

The exhibition has been collected with great care to represent a period from about 1915 to 1925. The show is a documentary record of the work in the colony at that time. There is an interesting comparison between the work of the conservative and already well known artists of that period with that of the younger group of the time, who were called radical then, and are now called conservative by a new group.

In the exhibition are the delicate and dreamy landscapes of Birge Harrison, Bolton Brown or Kenneth Hayes Miller; but side by side the work of Judson Smith, Charles Rosen, or Henry Lee McFee, at a time when they were experimenting with new forms of painting, feeling their way toward their present work. There is a drawing by Henry Lee McFee, done in 1919, which must have shocked his contemporaries at the time, for it could well pass today in a show of extreme work.

Paintings by Judson Smith and Charles Rosen of a somewhat later period show the development through several styles. The show is evidence of the eternal development from one age to another, and must point a moral to the present "youngsters" who tend to regard their struggle against convention as the first or at least the most important, in the history of the artists' fight for freedom.

The complete catalogue is as follows: Kenneth Hayes Miller, "Landscape," 1921; Bolton Brown, "Sugar Maple," "Wintergreens," "Little Mountain," "Naiads," "Below the Falls," Anita Smith, "St. Paul Du Vin," 1919; Bolton Brown, "Marion," 1917; Zulma Steele, "Landscape," 1920; Eve Schutze, "Portrait," 1918; Neil Ives, "Portrait," Henry Lee McFee, "Still Life," 1921; Florence Webster, "Landscape," 1925; Paul Cornoyer, "James Wardwell," circa 1915; Julia Leaycraft, "Portrait," 1925; Carl Eric Lindin, "Nocturne," 1920; Judson Smith, "Figure Out of Doors," 1919; John Carlson, "December Twilight," 1921; Henry Mattson, "Elis," 1924; Harry Leith-Ross, "Snow Scene," Henry Mattson, "Farm," Birge Harrison, "Down the St. Lawrence," 1915; McFee, "Objects on Table," 1919; Eugene Speicher, "Figure," 1922; Carl Eric Lindin, "Hervey White," 1918; McFee, "Study," 1925; Alice Wardwell, "Drawing," 1925; George Bellows, "Benediction in Georgia," 1918; Orville Peets, "Passos dos Arcos," 1920; William E. Schumacher, "Portrait," 1922; illustrations by Kaj Klitgaard; Georgina Klitgaard, "Portrait," William Schumacher, "Bouquet," 1915; Lucile Blanch, "Rock City View," 1925; Charles

Scribner's to Suspend

New York, May 5 (AP)—Breaking more than a half-century of uninterrupted publication, Scribner's Magazine will be suspended after its May issue. Magazine Associates, its publishers, said the action was due to a scarcity of working capital coinciding with a summer period in which magazines generally encounter a slump in revenues. "If enough capital is 'secured to operate soundly,' the announcement explained, 'publication will be resumed in the fall.'" The magazine's first issue was published in January, 1887, and in the ensuing 52 years works of the leading writers of the period appeared in the periodical. The publishers said the magazine's circulation reached an all-time high of 126,000 in April, while in both March and April net advertising revenues broke records of 25 years.

A bronze memorial tablet to Will Rogers has been placed in the Parish Church of the Transfiguration (Little Church Around the Corner) in New York City. It was donated by the Lambs, actors' organization, of which Rogers was a member.

Gift Corner "price brackets"

A WOMAN may start out for the Gift Corner with the most enthusiastic of intentions, but in looking at so many things, end up in confusion. Seeing too much can be as bad as seeing too little, and there isn't much we can do about it.

However, we have given much thought to minimizing the difficulties of gift shopping; we have stocked our Gift Corner only with things which are useful; required that they be in good taste; arranged for the continuous presentation of new things, and provided several price ranges.

Did you know there is a price bracket which begins at twenty-five cents and goes to two dollars? It includes the little seasonable things you need for your home, for prizes, birthdays, and miscellaneous showers.

Did you know that from two to five dollars you can choose beautiful things appropriate for Mother's Day, Father's Day, graduation and bridesmaids' gifts?

Have you stopped to think that the Gift Corner is the logical place to find wedding presents up to ten dollars—charming things for the home with enduring qualities?

If you've already gasped at the way gift occasions "bunch-up" in May and early June—just decide on your price range, then pay us a visit. This is ideal shopping weather!

Schneider's Body Taken From River

Schneider, secretary-treasurer of seven Pendergast business enterprises, disappeared Monday at about the time Pendergast appeared in federal court and pleaded innocent to federal charges of evading taxes on $443,500 income in 1935 and 1936.

In the automobile were found two notes, one addressed to his wife and the other to a friend, Phil Abry. Both indicated suicide but U. S. District Attorney Maurice Milligan at once expressed a doubt.

He ordered an immediate investigation "to ascertain whether his disappearance is a hoax, a suicide or that he met foul play."

The district attorney said Schneider had made a "complete and detailed statement" regarding Pendergast's affairs and income with relation to the various corporations he headed and of which Schneider was an official. This statement could not be used at any trial in Schneider's absence because the defense would have no way of challenging it.

Continues Dragging

After Schneider's disappearance officials and rivermen dragged the river continuously. Mrs. Schneider, accepting the suicide theory, offered a reward of $250 for recovery of her husband's body.

Meantime, reports came in that a man resembling Schneider had been seen at several points, including Cincinnati, Hays, Kas., and Denver.

Three government river workers, making soundings from a launch, found the body.

The workers tied a rope to the body, pulled it ashore and called Coroner W. L. Wyson in North Kansas City. FBI agents and police hurried to the place.

The body was identified definitely by Robert T. Lyons, superintendent of the Ready Mixed Concrete Company of which Schneider was secretary-treasurer.

HEADACHE?

How Korea Was Named

Korea was the name given the country occupying a peninsula in northeastern Asia, by foreigners, particularly Europeans. The Koreans themselves as well as other Orientals preferred to call the kingdom Chosyon, because that was the ancient native name. Chosyon, usually spelled Chosen in English, is derived from the Chinese Ch'ao Hsien. It was natural that the Japanese, after they took possession of the kingdom and made it part of their empire, should prefer to call it by its native name.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

The Characters
Jocelyn Russell, beautiful, young heiress.
Talbot Mack, proud but poor farmer.

Yesterday, Jocelyn clashes with Talbot as soon as he arrives. Old Talbot butts into her party.

Chapter Five

Family Conferences

JOCELYN caught sight of Bob and hauled him. There were more introductions.

"Well," said old Mack, "you're a likely enough looking young fellow. Look like you had some getup and kit."

"Say," asked Bob, catching his sister's distress signal, "have you had a look at our ocean yet?" "Ocean? You got an ocean?" The old man appeared somewhat confused.

"The Pacific Ocean," Bob laughed. "And you a sailor! Come along and I'll take you down on the beach. I've been hoping for six months that you'd come here. I want to talk to you." Defiantly, he slipped his hand under the old man's elbow and helped him stand up. Old Mack smiled uncertainly at the delighted faces surrounding him.

"Scuse me, folks, please. Guess I'm a bit onstayed. . . ain't usta fancy drinks. I hope you'll come night. I . . . I haven't any dress to wear but that awful silk one I had on this afternoon. I'll bet hers came from Paris. . . ."

"Put on a clean house-dress," he said. "They know we're poor. And we have to eat with them, Gretchen. At least tonight. We haven't any money left. Tomorrow I'll figure out a way to get some money."

Gretchen touched her finger to an old chest of drawers inside the door. "You know, Talbot, I'll bet this stuff is worth lots of money. I saw things like this in an antique shop once when I was in St. Louis with Andy."

A Little Snob

TALLY'S glance was speculative. "Maybe you've got something there, Sis." His mouth hardened. "Half of everything here is ours, and we have to eat."

He went on into his own room and shut the door. Standing at the opened windows he stared across the landscaped lawns to where the sun, with a lazy burst of light, was going to set below the horizon. Talbot's broad young shoulders slumped dejectedly. He had wished to be diplomatic to be pleasant; to agree to whatever arrangement the Russells offered; yet now he felt differently. For himself he did not care; but for his family he did. His lips thinned with purpose and his high-bridged nose resembled more than ever the beak of a fierce, predatory eagle. Half of "This is one time we've got to unite forces."

here real often. I know lots more stories."

Jocelyn sank weakly into a chair. "What have I done to deserve this?" she wailed softly to Thorndyke. "I feel a nervous breakdown coming!"

Then to her ears came the remonstrance of her guests: "What a character!" . . . "Did you ever hear such tall yarns! . . . 'Positively unique, my dear. . . perfectly priceless!'"

Geoffrey joined her. "You look upset, dear. Is anything wrong? I just now finished a rubber of bridge."

"You tell him, Thor," Jocelyn whispered. "I can't."

Poor Relatives

FINALLY, just before sundown, the last guest offered his amused goodby and drove off, observed by young Talbot as he unloaded the last suitcase from the trailer and carried it through a rear door. He was weary and angry and resentful. He had not wanted to come here. He had known they would not be welcome. But it was even worse than he had imagined. These Russells were people who had been bred to culture and luxury and probably had no idea of how poor people existed; nor cared.

The butler had designated six rooms to them in an out portion of the twenty-five room manor. Mrs. Mack, tired from the long trip, had been airing out the musty rooms and mothball-scented bedding and, with Gretchen's help, trying to unpack the luggage and straighten their quarters.

Tex, as well as Gramp, had disappeared. Talbot trudged up the back stairway and down the long, dim hallway. This part of the house had evidently been unused for many years. It smelled of age and neglect. The once rich carpets were faded and thin; the furniture was creaky and uncomfortable. As it had its own back entrance and separate hallway, he surmised it had been built some time before the rest of the great brick mansion.

Gretchen called to him from a doorway. "There's lots of hot water, Talbot. I put some towels and soap in the bathroom off your room and scrubbed the tub. Gee, this is a swell place, isn't it?" "Like it, Sis?"

"I . . . I guess so," she faltered, then went on with strange forced cheerfulness. "But of course it seems strange right now. We . . . we'll have to get used to it."

"And used to being treated like poor relatives!" he growled. "We aren't even that," she said miserably. "Oh, I wish we didn't have to eat dinner with them to-this place belongs to us, he thought, and half of this place we will take! As for money; if Gretchen is right about the furniture being antique, we have a right to sell it and use the money to start some sort of paying business. As for the girl Jocelyn; she is without doubt a little snob. Beautiful, yes; but cold and incredibly haughty. It would be a pleasure to upset her private apple-cart!"

Just before dinner that evening the three Russells held council in the library.

Thorndyke, impeccable in dinner clothes, the starched wings of his collar, nudging his rather heavy jaws, paced irritably back and forth before the long velvet-draped windows. "It won't do!" he declared. "I won't do it at all. We can't have those impossible people living here at Seacrest. The whole of Santa Barbara is probably buzzing with it now. What will people think? What will they say? Grandmother must have been insane to make such a will! I'll contest it. I'll . . ."

"Won't it be hard to prove she was insane when she made you executor of the estate and trustee of her money?" Bob insinuated slyly. "No, Thor, that won't do. Old Jocelyn might have been eccentric but she certainly was not insane. She willed us our bed and we'll have to lie in it, and if you make it a bed of thorns and yourself a martyr, that's your tough luck! The Macks are here, and here to stay, and we may as well make the best of it. As far as I'm concerned, I think they're swell! The old man is as genuine as that ocean out there. He's old and wise and he has a grand sense of humor. I like him."

"You would," Thorndyke muttered, clearing his throat. "You never did have proper respect for tradition, family, and our name!" "And you never had respect for anyone who didn't have proper ancestors!" Bob retorted. "Thor, you're a snob!"

"Oh, stop it!" Jocelyn ordered in exasperation, nervously tapping one small foot against the leg of her chair. "This is one time we've got to unite forces. Thor, you aren't practical, and Bob, you're being sentimental. I dislike this situation and I'd give anything to change it; but the fact is the Mack family has as much legal right here as we have. The thing to do is completely ignore them. I hardly think they will be stupid enough to imagine there can be friendship between our families. Let them have the left wing of the house . . . we never use it anyhow . . . and don't make the slightest overture."

Continued tomorrow.

His Lock of Hair

Troy, N. Y., May 5 (AP)—Robert Stover, Newark, N. J., manufacturer, returned just in time to the house where he was born. When workmen tore out a fireplace in remodeling the house they found a lock of hair wrapped in tissue paper. While they worked an elderly man entered. "That," Stover said, "is my hair. My mother put it there 67 years ago."

"It is said that impetuous people have black eyes."

"Well, if they don't have them, they are to get them."

The federal government spends millions of dollars each year in attempting to promote river navigation in order to control railroad rates. Then it turns around and finds the railroads insolvent so it is going to have to spend 100 millions in saving the railroads from total bankruptcy. Of course, there is no practical river navigation to speak of in the United States, but the flow of money into the rivers is a continual threat to other forms of transportation.

Press Agent--Say, there's a bunch of people outside waiting to see you. Among them is a bishop who says he married you some time ago.

It never pays to give up, to quit. Holding on three days longer enabled Columbus to discover a new continent. The world owes far more to dogged determination than to meteor-like genius. The whole of civilization is the work of men who would never surrender.

A man in England known to be a poor shot was invited for a day's sport. In great disgust the beaters in attendance witnessed shot after shot fired, with no better result than waste of shells.

"Dear me," exclaimed the sportsman at last, "the birds seem exceptionally strong on the wing this year."

"Not all of 'em, sir," said one of the keepers. "You've shot at the same bird at least a dozen times."

"Following me about, sir," said the sportsman, irritably. "Nonsense! Why should a bird do that?"

"I dunno, sir, I'm sure," replied the keeper, "unless 'e's 'anging round for safety."

Fault-Finders

The human race, said Oliver Wendell Holmes, is divided into two classes--those who go ahead and do something, and those who sit around and inquire, "Why wasn't it done the other way?" The world seldom rewards those who find fault.

Edson Introduces Group to Kiwanis

Five boys under direction of Howard Weston of the Y. M. C. A. were introduced at Kiwanis Thursday at the noon luncheon by Harry Edson, prominently identified with boys' work in the city of Kingston through his activities in Y. M. C. A., N. Y. A. and Scouting activities.

The five lads, all members of the Schwenk Boys Club, under the guidance of their leader, "Mayor" Al Sonenberg, put on a program of entertainment which demonstrated the benefits of this boys' work which is being carried on in the city at the Y.

Dr. Comstock of the Kiwanis Boys and Girls' Work Committee presented Mr. Edson who spoke of the work and reminded the Kiwanis Club that this week was National Boys' and Girls' Week. He told of the fine work which is being carried on among the members of the boys' clubs at the Y. M. C. A. and then turned the program over to the five lads.

Music Provided

The five lads who provided instrumental and vocal music by their famous "Washboard Band," were Al Sonenberg, mayor; Alton Krom, city clerk; Floyd Krom, Fred Storms and James Gemmel, city judge. The boys' clubs are organized along the lines of city government with their own officials to guide and govern the club. Among the numbers was a harmonica solo, a quartet number and several vocal selections. The proceeding was carried on with the dignity of an experienced master of ceremonies by "Mayor" Sonenberg.

At the conclusion of the program President Ed Huben thanked the lads and complimented Mr. Edson on the work which he and others are carrying on.

William Mellett made a report of the Inter-Club meeting held at Poughkeepsie and suggested that there be organized a new committee to be known as the "Alibi Committee," his suggestion being prompted by the fact that seven members promised to meet in Poughkeepsie for an afternoon of golf but actually he had to support the Kingston reputation. At the evening dinner instead of ten being present there were but three.

Past President Paul Zucca in a very humorous manner told of the expedition which went to Castleton to witness the inauguration of the infant club there. Eight members made the trip after much ceremony in preparation for the trip.

Next week the Women's Musical Society will put on a program.

KENNEDYS ENTERTAIN KING AND QUEEN

Two days before they leave England for a trip to Canada and the United States, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were given a farewell dinner by Joseph P. Kennedy, United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and Mrs. Kennedy. This picture, sent from London to New York by Western Union cable, shows the crowned heads with their hosts after the dinner. Left to right: Mrs. Joseph P. Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Privacy, Please

Philadelphia — A small-town, southern school teacher told the board of education these are the reasons she wants to teach in Philadelphia:

"To be where all my neighbors won't know the number of fillings in my back teeth, or the number of grey hairs I acquired since last May;

"To be able to get set on a five no-trump bid, doubled and vulnerable without being branded the town's No. 1 moron;

"To select my slim and modest wardrobe myself, instead of by sensitive and over-persuasive village storekeepers."

Convenient Inconvenience

Baltimore — John Stricker's truck stopped and he found the tank empty.

Several blacks away he borrowed a funnel, returned and siphoned part of his cargo into the tank. Then he drove away.

His cargo was 1,500 gallons of gasoline.

Lively Figures

Albuquerque, N. M.—The tabulated figures Duncan Lang, U. S. forest service official, were studying suddenly became jitterbugs.

Inspection disclosed that a swarm of praying mantis, insects that stand erect and fold their forelegs in a praying gesture, had suddenly started exploring under Lang's paper.

Conscience

Denver—Detectives Henry Gentry and Richard Magor were making a routine inspection of a pawnshop.

A youth dressed in a gaudy new cowboy outfit approached. Then his companion, noticing the officers' badges suddenly blurted:

"Well, I guess you got us."

Before the officers recovered from the shock, the "cowboys" had confessed a $180 robbery in Eagle, Colo. They were held for investigation.

Rummage Sale

The Service League of the First Presbyterian Church will conduct a rummage sale beginning Wednesday, May 10, and continuing through Saturday, May 13, at 588 Broadway.

Anyone having articles to contribute to the sale may leave them at this store any time during the sale. Those who cannot provide for the articles to be delivered are asked to phone Mrs. Lewis Shaw, 2359-W, or Mrs. Fromer Woodard, 2638-M, before noon on Tuesday, May 9, and they will be called for.

Mrs. Andrew W. Lent was the guest speaker and gave a most interesting and inspiring talk, taking as her topic, "The Challenge of Change to the Women of Today."

A social hour was enjoyed with tea being served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ward B. Tongue and Mrs. Robert Murray.

Service League Holds May Meeting Tuesday

The May meeting of the Service League of the First Presbyterian Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the ladies parlor of the Ramsey Memorial building. There was a good attendance of members and seven guests.

After a devotional period led by Mrs. Fromer Woodard, routine business was taken up and reports of committees were given. Plans were made for many varied activities during the month.

Mrs. Lewis Shaw and Mrs. Fromer Woodard are co-chairman of a rummage sale which will be held May 10 to 13 inclusive.

The members of the league will co-operate in the sale conducted annually by the Albany Association of the Blind in this city. Mrs. William J. McVey will be in charge.

On Thursday evening the Service League is sponsoring a program of unique entertainment in the Ramsey Memorial Hall. This event will take the form of an old fashioned spring festival and the committee in charge is headed by Mrs. Clifford Van Valkenburgh.

Mrs. Andrew W. Lent was the guest speaker and gave a most interesting and inspiring talk, taking as her topic, "The Challenge of Change to the Women of Today."

APPLY THE GOLDEN RULE

Kingston will be host this week-end to many visitors from sections throughout the county, neighboring communities and adjoining states as well as from distant places. Many will be coming here for the first time to witness the program in connection with the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival. Every courtesy should be shown these visitors while in our midst. Well known for its hospitality, Kingston residents will have another opportunity to extend its usual warm welcome.

Local residents who have experienced the pleasure which comes from feeling that they are welcome in a community know what good will such a hospitable attitude creates. If visitors are greeted pleasantly and made to feel that they are welcome they will come again. And it is important that they return. To a large extent the business of Ulster county is dependent in large measure upon vacationist trade both in winter and summer. The prosperity of the county will fluctuate according as the vacationists extend or withhold their patronage. Without the vacationists real estate values would be affected adversely and local business would suffer loss of trade.

Advertising our county to attract visitors here is not enough. When they arrive all should see that they are made welcome and pleased. Tourists, vacationists, sightseers and visitors are treated very well in communities today. The Ulster county resident who travels knows this. Natives go out of their way to be of assistance, they are courteous and helpful in giving road directions and they are usually inclined to be indulgent in overlooking any little breach of minor convention.

Competition is high in communities today. If from a business angle alone, we should be hospitable and friendly to the many visitors expected here both for the Apple Blossom Festival and from the World's Fair.

PIANOS AND ROASTERS

These times, as nearly everybody knows, are not very good. There is much unemployment, business profits are small, and boys and girls emerging from high school and college still have a hard time finding jobs. Nearly all of us have to economize.

Still, things might be worse. There are indications that for many people life is at least tolerable. For instance, consider pianos and electric roasters. Current reports show, according to a business columnist, that "sales of both are running well ahead of last year's figures, and the piano business is doing so well that the manufacturers have passed a formal resolution of thanks to the industry's advertising managers."

It is well known, too, that automobiles are selling well this spring. There's another pickup, too, in home building.

Now, when so many people are buying pianos and electric roasters and automobiles, and building or buying homes, American prosperity is not strapping the bottom. Pianos are luxuries, and so are electric roasters, and possession of the latter certainly implies that the owner has something to roast.

Hard times are comparative. Our normal economic standards are so high that what seems poverty to us would be considered prosperity almost anywhere else. With our resources we should be doing still better; but even so, we might as well keep our economic perspective on straight.

NEUTRALITY

After being kicked around pretty freely in Chancellor Hitler's latest speech, Americans can find some comfort in reading the words of President Hambro of the Norwegian legislature. His people follow American action regarding the Central European crisis "with the utmost respect," he says, "because the United States is the only World War participant which did not extend its territory, is not ruling over any conquered people, and is not directly threatened by attacks."

The German people may appreciate these facts in some happier day, when they are able to get full information as to what is going on in the world.
As for the Scandinavian countries, Mr. Hambro continues, they do not want guarantees of any kind from any state groups. "We wish to remain absolutely free of alliances, absolutely neutral, because in our opinion a small neutral group is of the highest importance for European civilization in case of war."

The same thing is true of our own great group of states. If another general war breaks out, somebody should be left capable of putting the pieces together afterward.

CIVILIAN SERVICE

Holland is considering compulsory civilian service for boys of 18 and 19 years, somewhat like our own voluntary CCC service. The plan contemplates putting 60,000 youths in 200 camps for six months a year before they take their military training.

They would be given, in addition to physical education, training in trades. There would be mild discipline of the kind found in our own Boy Scout movement.

Those in favor of the plan speak of its great moral and physical advantages. They mention also that it would protect youth from unemployment. No doubt it is expected that many will not only be better prepared for jobs but will actually get jobs after the special training, as do many of the boys who emerge from the CCC camps in this country.

We still prefer to have such opportunities on a voluntary, rather than a compulsory, basis. But we have found that the CCC work has built health, morale and initiative, in addition to its accomplishments in education and relief for the boys and their families. These gains do not include important conservation and forestry work done to the advantage of the whole nation.

EVERGREENS FROM CLIPPINGS

An assistant in the botany department of the University of Washington has been experimenting for two years in the reproduction of fir trees from clippings. He has accomplished a feat formerly considered impossible.

Clippings of Douglas fir were dipped for a few minutes in synthetic compounds. Then they were set out in greenhouses and treated like ordinary seedlings. They have lived and grown. Similar cuttings, not chemically treated, died soon after planting.

The botanist is now trying the same stunt with Sitka spruce clippings. Early developments indicate that this tree may be reproduced in the same way. The result might be a spread of these fine trees to many other parts of the country.

SURGERY IN CASES OF EPILEPSY

Many of us who have followed the treatment now given to prevent attacks of epilepsy, or if not prevented the number and severity of attacks is lessened, have perhaps believed that this treatment was effective in all cases. That there are some cases not reached by the three diet methods and phenobarbital is only too true. Surgery is now used in cases that cannot be helped by other methods.

The diet treatment is:
(a) Cut down on all starch foods—bread, sugar, potatoes, pastry.
(b) Cut down on all liquids—water, tea, coffee, milk, and all soft and hard drinks.
(c) Increase the fat foods—cream, butter, fat meat, egg yolks.

To these diet rules is added a daily dose of phenobarbital as prescribed by the physician.
While the cause in most cases of epilepsy is unknown, a cause in a number of cases is damage to a part of the brain, either by a fall or by infection which has arisen in some other part of the body and has found its way to the brain by the blood stream.

After mentioning some "tests" which help show that there is some damage in a portion of the brain, including X-rays, Dr. J. P. Evans, Cincinnati, in Ohio State Medical Journal, says:
"Before the complete surgical operation to remove this damaged part is undertaken, this part should be stimulated by electricity. If this stimulation causes an epileptic attack, the surgeon is justified in removing the damaged portion of the brain."

However, before even this test is made, Dr. Evans states that the patient should be given a thorough trial of phenobarbital or other "quieting" drugs, partly to avoid unnecessary operation, partly to prove that any quieting drug used after the operation is not bringing the benefit instead of the operation itself.

The aim of the operation is to remove the damaged part of the brain leaving a lessened degree of damage than was caused by the original injury.
The thought then is when the above diet and drug treatment does not bring relief to epileptics, damage from injury or infection may be the cause. And if by careful tests this is believed to be the cause, surgery offers a fair chance of relief.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

NO A. F. OF L.-C.I.O. PEACE THIS YEAR
Babson Says C.I.O. Is Losing Ground

There is no sign of peace this year between Mr. Green and Mr. Lewis. From 1935 through last Fall the C.I.O. group steadily gained ground on the A. F. of L. A year and a half ago Lewis was so strong that he threatened to merge the less picturesque A. F. of L. into his C.I.O. Cagey old William Green, however, called time out to take the edge off the Lewis drive. Meanwhile, the breaks began to go against the C.I.O. and Lewis has since been on the defensive. However, he is not yet licked by any means. Moreover, if a consolidation ever takes place, I do think either Green or Lewis will be in the saddle.

The Law of Action and Reaction works in human relations just as it does in physics and in economics. The public is badly fed up on the C.I.O. and its tactics. Lewis's movement, popular when it started, has made enemies of many former friends. While the public is not in love with the A. F. of L., at least the methods used by Mr. Green's group seem less obnoxious than those used by the more youthful C.I.O. crowd. This public reaction is, therefore, having its effect on Lewis's power. What has happened the past week brings this out clearly.

Recession Slows Down C.I.O.

The business recession has given the Lewis unions some more bad jolts. The widespread lay-offs in the automobile and steel centers have strained the treasuries of the new C.I.O. unions. Because the A. F. of L. groups are older, they are richer than Uncle John's new unions. Their finances can stand the gaff of this slowing-down period of business better than can those of the C.I.O. To meet the reduction in income, the latter has had to let a lot of valuable organizers and other staff workers go. This has halted their drive for new members and has given them a definite setback in many plants where their roots were pretty well down a year and a half ago.

A third factor which may be the "button punch" for the beligerent Mr. Lewis was the strike in the soft coal fields. The money necessary to run his gigantic 1937 offensive against the motor and steel industries was put up largely by the United Mine Workers. They were the spearhead of the whole C.I.O. drive. I was curious as to whom Mr. Lewis was referring recently when he said that "outside interests" were backing up the rebellious bituminous mine operators. A little checking around reveals there is not much doubt as to whom John L. was referring. These "outside interests" are the big coal consumers such as the railroads, utilities, steel companies, and other large employers who simply cannot afford to pay any more for coal.

A Rear Guard Attack?

These consumers are large enough to take a great part of the output of a single coal mine. Hence, their bosses can talk turkey to the mine operators. These big consumers, inspired by Tom Girdler, Eugene Grace, and others, would like nothing better than to "put the finger" on the C.I.O. for once and for all. The Lewis adherents claim these large consumers of coal have stiffened up the backbones of the mine operators. The strike, with 340,000 miners out of work, has been a mighty costly affair for the United Mine Workers as well as for you and me. It has hit at the

Business in About Eight States May Within This Year Actually Be Given Cut in Payroll Taxes
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 5.—Good news for business men is sometimes imbedded in the technical phraseology of official announcements. That's the case with the action of the ways and means committee of the House of Representatives, as revealed by Chairman Doughton. For the fact is, businesses, large and small, in about eight states and the District of Columbia may within this year actually be given a cut in payroll taxes.

This does not mean a paper cut, such as was announced a few weeks ago, when administration leaders determined not to increase the payroll taxes due next January, but a dollars and cents cut affecting the payroll taxes which businesses are now paying. It comes about through the decision of the ways and means committee, which doubtless will be translated into law by both Houses of Congress, to permit the states to reduce the present three per cent tax which employers now pay on unemployment insurance. The reduction, however, may take place only when states have built up what are considered by the federal government to be adequate reserves and when states have met the minimum standards set up by the social security board here.

Another important change recommended by the ways and means committee and which is likely to become law would enable the several states to set up rating systems for individual employers, so that businesses with a good employment record would pay a lower or tax than employers with a poor record. In other words, a company which has been paying payroll taxes in sufficient amounts to constitute an adequate reserve against the usual hazards of unemployment will not be asked to continue to pay beyond that point.

Just what the reduction may amount to is difficult to estimate, but some of the experts figure that the unemployment insurance tax may actually be lowered in some states down to one per cent, which, compared with the three per cent now paid on payrolls, is quite a sizeable saving for a business nowadays, especially the ones in the red.

Now, as soon as about eight states begin to give these reductions, the employers in other states will want to do all they can to bring about conditions which will affect all businesses in all savings. The states which would appear to be qualified already include New York and Massachusetts, as well as the District of Columbia.

The imposition of these heavy social security taxes has been a severe drain on business. Indeed, some economists have insisted that the recession in business which started in the summer of 1937 was the direct consequence of the sudden jumping of expenses to American business in the field of payroll taxes. The deflationary effect of this tax load has been especially noted because the taxes have not been assessed on a capacity to pay, but on each and every business, irrespective of whether the business was earning money.

If the effect in the first instance was deflationary, the relief from payroll taxes may well bring on a bit of business expansion. Entirely aside from this is the confidence that will be instilled among business men as they come to understand that the congress of the United States is at last giving consideration to the drastic economic effects of the payroll taxes, the need for which has for a long time been stressed in these dispatches.

Immunization and Vaccination Said To Preserve Health

Editor, The Freeman:

Recently one of the oldest, most loved and respected residents of Kingston said to me, "I have seen many places in the world but I think Ulster county is the most beautiful of them all to live in."

No one who has lived in this county any length of time or who has chosen it as a place in which to carry on his work will either disagree with the statement of this dear lady or will long remain immune to the lure of the charm and beauty of this part of our country. But beauty of natural surroundings is not the sole basis upon which can be built the full realization of well being and happiness. Health is the prime factor which must exist before the individual or community can reach any high level of culture or begin to appreciate what nature has provided or man has made possible. Nor is health in our modern age a gift that is given to some and withheld from others by a whim of nature. Science and organization is bringing it, almost daily, nearer to complete realization.

During the last 30 or 40 years painstaking and laborious investigation, together with federal, state, municipal and county organized health programs, have made it possible for every individual, and therefore every community, to protect himself from two diseases that once ranked as the greatest scourges of humanity, Diphtheria and smallpox.

To the politically minded there is growing a strong belief that collective security is the one road to world peace. To the health-minded there are the proven facts that health can be achieved only by the application of collective prevention against disease. Thomas Jefferson's words, "The people are the only sure reliance for the preservation of liberty" might well be paraphrased. The people are the only sure reliance for the preservation of health.

For in the last analysis the health of a community depends upon the cooperation of the people of that community in the knowledge and understanding and use that is made of the means of prevention of disease that determines our combined health.

Ulster county can point with pride to her splendid record in the elimination of diphtheria. The continued vigilance of the State and the City Boards of Health, backed by the almost universal cooperation of the public has made this possible.

During the last five years there has been but one case of diphtheria in the City of Kingston and less than a dozen in the county, while the number of the cases in the state has been 9,036 with deaths among these of 330. For the same period there has not been one case of smallpox in the whole county while in the state there were about 200.

This magnificent record must be sustained at its present high level and can be so sustained by the cooperation of every individual. Such cooperation is not only a protection to oneself and children but is the first duty of everyone who has any regard for the people among whom he must live.

Individuals are not naturally immune to these dread diseases which can take such heavy toll of life, especially among the young, unless they are made immune by means which fortunately are made available to rich and poor alike. The Boards of Health, health officers in townships and state clinics in the county will furnish this protection for the asking.

The World's Fair will bring countless visitors from various parts of our country where these diseases still exist. Ulster county must be made immune to such possible invasion of contacts.

There are no contra-indications against vaccination or diphtheria immunization. Both are simple procedures attended by no risks or bad after effects. It is well known that vaccination during the first year of life gives far less reaction than when done later in childhood. The diphtheria toxoid immunization gives no reaction at all and should be given as soon as possible after the first six months of infancy.

Apple Blossom Time will soon be here. It is the loveliest of all seasons in our county—a time of freshness and beauty. It can be kept so only by keeping out the ugliness of disease. This should be the immediate task of everyone, for the collective good of all.

Jury Returns $572 Verdict in Action Against Mrs. Katz

A verdict in the sum of $572 in favor of the Ulster Fuel Oil, Heat and Power Co., was returned Thursday afternoon by the jury in the action brought by the company to recover the price of two oil burners and fuel oil from Sophie W. Katz. On trial in Supreme Court before Justice Foster were in reality two actions, one brought by Conrad Robinson and the oil corporation against Mr. Katz and one brought by Mrs. Katz and another against the fuel oil operators.

Mrs. Katz sought to recover a sum of approximately $1,500 for damage, in excess of payments made in settlement by insurance firms, done her house when she alleged an oil tank in the cellar exploded when a workman from the oil company was at work on the premises. The oil company in return sought to recover the price of an oil burner which was installed on the premises prior to a second burned which was installed to replace the one damaged by the explosion and fire.

Run of Herring Amazes Officer

The herring are running these days and residents along the Hudson are reaping a harvest of the silvery fish, using them not only for immediate consumption but putting them down by hundreds for later use.

There are all sorts of stories as to the big schools of herring which run the Hudson and into the tributary streams to spawn. Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne, who comes from a section where big snake stories and the like are the predominating fiction and the herring are of the dried variety, came back to the court house a day or so since with his eyes fairly bulging as he told the boys of a fishing scene he had witnessed on his way to Highland.

Ray's story was that when he passed over the bridge that crosses Black creek, at the foot of the Col. Payne hill, the herring were running up the creek in such numbers that he stopped for a minute to watch some fishermen who were scooping them up with a net. While he stood there, he claims, they brought up a netful that contained 125 herring. They put the net in again and when they tried to raise it the load of fish broke the hoops. He says they were dumping the fish into feed bags preparatory to carting them away.

Science has found a way to recover the oil from coffee grounds and to use it in refining sugar and in other processes.

Lovely but Little Known

Scabiosa Blue Moon, which won honorable mention in 1939 All America trials for new flowers.

Shakespeare was wrong. A rose by any other name would not smell as sweet. Suppose it were christened with the Latin name for "itch," which is scabiosa. It might then be as little known and as seldom grown as the lovely flower which does bear that name.

Mourning Bride is another name for Scabiosa, but is not much better; it is also called "pincushion flower," but that name is not attractive and quite undeserved. The scabiosas, indeed, have been consistently out of luck with names, but that has not kept them from being an ambitious, progressive family.

The blossoms from two to three inches in diameter, are double, and borne on long stems, on bushes growing to thirty inches high. Its chief merit is probably found in its exceptionally wide range of color, and the rich hues which it produces. Red, blue and yellow, all are found in the scabiosa in delightful variety. Lovely true pink, pale lavender blue, brilliant scarlet, and a crimson almost black are found in well fixed varieties.

This is one of the choice cut flowers and is grown in variety by many amateurs who find pleasure in arranging flowers for indoor decoration. The plants are easy to grow from seed, and if the flowers are picked off as they fade, flowering will continue until the plants have been killed by frost.

Shaggy Zinnia Wins Award

Zinnia Fantasy White Light awarded honorable mention in 1939 All America trials.

Most distinct of all the new zinnias is the Fantasy type. Introduced four years ago as a mixture, lovely separate colors have been selected, and for this year a white variety christened White Light won honorable mention in the All America trials.

If among its numerous merits the zinnia has a fault, it might have been found (before Fantasy arrived) in the extreme regularity of its blossom, with flat petals, lovely separate colors have been selected, and for this year a white variety christened White Light won honorable mention in the All America trials.

Fantasy zinnias have petals which are twisted, slightly fluted, and arranged in a shaggy disarray. It is as easy to grow as any zinnia and the flowers are of medium size, three to four inches in diameter. Besides the mixture originally introduced, which won an award of merit in the 1935 All America trials, there are now available Star Dust, a selection of yellow; Orange Lady, a Rosalie, a deep rose.

Another new type of zinnia which is being rapidly improved is the scabiosa-flowered, which has a semi-globular crown of florets surrounded by a row of flat petals, all of like color. It is obtainable in a mixture which has most of the zinnia colors, and makes a most useful cut flower.

Death of Mrs. M. G. Dunn Recorded From Gun Shot

According to the death certificate filed in the town clerk's office in the town of Rochester the death of Mrs. Maud G. Dunn of Kerhonkson was attributed to a self-inflicted gun-shot wound in the head.

Mrs. Dunn, widow of Houston Dunn of Kerhonkson, 50 years old was said to have been in ill health and last Saturday her body was discovered at the home of her mother, Mrs. Josephine Gosselin. Coroner Humiston of Kerhonkson was called and issued the death certificate.

At the town clerk's office, Lloyd P. Barley of the town of Rochester, it was stated that the certificate stated death was from a self-inflicted wound in the head.

Funeral services were held Tuesday with burial in Pine Bush cemetery.

St. Joseph's Holy Name Breakfast To Be Held May 14

St. Joseph's Holy Name Society will hold its annual communion breakfast Sunday, May 14, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Following the 8 o'clock Mass and communion, St. Joseph's Boy Scout Troop will lead the members in march from the church to the hotel.

The speakers at the breakfast will be Prof. William R. White of Fordham University School of Law and the Rev. John P. McCaffrey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church. Assemblyman J. Edward Conway will act as toastmaster.

Present indications point to a successful function. Members who expect to attend the breakfast are urged, however, to obtain tickets as soon as possible so that proper reservation may be made with the hotel management.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the committee and officers of the society.

Loan Exhibition At Woodstock for Period 1915-1925

Woodstock, May 5—A loan exhibition of paintings and drawings by Woodstock artists has been collected in the Woodstock art gallery by Carl Eric Lindin, president of the Woodstock Artists' Association.

The exhibition has been collected with great care to represent a period from about 1915 to 1925. The show is a documentary record of the work in the colony at that time. There is an interesting comparison between the work of the conservative and already well known artists of that period with that of the younger group of the time, who were called radical then, and are now called conservative, by a new group. In the exhibition are the delicate and dreamy landscapes of Birge Harrison, Bolton Brown, and Kenneth Hayes Miller; but side by side the work of Judson Smith, Charles Rosen, or Henry Lee McFee, at a time when they were experimenting with new forms of painting, feeling their way toward their present work. There is a drawing by Henry Lee McFee, done in 1919, which must have shocked his contemporaries at the time, for it could well pass today in a show of extreme work.

Paintings by Judson Smith and Charles Rosen of a somewhat later period show their development through several styles. The show is evidence of the eternal development from one age to another, and must point a moral to the present "youngsters" who tend to regard their struggle against convention as the first or at least the most important, in the history of the artists' fight for freedom.

The complete catalogue is as follows: Kenneth Hayes Miller, "Landscape," 1921; Bolton Brown, "Sugar Maple," "Wintergreen," "Little Mountain," "Naiads," "Below the Falls," Anita Smith, "St. Paul Du Vir," 1919; Bolton Brown, "Marion," 1917; Zulma Steele, "Landscape," 1920; Eve Schutze, "Portrait," 1918; Neil Ives, "Portrait," Henry Lee McFee, "Still Life," 1921; Florence Webster, "Landscape," 1925; Paul Corneer, "James Wardwell," circa 1915; Julia Leyscraft, "Portrait," 1923; Carl Eric Lindin, "Nocturne," 1920; Judson Smith, "Figure Out of Doors," 1919; John Carlson, "December Twilight," 1921; Henry Mattson, "Elis," 1924; Harry Leith-Ross, "Snow Scene," Henry Mattson, "Farm," Birge Harrison, "Down the St. Lawrence," 1915; McFee, "Objects on Table," 1919; Eugene Speicher, "Figure," 1922; Carl Eric Lindin, "Hervey White," 1918; McFee, "Study," 1925; Alice Wardwell, "Dr. a wing," 1925; George Bellows, "Benediction in Georgia," 1918; Orville Peets, "Passos dos Arcos," 1920; William E. Scribner's to Suspend
New York, May 5 (AP)—Breaking more than a half-century of uninterrupted publication, Scribner's Magazine will be suspended after its May issue. Magazine Associates, its publishers, said the action was due to "a scarcity of working capital coinciding with a summer period in which magazines generally encounter a slump in revenues." If enough capital is "secured to operate soundly," the announcement explained, publication will be resumed in the fall. The magazine's first issue was published in January, 1887, and in the ensuing 52 years works of the leading writers of the period appeared in the periodical. The publishers said the magazine's circulation reached an all-time high of 126,000 in April, while in both March and April net advertising revenues broke records of 25 years.

A WOMAN may start out for the Gift Corner with the most enthusiastic of intentions, but in looking at so many things, end up in confusion. Seeing too much can be as bad as seeing too little, and there isn't much we can do about it.

However, we have given much thought to minimizing the difficulties of gift shopping; we have stocked our Gift Corner only with things which are useful; required that they be in good taste; arranged for the continuous presentation of new things, and provided several price ranges.

Did you know there is a price bracket which begins at twenty-five cents and goes to two dollars? It includes the little seasonable things you need for your home, for prizes, birthdays, and miscellaneous showers.

Did you know that from two to five dollars you can choose beautiful things appropriate for Mother's Day, Father's Day, graduation and bridesmaids' gifts?

Have you stopped to think that the Gift Corner is the logical place to find wedding presents up to ten dollars—charming things for the home with enduring qualities?

If you've already gasped at the way gift occasions "bunch-up" in May and early June—just decide on your price range, then pay us a visit. This is ideal shopping weather!

Duchess D'Andria To Be Guest Here

One of the guests of honor of the Apple Blossom Festival on Saturday and Sunday will be Duchess Carafa d'Andria. While not participating in the festival program she will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Fred Luther on Elmendorf street.

Duchess Carafa d'Andria is American-born, a descendant of Matthew Thornton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. In 1932, she became the wife of Duke Fabio Carafa d'Andria, a member of one of Italy's oldest and most illustrious families, a direct descendant of the King of Naples. To quote from the New York Tribune, "The Carafa d'Andria family has given to Italy since 1020 several kings and many warriors, cardinals and statesmen, and belongs to the Holy Roman Empire. In 1435 Gion Petro Carafa was created Pope at Rome under the name of Paul the Fourth. The Dowager Duchess Carafa d'Andria was from the historical De Medici family."

Duchess Carafa d'Andria is acknowledged to be one of the most beautiful, brilliant and talented women in artistic and social circles, both here and abroad. Having sung with unusual success for many seasons with the leading musical organizations throughout the country, including the Philadelphia and Chicago Symphony Orchestras, she gave up her singing at the height of her career for the lecture platform, where she has made a great success.

ASHOKAN

Ashokan, May 4—Mrs. Reynold Bishop visited Mrs. C. G. Fuller at Mountain Laurel Lodge Thursday.

Mrs. Arthur Carter called on Mrs. Sam Hansen Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong of New Jersey spent the week-end with her father, Louis Theil.

Mrs. Herbert Cudney and son, Harold Emmet, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Anna Secor, and family on Mountain Road.

Bert Winchell went to work at Pitcairn's Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bell and daughter, Chloe, visited her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Luke Palen, in West Shokan Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hansen had tea with her brother, Griffin Herick, in Woodstock Sunday and called on her father, Fordyce Herick, and her sister, Mrs. Ruth Hogan.

Arthur Carter and wife called on Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bogart and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brooks in Allgerville Sunday.

Mrs. Earl Elmendorf has a card from her aunt, Mrs. Mary Coons, at the Seaport home in Kingston. Johnnie Davis spent the week-end with Frank Avery in Boiceville. He is thinking of joining the Boy Scouts.

Alonzo Haver went to Phenicia and Shandaken Saturday. Justin Bell and daughter, Virginia, of Hurley, had dinner with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bell, and sister, Chloe.

The condition of Everett Eckert, who is taking X-ray treatments in the Cornwall Hospital, remains about the same. On Sunday he was visited by his wife, Mrs. Everett Eckert, of Hunter, Charles Havens of Schoenectady and Mr. and Mrs. John Hyser of this place.

Oscar Pierson took a truck load of wood to Brooklyn for Mrs. Caroline Lasher last week. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saxton of Roxbury spent Wednesday night with his mother, Mrs. Reynold Bishop, at "The Inn."

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lyons spent Monday in Kingston.

Miss Fay Lyons was kept from school Monday with a severe cold. On Monday evening the Ashokan Epworth League enjoyed a hay ride sponsored by Frank Jones. There were about 25 on the trip. The ride included Olive Bridge, Boiceville, West Shokan, and around the Ashokan Reservoir.

Mrs. Caroline Lasher of Brooklyn was here Tuesday looking after her several properties.

Mrs. E. R. Kinney spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. Ella Brannen.

Four patents for hosiery and other knitted fabrics made of nylon, the new organic textile fiber derived basically from coal, water and air, have been issued by the U. S. Patent Office. With the issuance of the patents, manufacturers asserted the inventions represented "a phenomenal advance in the textile arts," assuring "a truly successful stocking from a synthetic yarn."

Woodstock Bureau Entertains Women

Woodstock, May 5.—Members of the Woodstock Home Bureau were hostesses yesterday to more than 200 members of the Eastern District Federation of Home Bureaus. The afternoon's entertainment was public, so an additional crowd from Woodstock and Kingston was present. Tea was served in the Woodstock Art Gallery for the opening exhibition of a collection of paintings representing an important period in the early days of the Woodstock colony.

The federation women arrived at the town hall at 3 o'clock for a lecture by Judson Smith, well known Woodstock artist and lecturer. Mr. Smith spoke briefly of Woodstock artists and their position in the village, and gave a brief introduction to the show on exhibition in the gallery.

Following the lecture the group attended the exhibition and tea, then visited the historic Dutch Reformed Church just next door to the gallery, and wandered through the attractive Woodstock shops.

For the federation members the day brought to a close the two day convention held in Kingston by the Home Bureau women of eight counties. The group had had luncheon at Mt. Marion, then visited the studio of Tomas Penning in High Woods. Mr. Penning explained some of the history of the local blue stone industry and exhibited some of his own sculpture. From the Pennings the women drove to Woodstock for the lecture and exhibition.

The federation was in charge of Miss Mabel Knapp of Goshen and Miss Evonne Parsons, who conducted the tour.

103 Indictments

Albany, N. Y., May 5 (AP)—The special grand jury investigation of alleged Albany county election frauds listed 103 indictments returned today. While 12 Albany lodging house proprietors pleaded guilty to charges of failure to file rooming house certificates and received suspended sentences, the grand jury returned 11 new indictments. Thus far, 46 persons have pleaded guilty, 33 of whom have been sentenced. There have been two trials, both of which ended in a jury disagreement.

Approximately 10,700,000 farm-family and hired workers in 1938 produced 25 to 30 per cent more farm products than 12,200,000 did in 1909.

Smart to See—Smarter to Buy!

The model illustrated is the Buick Special model 41 four-door touring sedan $990 delivered at Flint, Mich.*

NOBODY has to tell you, skimming along at that brisk Buick pace, that plenty of eyes are turning your direction!

It's a smart car to see, all right—what you're discovering there behind the wheel is how much more there is to this beauty than a look or two will uncover!

You're feeling the eager power that a straight-eight can pour—when it's a Dynaflex eight with a cyclone in each cylinder to give life, lift—and thrust—to every smooth-flowing mile!

You're finding out that bumps can be tamed, that car riding can be level as flying—when all four wheels, not just the front, ride on stout coiled springs of soft and cushiony steel!

You're discovering how pleasant it is to look out through windows enlarged as much as 412 square inches. And you're enjoying that very special Buick "feel," firm and taut and steady, nowhere any skittery looseness, or wind wander, or hunt!

In a word, you're beginning to realize that, smart as it is to see, this Buick's even smarter to buy.

Smarter for the extra contentment you'll get from owning it—smarter even if you had to pay a premium to get it.

But you don't have to pay a premium! Instead, this great-eight beauty is today priced lower than some sixes. Costs are below those of a year ago. Total outlay—counting included equipment you'd pay extra for elsewhere—is often less than for some cars with lower advertised prices.

So what to do? Easy! Simply turn around, head for the showroom, get down to the details of trade-in terms, monthly payments, all that!

Even there you'll find your Buick dealer ready, willing, eager to serve—just like the good and gallant car he sells!

YOU GET A BETTER USED CAR FROM A BUICK DEALER

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

The Characters
 Jocelyn Russell, beautiful, young heiress.
 Talbot Mack, proud but poor farmer.

Yesterday, Jocelyn clashed with Talbot as soon as he arrived. Old Talbot butts into her party.

Chapter Five
Family Conferences

JOCELYN caught sight of Bob and hailed him. There were more introductions.

"Well," said old Mack, "you're a likely 'nough lookin' young feller. Look like you had some getup and kit."

"Say," asked Bob, catching his sister's distress signal, "have you had a look at our ocean yet?"

"Ocean? You got an ocean?" The old man appeared somewhat confused.

"The Pacific Ocean," Bob laughed. "And you a sailor! Come along and I'll take you down on the beach. I've been hoping for six months that you'd come here."

"Want to talk to you," Defily, he slipped his hand under the old man's elbow and helped him stand up. Old Mack smiled uncertainly at the delighted faces surrounding him.

"Seuse me, folks, please. Guess I'm a bit onsteady . . . ain't usta fancy drinks. I hope you'll come night. I . . . I haven't any dress to wear but that awful silk one I had on this afternoon. I'll bet hers came from Paris. . . ."

"Put on a clean house-dress," he said. "They know we're poor. And we have to eat with them. Gretchen. At least tonight. We haven't any money left. Tomorrow I'll fix up out a way to get some money."

Gretchen touched hesitant fingers to an old chest of drawers inside the door. "You know, Tally, I'll bet this stuff is worth lots of money. I saw things like this in an antique shop once when I was in St. Louis with Andy."

A Little Snob

TALLY'S glance was speculative. "Maybe you've got something there, Sis." His mouth hardened. "Half of everything here is ours, and we have to eat."

He went on into his own room and shut the door. Standing at the opened windows he stared across the landscaped lawns to where the sun, with a lazy burst of light, was going to bed below the horizon.

Tally's broad young shoulders slumped despondently. He had wished to be diplomatic, it had pleased; to agree to whatever arrangement the Russells offered; yet now he felt differently. For himself he did not care; but for his family he did.

His lips thinned with purpose and his high-bridged nose resembled more than ever the beak of a fierce, predatory eagle. Half of the place belongs to us, he thought, and half of this place we will take. As for money, if Gretchen is right about the furniture being antique, we have a right to sell it and use the money to start some sort of paying business. As for the girl Jocelyn, she is without doubt a little snob. Beautiful, yes; but cold and incredibly haughty. It would be a pleasure to upset her private apple-cart!

Just before dinner that evening the three Russells held council in the library.

Thorndyke, impeccable in dinner clothes, the starched wings of his collar nudging his rather heavy jowls, paced irritably back and forth before the long velvet-draped windows. "It won't do!" he declared. "It won't do at all. We can't have those impossible people living here at Seaciff. The whole of Santa Barbara is probably buzzing with it now. What will people think? What will they say? Grandmother must have been insane to make such a will! I'll contest it. . . . I'll . . ."

"Won't it be hard to prove she was insane when she made you executor of the estate and trustee of her money?" Bob insinuated slyly. "No, Thor, that won't do. Old Jocelyn might have been eccentric but she certainly was not insane. But she will use her head and we'll have to lie in it, and if you make it a bed of thorns and yourself a martyr, that's your tough luck! The Macks are here, and here to stay, and we may as well make the best of it. As far as I'm concerned, I think they're swell! The old man is as genuine as that ocean out there. He's old and wise and he has a grand sense of humor. I like him."

"You would," Thorndyke muttered, clearing his throat. "You never did have proper respect for tradition, family, and our name."

"And you never had respect for anyone who didn't have proper ancestors!" Bob retorted. "Thor, you're a snob!"

"Oh, stop it," Jocelyn ordered in exasperation, nervously tapping one small foot against the leg of her chair. "This is one time we've got to unite forces. Thor, you aren't practical, and Bob, you're being sentimental. I dislike this situation and I'd give anything to change it; but the fact is the Mack family has as much legal right here as we have. The thing to do is completely ignore them. I hardly think they will be stupid enough to imagine there can be friendliness between our families. Let them have the left wing of the house. . . . we never use it anyhow . . . and don't make the slightest overture."

here real often. I know lots more stories."

Jocelyn sank weakly into a chair. "What have I done to deserve this!" she wailed softly to Thorndyke. "I feel a nervous breakdown coming on!"

Then to her ears came the remarks of her guests: "What a character!" . . . "Did you ever hear such tall yarns!" . . . "Positively unique, my dear. . . . perfectly priceless!"

Goodfrev joined her. "You look upset, dear. Is anything wrong? I just now finished a rubber of bridge."

"You tell him, Thor," Jocelyn whispered. "I can't."

'Poor Relatives'

FINALLY, just before sundown, the last guest offered his amused goodby and drove off, observed by young Talbot as he unloaded the last suitcase from the trailer and carried it through a rear door. He was weary and angry and resentful. He had not wanted to come here. He had known they would not be welcome but it was even worse than he had imagined. These Russells were people who had been bred to culture and luxury and probably had no idea of how poor people existed; nor cared.

The butler had designated six rooms to them in an unused portion of the twenty-five room manor. Mrs. Mack, tired from the long trip, had been airing out the musty rooms and mothball-scented bedding and, with Gretchen's help, trying to unpack the luggage and straighten their clothing.

Tex, as well as Gramp, had disappeared. Talbot trudged up the back stairway and down the long hall-way. This part of the house had evidently been unused for many years. It smelled of age and neglect. The once rich carpets were faded and thin; the furniture was creaky and uncomfortable. As it had its own back entrance and separate hallway he surmised it had been built some time before the rest of the great brick mansion.

Gretchen called to him from a doorway. "There's lots of hot water, Tally. I put some towels and soap in the bathroom off your room and scrubbed the tub. Gee, this is a swell place, isn't it?"

"Like it, Sis?"

"I . . . I guess so," she faltered then went on with strange forced cheerfulness. "but of course it seems strange right now. We . . . we'll have to get used to it."

"And used to being treated like poor relatives!" he growled.

"We aren't even that," she said miserably. "Oh, I wish we didn't have to eat dinner with them to-place belongs to us, he thought, and half of this place we will take. As for money, if Gretchen is right about the furniture being antique, we have a right to sell it and use the money to start some sort of paying business. As for the girl Jocelyn, she is without doubt a little snob. Beautiful, yes; but cold and incredibly haughty. It would be a pleasure to upset her private apple-cart!

Just before dinner that evening the three Russells held council in the library.

Thorndyke, impeccable in dinner clothes, the starched wings of his collar nudging his rather heavy jowls, paced irritably back and forth before the long velvet-draped windows. "It won't do!" he declared. "It won't do at all. We can't have those impossible people living here at Seaciff. The whole of Santa Barbara is probably buzzing with it now. What will people think? What will they say? Grandmother must have been insane to make such a will! I'll contest it. . . . I'll . . ."

"Won't it be hard to prove she was insane when she made you executor of the estate and trustee of her money?" Bob insinuated slyly. "No, Thor, that won't do. Old Jocelyn might have been eccentric but she certainly was not insane. But she will use her head and we'll have to lie in it, and if you make it a bed of thorns and yourself a martyr, that's your tough luck! The Macks are here, and here to stay, and we may as well make the best of it. As far as I'm concerned, I think they're swell! The old man is as genuine as that ocean out there. He Has A Few Now Hush, presidential bee, don't you cry. You'll find lots of men to sting by and by.

Son--Tell me, Daddy dear, what is a consulting physician?

Dad--He is a doctor who is called in at the last minute to share the blame.

It makes no difference how highly mechanized the army becomes, if there should be war, it still will be the men who will be gassed and wounded.

Second--Go in and finish him this time.

Father--I can't see him.

Second--Then hit him from memory.

A letter answered within 21 hours never remains unanswered.

Lady on first trip to sea--Captain, is this a good ship?

Captain--Why, madam, don't you know this is her maiden voyage?

Inconsistency
 A most capricious girl is Fate. You never know what she will do.

She looks at you with eyes of hate, and then she stoops and kisses you.

"It is said that impetuous people have black eyes."

"Well, if they don't have them, they are to get them."

The federal government spends millions of dollars each year in attempting to promote river navigation in order to control railroad rates. Then it turns around and finds the railroads insolvent so it is going to have to spend 100 millions in saving the railroads from total bankruptcy. Of course, there is no practical river navigation to speak of in the United States, but the flow of money into the rivers is a continual threat to other forms of transportation.

Press Agent--Say, there's a bunch of people outside waiting to see you. Among them is a bishop who says he married you some time ago.

Film Star--Gee, I'm almost certain I never married a bishop.

Don't Give Up
 It never pays to give up, to quit. Holding on three days longer enabled Columbus to discover a new continent. The world owes far more to dogged determination than to meteor-like genius. The whole of civilization is the work of men who would never surrender.

A man in England known to be a poor shot was invited for a day's sport. In great disgust the beaters in attendance witnessed shot after shot fired, with no better result than waste of shells.

"Dear me," exclaimed the sportsman at last, "the birds seem exceptionally strong on the wing this year."

"Not all of 'em, sir," said one of the keepers. "You've shot at the same bird at least a dozen times. 'E's following you about, sir."

"Following me about?" said the sportsman, irritably. "Nonsense! Why should a bird do that?"

"I dunno, sir, I'm sure," replied the keeper. "unless 'e's 'angin' round for safety."

Fault-Finders
 The human race, said Oliver Wendell Holmes, is divided into two classes--those who go ahead and do something, and those who sit around and inquire, "Why wasn't it done the other way?"

The world seldom rewards those who find fault.

Onandoff--Despite the recession, Wiseman has been simply coming money.

Upandown--What business is he in?

Onandoff--He works in one of the government minis.

Fred--I couldn't find this golf course yesterday.

Sam--I've always heard of the missing links.

His Lock of Hair

Troy, N. Y., May 5 (AP)—Robert Stover, Newark, N. J., manufacturer, returned just in time to the house where he was born.

When workmen tore out a fireplace in remodeling the house they found a lock of hair wrapped in tissue paper. While they worked an elderly man entered.

"That," Stover said, "is my hair. My mother put it there 67 years ago."

Wiltwyck Chapter Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary of DAR

The 50th anniversary of the Daughters of the American Revolution was celebrated by Wiltwyck Chapter Thursday with ceremonies which lasted throughout the day.

In the morning a dedicatory service was held in the churchyard of the First Reformed Church where the recently planted elm tree was dedicated by Mrs. George Duffy, New York State Regent, and a bronze marker was erected. The tree, presented by the local chapter and given by Mrs. T. G. S. Hooke, is near the grave of Governor George Clinton. Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman spoke of the need for such organizations as the Daughters of the American Revolution to combat un-American "isms." Both speakers were introduced by the chapter regent, Mrs. Burdette Tuttle.

A drum corps from Boy Scout Troop No. 12 played the bugle calls and gave a short program of music.

Following the tree dedication some 50 members and a few invited guests of the chapter attended the luncheon at the Chapter House, arrangements for which were in charge of Mrs. Homer J. Emerick.

Among those seated at the head tables were Mrs. George Duffy, Mayor Heiselman and Mrs. Heiselman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Kar-naghan, Mrs. Frank Asher of Rhinebeck, regent of the Chancellor Livingston Chapter, Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool, and officers of the local chapter, Mrs. Burdette Tuttle, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mrs. Lancelot Phelps, Mrs. William Macgregor Mills, Mrs. Adam Porter, Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence and Mrs. Clarence Dumm.

Assisting with the luncheon arrangements were Mrs. John Stein-ert, Mrs. David Terry, Mrs. George Hayes, Mrs. Adam Porter, Mrs. Howard St. John, Mrs. Hiram Whitney and five members from the Junior Group, Mrs. Frederick Hoffman, Mrs. Edgar Freese, Miss Frances Robinson, Miss Isabelle Swartwout, and Miss Margaret O'Sullivan.

The regular monthly meeting of the chapter followed the luncheon. Mrs. Asher brought greetings from the Rhinebeck chapter and Mrs. Duffy spoke on projects of the D. A. R.

Mrs. Duffy praised the local chapter for the splendid work it is doing and explained that during the past year a net gain of 545 members had been reported by the national society. Another fact reported by Mrs. Duffy is that one-ninth of the membership comes from New York state.

Mrs. Duffy then explained the four projects that the D. A. R. has undertaken for the jubilee year. One is to have a painting made of Mrs. Benjamin J. Harrison, first national president of the association, which will be hung in the Harrison home in Indiana. The second project includes reforestation in each state. The third is the raising of an endowment fund to care for Constitution and Continental Hall in Washington. The fourth project, to raise $2,000 for the air-conditioning of one of these buildings has already been completed, two gifts of $1,000 each having been given in honor of Mrs. Duffy, state regent, and Miss Page Schwarzwald of Chichester, N. Y., long an active member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

At the business meeting which preceded the regent's address, several important matters were transacted. Communications from Washington announced the acceptance of four new members into Wiltwyck Chapter. Mrs. C. Henry Anon, Mrs. Frederick Gronemeyer, Mrs. Walter Perret and Mrs. Henry Rigby, Jr.

Announcements of special interest included the annual Hudson Valley conference at Catskill, an invitation to attend the exhibit of colonial handicraft work at the Saugerties Library and an invitation from the Junior Group of Wiltwyck Chapter to attend the final meeting May 29 when a special Dutch program will be given. The Chapter House will be open Saturday from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. in connection with the Apple Blossom Festival. The local chapter is also planning special activities for Memorial Day and Flag Day. The next meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter will be held Thursday, May 18, when election of officers will take place.

Nursing Committee to Meet

The Nursing Committee of the Town of Ulster will meet at the Lake Katrine Schoolhouse Monday evening, May 8, at 8 o'clock. Dr. Clarence Gannon will be the speaker.

Quilt Exhibit at Port Ewen Tuesday

Port Ewen, May 5.—Over 50 quilts will be on display at the Exhibit of "Heirlooms of Yesterday and Tomorrow," which will be held Tuesday afternoon and evening, May 9, at the Port Ewen Reformed Church under the auspices of the Dorcas Society.

There will be several very old quilts, over 100 years old, as well as some recently pieced and quilted. A wide variety of patterns has been assembled. Of the old quilts, there is a star design done in blue and white owned by Mrs. Charles Gustafson of West Shokan. This quilt owes its remarkable state of preservation to the fact that it was used only as a spread for a sick bed. Mrs. Samuel Tinney is showing a six pointed star over 88 years old which was made by her great-grandmother Brewster, who was 93 years old at the time. Her husband was a direct descendant of Elder Brewster who came to Plymouth Colony on the Mayflower. Mrs. Tinney is also showing a star quilt and a wool log cabin quilt pieced by Mrs. Esther Anne Eltinge over 50 years ago. Mrs. Elvin Hutchings is exhibiting an appliqued basket quilt with tulip border which was made by her mother 100 years ago. Mrs. Basil Potter has an unusual quilt of appliqued pineapple design which is over 100 years old. The quilt won a blue ribbon at the Trinity M. E. Church exhibit. Mrs. Charles Niece is showing an unusually intricate quilt made 80 years ago by Mrs. Isiah Hutchings. Mrs. Niece is also showing a box quilt made by her mother, Mrs. Isiah Hutchings. Mrs. Myrtle Taylor will display a quilt appliqued 80 years ago by Elizabeth Wilson Taylor for her son, the Rev. John Wesley Taylor, an early pastor of the local reformed church. This is done in many different patterns and is of exquisite workmanship. Mrs. Nate Williams of Kingston is showing a quilt in blue and white applique of original design, which was made by her great-grandmother, Esther Eltinge of Woodstock, over 125 years ago. Mrs. Ferris Williams of Kingston is showing a quilt made by Mr. Williams' grandmother, of over 4,000 pieces in domino blocks. Mrs. Frank White is showing one in blue oak tree design on white, made over 125 years ago by descendants of Stonewall Jackson; one made by her grandmother in blue and white geometrical design 160 years ago, and one with blocks forming a T, which is 75 years old. Mrs. Arthur Fowler has an appliqued quilt in rose and blue made by her grandmother, Mrs. Newell Thayer.

An unusual quilt of special interest to older members of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will be the album quilt done in pinwheel pattern in dark blue calico and white muslin. This quilt bears the inscription, "Blue Circle, Clinton Avenue M. E. Church," Kingston, N. Y., 1891-1892. The quilt is now owned by Miss Mildred Lawrence of Maplewood, N. J., a granddaughter of Greenville Finger, whose name appears on the quilt. Miss Lawrence is a sister of Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, a member of the sponsoring organization of this exhibit.

Mrs. Matthew Fowler is showing a silk log cabin quilt made 50 years ago by her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Doyle; a fringed silk quilt made by Mr. Fowler's grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Smith; a snowball and Toad in Hole made by Mrs. LeGrand Doyle, and an eight pointed star by Mrs. Matilda Major. Mrs. William Webster is showing a white quilt embroidered in red silk having child's hand, dogs, cats and such on, which was made by her grandmother, Mrs. Richard Houghtaling. Mrs. Patrick Cain has one made by her grandmother of very small intricate blocks. Mrs. Edgar Freese of Kingston is showing a penny quilt with small round pieces which is very old, and a double wedding ring made for Mrs. Freese by Mr. Freese's mother, Mrs. Jesse Freese. An unusual counterpane quilted and stuffed will be shown by Mrs. Harry Van Orner.

Other patterns and exhibitors will be Miss Ella Jones with a white embroidered flower quilt; Mrs. Isabella Brayton with a four-pointed star; Dorothy Hornbeck with a basket quilt; Mrs. Bevier Sleight with a flying swallow quilt; Mrs. Floyd Beesmer, a silk crazy quilt; Mrs. Leona Dougherty a stuffed log cabin quilt; Mrs. Scott Vining a yoyo quilt; Miss Audrey LeFevre a snowball quilt; Mrs. Orsen Smith an album quilt; Mrs. Ellsworth Doyle a silk crazy quilt, and Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth an appliqued alphabet quilt, Solomon's Puzzle, Presden Plate, and a Mother Goose alphabet crib quilt of original design.

Pioneer Descendant Engaged to Wed

MISS HELEN LASHER

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Lasher of Brooklyn, formerly of Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Mae, to Oscar Theodore Galler, son of Mrs. Oscar T. Galler of Brooklyn and Pine Bush.

Miss Lasher is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Swart of Flatbush, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Slater of Kingston. She is a descendant of well-known Ulster county pioneers, among whom was Colonel Wessel Ten Broeck, one of the first settlers of the Hudson valley region and prominent in early Kingston history.

Mr. Galler is a graduate of the Engineering School of Science and Technology at Pratt Institute and is employed by the Pioneer Aviation Instrument Company, Bendix Airport, New Jersey.

Both Miss Lasher and Mr. Galler have spent a great part of their lives in Ulster county. The wedding will take place this summer.

Birthday Party

Richard Maines, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maines of Port Ewen, entertained a few of his friends at his home Wednesday in honor of his 6th birthday. A peanut hunt and other games were enjoyed. The table represented a circus with a tent of a Jack Horner pie. Balloons and a large birthday cake decorated with circus animals completed the decorations. Guests present were Thomas Morrissey and Bruce Wilson of Connelly, Arthur Maurer of Kingston, Robert Munson, Roger Winchell, Wayne Berens, Frank Terwilliger, Matthew Doyle and Cameron Page.

Woolsey-Alliger

Edith E. Alliger of Henry street and Charles E. Woolsey of Clinton avenue were united in marriage Wednesday morning by the Rev. C. L. Palmer at his home on Washington avenue. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mosher of Greenville Park. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Woolsey will make their home in Kingston.

Hostess on Birthday

Miss Patricia Craft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Craft of Johnston avenue was hostess at a dinner party Wednesday in celebration of her 11th birthday. Her guests were Helma Rosenberg, Jane Anne Forst, Marian Gage, Jeanne de La Vergne, Margaret Phelan, Pam Mandell, Barbara Freer, Judith Strong and Betty Roosa.

Elected Class President

Roger Mable, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Mable of Green street, Port Ewen, was recently elected president of next year's senior class at Syracuse University.

Mable won the post over a field of four other candidates with a plurality of 37 votes. It was the first class election at Syracuse ever to be held in the spring in accordance with new regulations.

Junior in the College of Business Administration majoring in transportation, Mable is a member of Delta Upsilon social fraternity, Corps and Coffin junior honorary, and Boar's Head dramatics honorary. He is also manager of the varsity football team for next season and a member of the crew.

Choir Meeting Held

The monthly meeting of the newly organized Reformed Church of the Comforter choir was held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of the president, Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey, 23 Lindsley avenue. A constitution and by-laws were submitted and adopted, and plans for future activity were discussed. The meeting was closed with a social hour and refreshments.

Mendelssohn Club Rehearsal

Members of the Mendelssohn Club are reminded of the rehearsal Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the American Legion Building, preparatory to the special union service at the Municipal Auditorium.

Events Tonight

6:30 p. m.—Second annual banquet of officers and teachers of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church School.

7:30 p. m.—meeting of the Men's Club, First Reformed Church.

8 p. m.—"Mama's Baby Boy," First Reformed Church.

HOME BUREAU

Lake Katrine Unit

The members of the Lake Katrine Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. William T. Hooke on Thursday afternoon. A lesson on laundering slips and foundation garments was given in a very efficient manner by Mrs. Herman Schuler and Mrs. Donald Parish. They also demonstrated a simple way of testing fibre content of cottons, rayons and silks.

Arrangements and reservations were made for the federation meetings, banquet, luncheon at Mt. Marion and tea on Thursday at Woodstock.

The next meeting of the local unit will be held at the home of Mrs. Richard Van Etten on Thursday, May 11. Mrs. Archie Van Benschoten will talk on cupboard arrangements. On May 15 the members of Lake Katrine are invited to visit her home to look over recent improvements she has made in her kitchen.

Those present were the hostess, Mrs. W. Hooke; Mrs. W. Powers, Mrs. H. Schuler, Mrs. R. Everett, Mrs. T. Munson, Mrs. J. Forman, Mrs. E. Sagendorf, Mrs. G. Adams, Mrs. D. Parish, Mrs. K. Parish and Mrs. G. Parish.

Your Philosophy—Is It Chance or Plan?

Live Your Life Successfully

A philosophy of life—you have one whether you know it or not! Unconsciously you may have a defeatist philosophy. In the face of opportunity you give room to such thoughts as "Oh! well, it's all the same in a hundred years." But what a winning philosophy is yours if your mind is filled with courageous thoughts, if great philosophical thinkers are your guide.

Fearlessly you get what you want—a job, success, happiness. You say to life like the Greek philosopher, Epictetus, "Bring whatever you please, and I will turn it into good."

Not for you then to drift along from day to day. But you strive ever for perfection, the great Plato's recipe for happiness. In little things as in big your life can change for the better. See anew your immediate circle, the world around you. The modern Lin Yutang said joy is to be found in the most everyday experiences and it is true.

Build a winning philosophy on the noble thoughts of inspiring thinkers. Our 32-page booklet interestingly explains the teachings of great philosophers—from Epicurus of the ancients to Bertrand Russell of the moderns.

Laboratory Head Will Be Speaker

Albany, May 5.—Dr. J. S. Taylor, director of laboratories in Kingston, will be one of the speakers at the New York State Conference of Mayors session to be held June 5, 6 and 7 at Niagara Falls, it was announced today.

It was announced that because so many of the cities and villages of the state are now confronted with so many emergent problems that the entire program of the 13th annual meeting of the conference will be devoted exclusively to such problems.

Four other state municipal organizations will hold their annual meetings at the same time and place. These are city and village clerks, fire chiefs, municipal engineers and planning officials.

Rummage Sale Monday

Music Club Meets
Highland, May 5.—A short program on opera favorites was presented Tuesday afternoon by Miss Ruth Goldsmith at the meeting of the Music Study Club at the home of Mrs. Julius W. Blakely.

"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Samson and Delilah, Saint Saens, was given as a piano solo by Miss June Reynolds; vocal solo, "Song of the Flea," from Faust, Mrs. Arthur Kurtz; Miss Elizabeth Salese gave a half hour playlet of one act, "Enter the Hero," piano solo, "Largo," Handel, Mrs. Oliver Kent; piano duet, "Il Trovatore," Verdi, Mrs. N. D. Williams, Mrs. Julius Blakely.

During the business meeting presided over by the president, Mrs. Kurtz, a nominating committee of Mrs. George E. Dean, Mrs. William Lais, Mrs. Elmer Fisher, was appointed. They will report at the meeting on May 16. It was also decided to hold an evening meeting later in the month as the closing event for the club. The musical numbers will be arranged by the president and Mrs. Kurtz. At this time each member is entitled to ask one guest.

The hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. Albert Martin and Mrs. Elmer Fisher, served refreshments. Those present were Mrs. Jennie Abrams, Mrs. W. D. Bond, Mrs. William D. Corwin, Mrs. Oliver Kent, Miss Helen Kent, Mrs. A. Jerome Pratt, Miss Reynolds, Mrs. Victor Salvatore, Miss Salese, Mrs. A. W. Williams, Miss Julia Van Keuren, Mrs. Helen D. Brown, Mrs. Kurtz, Mrs. Lais, Mrs. Irving Rathgeb, Mrs. Blakely, Mrs. N. D. Williams, Mrs. Franklin Walker and Miss Goldsmith. Miss Ada Van Nostrand was a guest. Summer is the musical subject for the meeting on May 16, with Mrs. Walker as chairman and Miss Edna Curry and Mrs. Harry Colyer as hostesses.

Village Notes

Highland, May 5.—The past masters will confer the third degree upon a class of three candidates at the next communication of Adonai Lodge, 715, F. & A. M., on May 8.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dunsinber were present in Marlborough Friday evening when their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Shurtler were given a surprise on the 25th anniversary of their wedding. Mr. Shurtler is organist in the Presbyterian Church and following choir rehearsal that evening the Rev. Claud McIntosh invited the choir to the mansion where were gathered others. Mr. and Mrs. Shurtler were presented with a silver sugar and cream set and a wedding cake baked by Mrs. Fred Velie.

The nominating committee, Mrs. William Russell and Miss Edna Curry, for P. T. A., met Tuesday evening with Miss Raymond.

Some tourists from Yakima, Wash., stopped Saturday night with Mrs. J. W. Blakely and reported they knew Dr. George Scofield and his sister, Miss Carol Scofield, who formerly lived here while Dr. Scofield was pastor of the Presbyterian Church. He is now in Walla Walla.

Mr. and Mrs. George White of Norfolk, Va., spent Monday night with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Curry while enroute to Onondaga.

Fifty persons attended the card and game party given Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Finley under the auspices of Highland Chapter, 385, Order of the Eastern Star. Pinochle, dominoes, Chinese checkers, contract and auction bridge were played. Sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Van Nostrand drove up last week from Oradell, N. J., and spent the day with the former's sister, Miss Ada Van Nostrand.

Irving R. Rathgeb were present. William H. Maynard on May 1 took over the contents, by purchase of the grocery store of Charles C. Whittaker. Mr. Whittaker has been a leader in the grocery business for 25 years and has earned a well deserved rest.

The bridge club met on Friday last with Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Sr., and Mrs. William De Rango and friend of Poughkeepsie were guest players.

Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail accompanied some friends from Poughkeepsie Monday on a ride to Albany where they visited the Albany Art and Historical Society building. Mrs. Vail has a choice collection of old glass exhibited there.

An executive committee meeting of the Mission Circle which included Mrs. Clarence Rathgeb, Miss Laura Harcourt and Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail met Tuesday afternoon with Miss Eliza Raymond.

Mrs. A. Squiers was a guest of the afternoon.

Mrs. A. W. Lent was the guest speaker at the meeting of the service club of the First Presbyterian Church in Kingston Tuesday afternoon. She was accompanied by Mrs. Richard Burton, Mrs. Oliver J. Tillson, Mrs. Alfred Coutant, Mrs. Edgar Boyce.

Mrs. Franklin Walker and Mrs. Emily Hasbrouck substituted for Mrs. Bertha Wisemiller and Mrs. Fred L. Vail at the Monday afternoon bridge club with Mrs. C. E. Baldwin hostess.

There was not a large attendance at the trap shoot on Sunday on the grounds of the Rod and Gun Club. The high scores were held by William Brown of Marlborough and Guido Glazzo, of Clintonville, who held 24 out of 25 shots.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dunsinber called upon cousins of Mr. Dunsinber, Miss Bertha Sutton and Mr. and Mrs. Edna Curry in New Hurley on Sunday.

There were about 50 members of Sunshine I. O. O. F. and Vineyard Rebekah Lodges, who attended the service in the Presbyterian Church Sunday evening in commemoration of the 120th anniversary of the Fellowship. Mrs. Gladys Mearns sang "My Task" as a special number and the sermon touched on the blessings Job received when he forgot his troubles and prayed for his friends.

Camp-o-Ree Plans Near Completion

Plans for the third annual Camp-o-ree of the Ulster-Greene Boy Scout Council, to be held on the army grounds, Kingston, June 2 to 4, are nearing completion and Executive Burns says that indications are it will be an outstanding event.

Troops are working hard on the program and an attendance of around 600 scouts and scouters is looked for. The following program for the week-end has been arranged:

Friday afternoon—Troops arrive and set up camp.

Friday evening—District campfires.

Saturday morning—Rehearsal for the circus to be given in the afternoon.

Saturday afternoon, 3:30 o'clock—Scout circus, with all scouts taking part. This is a 10-act show, demonstrating some of the things scouts do in the troops. The public is invited and there is no charge for admission.

Saturday evening—A big council fire will be held.

Sunday morning—Church services. Protests and Catholics will be held on the grounds.

Sunday afternoon—Camp will be broken.

New ways to prepare spring greens are described in Cornell bulletin E 178, "The Art of Vegetable Cookery," which may be obtained free by writing to the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y.

Rail and Utility Stocks Show Small Gains on Thursday

Rail and utility stocks yesterday showed small gains, continuing the rise of the past three or four days, but industrials edged off toward the close, showing a loss for the day of 0.44 point, to 131.86 in the Dow-Jones averages. Rails were up 0.27 point, to 26.93 and utilities were head 0.14 point, to 23.18. The news that the coal strike was being settled, and that a nationwide coal strike was threatened had its effect on the market in the afternoon.

Bond averages showed a slight gain for the day although the close was below the best levels. Commodities were mixed with the index up fractionally. Cotton futures closed two points higher to one lower. Wheat went up sharply, gaining a cent and a quarter in Chicago. As British purchases estimated at 1,500,000 bushels were reported, raw sugar sold in the British market at a nine-year high level, equal to 1.52 cents a pound, f.o.b. Cuba. Wool tops closed steady and unchanged to five points higher on a turnover of around 475,000 pounds. Corn was up 5-8 cents a bushel in Chicago.

There was early weakness in the London market following the resignation of Russian Foreign Commissar Litvinoff, but there was a brisk rally and the close was practically unchanged. Paris market closed irregular.

Early reports from Detroit auto factories indicate that domestic sales of new cars and trucks in April did not come up to what had been expected. Incomplete estimates for seven makes, comprising 50 per cent of the industry's total, indicate that April volume was off about seven per cent from March and up only 58.8 per cent from April last year.

The 2,000 delegates of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, meeting in Washington, yesterday adopted 26 specific recommendations, asking for repeal of the Wage and Hour Act and revisions or abandonment of a large number of other New Deal key regulations. The Wage and Hour Act was declared impracticable of application to widely varying conditions. Complete abandonment of the underlying philosophy of the WPA was asked. Amendment also of the Wagner Act was asked for.

Carloadings last week rose 27-309 cars, total being 586,015, an increase of 7.9 per cent over the same week in 1938.

Loft Candy Co. showed net loss of $393,734 for the first quarter of this year, compared with net loss of $195,545 in the 1938 quarter.

Continental Can had net income of $7,158,840 for the 12 months ended March 31, vs. net of $8-362,025 in preceding year. Humble Oil had net in 1938 of $35,800-353, $3.98 a share, vs. net preceding year of $46,924,001, $5.22 a share.

Columbia Broadcasting declared dividend of 35 cents on Class A and B common; paid 25 cents three months ago.

The soft-coal shutdown was extended to about 95 per cent of the industry yesterday. B. M. T. and R. T. subways in New York were to be closed operations by 8 per cent this morning because of threatened fuel shortage. Major industrial users apparently have supplies sufficient for at least a week. Utility firms are said to be even better supplied.

Held at Capital

Washington, May 5 (AP)—A man booked by police as Harry Koff, 30, of Washington, was jailed today and held for investigation after a commotion on the Capitol grounds during a parade in honor of President Somoza of Nicaragua. Police said secret service men would investigate charges that Koff attempted to grab a rifle from one of the soldiers guarding the line through which Somoza and President Roosevelt passed.

To Serve Supper

A fish supper will be served this evening at the closing of the annual fair through which Somoza and President Roosevelt passed.

New York, May 5 (AP)—The stock market tilted downward today, although selling pressure was unusually light throughout.

A small-sized rally at the start was short-lived and fractional gains were converted into declines of as much. With the ticker tape barely creeping near the final hour, signs of a come-back were in evidence here and there. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 400,000 shares.

Sentiment apparently was aided somewhat by the moderate tone of Polish Minister Beck's speech at Warsaw, answering the Nazi demands on Danzig and the corridor, but buyers were believed to have been stymied by the domestic soft coal tie-up which hourly was assuming more serious proportions. Business news provided scant stimulation marketwise.

Securities at London, Paris and Amsterdam steadied in the wake of the Beck address, but sluggishness marked the proceedings in these centers.

Bonds and commodities were a shade uneven.

Inclined to give ground were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, N. Y. Central, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward and U. S. Gypsum.

Slipping in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed, Lake Shore and Consolidated Copper Mines.

Glass on Wheels
A railroad train, the coaches of which were constructed entirely of glass between wheels and roof, left Liverpool, England, in November, 1937, on a tour of important cities of England, Scotland and Wales to demonstrate the possibilities of glass for construction, homes building and equipment. It required more than 120,000 pieces of special glass to construct the exterior of the train. The interior even had a glass bathroom. Manufactured by a Lancashire firm of glass makers, the train was equipped with practically every known product of the glass-making industry.

Sun Spots Upset Radios
If your radio gives consistently bad reception, think twice before blaming the manufacturers. It may be due to sun spots, according to A. L. Durkee, engineer of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, who explains that the latest 11-year sun-spot cycle is due to reach its peak sometime in 1939. Studying the record of 18 such cycles, Durkee has found that the cycle maximum is followed by a period of magnetic disturbance that may twist words beyond recognition, make the philharmonic sound like a group of amateurs.

Edson Introduces Group to Kiwanis

Five boys under direction of Howard Weston of the Y. M. C. A. were introduced at Kiwanis Thursday at the noon luncheon by Harry Edson, prominently identified with boys' work in the city of Kingston through his activities in Y. M. C. A., N. Y. A. and Scouting activities.

The five lads, all members of the Schwenk Boys' Club, under the guidance of their leader, "Mayor" Al Sonnenberg, put on a program of entertainment which demonstrated the benefits of this boys' work which is being carried on in the city at the Y.

Dr. Comstock of the Kiwanis Boys and Girls' Work Committee presented Mr. Edson who spoke of the work and reminded the Kiwanis Club that this week was National Boys' and Girls' Week. He told of the fine work which is being carried on among the members of the boys' clubs at the Y. M. C. A. and then turned the program over to the five lads.

Music Provided

The five lads who provided instrumental and vocal music by their famous "Washboard Band," were Al Sonnenberg, mayor; Alton Krom, city clerk; Floyd Krom, Fred Storms and James Gemmel, city judge. The boys' clubs are organized along the lines of city government with their own officials to guide and govern the club. Among the numbers was a harmonica solo, a quartet number and several vocal selections. The proceeding was carried on with the dignity of an experienced master of ceremonies by "Mayor" Sonnenberg.

At the conclusion of the program President Ed Huben thanked the lads and complimented Mr. Edson on the work which he and others are carrying on. William Miller made a report of the Inter-Club meeting held at Poughkeepsie and suggested that there be organized a new committee to be known as the "Alibi Committee," his suggestion being prompted by the fact that seven members promised to meet in Poughkeepsie for an afternoon of golf but actually he had to support the Kingston reputation. At the evening dinner instead of ten being present there were but three.

Past President Paul Zucca in a very humorous manner told of the expedition which went to Castle-ton to witness the inauguration of the infant club there. Eight members made the trip after much ceremony in preparation for the trip.

Next week the Women's Musical Society will put on a program.

KENNEDYS ENTERTAIN KING AND QUEEN

Two days before they leave England for a trip to Canada and the United States, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were given a farewell dinner by Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to the Court of St. James, and Mrs. Kennedy. This picture, sent from London to New York by Western Union cable, shows the crowned heads with their hosts after the dinner. Left to right: Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, King George, Queen Elizabeth and Ambassador Kennedy.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Privacy, Please

Philadelphia — A small-town southern school teacher told the board of education these are the reasons she wants to teach in Philadelphia:

"To be where all my neighbors won't know the number of fillings in my back teeth, or the number of grey hairs I acquired since last May."

"To be able to get set on a five no-trump bid, doubled and vulnerable without being branded the town's No. 1 moron."

"To select my slim and modest wardrobe myself, instead of by sensitive and over-persuasive village storekeepers."

Convenient Inconvenience

Baltimore — John Stricker's truck stopped and he found the tank empty.

Several blacks away he borrowed a funnel, returned and siphoned part of his cargo into the tank. Then he drove away.

His cargo was 1,500 gallons of gasoline.

Lively Figures

Albuquerque, N. M. — The tabulated figures Duncan Lang, U. S. forest service official, were studying suddenly became jitterbugs. Inspection disclosed that a swarm of praying mantis, insects that stand erect and fold their forelegs in a praying gesture, had suddenly started exploring under Lang's paper.

Conscience

Denver — Detectives Henry Gentry and Richard Magor were making a routine inspection of a pawnshop.

A youth dressed in a gaudy new cowboy outfit approached. Then his companion, noticing the officers' badges suddenly blurted:

"Well, I guess you got us."

Before the officers recovered from the shock, the "cowboys" had confessed a $180 robbery in Eagle, Colo. They were held for investigation.

Rummage Sale

The Service League of the First Presbyterian Church will conduct a rummage sale beginning Wednesday, May 10, and continuing through Saturday, May 13, at 588 Broadway. Anyone having articles to contribute to the sale may leave them at this store any time during the sale. Those who cannot provide for the articles to be delivered are asked to phone Mrs. Lewis Shaw, 2359-W, or Mrs. Fromer Woodward, 2638-M, before noon on Tuesday, May 9, and they will be called for.

Agriculture officials estimate that in 1915 it required 96,000,000 acres of farm crops to feed the horses and mules in the United States, but in 1936 only 54,000,000 acres were required. Pasture requirements dropped from 90,000,000 acres to 55,000,000.

Service League Holds May Meeting Tuesday

The May meeting of the Service League of the First Presbyterian Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the ladies parlor of the Ramsey Memorial building. There was a good attendance of members and seven guests.

After a devotional period led by Mrs. Fromer Woodward, routine business was taken up and reports of committees were given. Plans were made for many varied activities during the month.

Mrs. Lewis Shaw and Mrs. Fromer Woodward are co-chairmen of a rummage sale which will be held May 10 to 13 inclusive.

The members of the league will co-operate in the sale conducted annually by the Albany Association of the Blind in this city. Mrs. William J. McVey will be in charge.

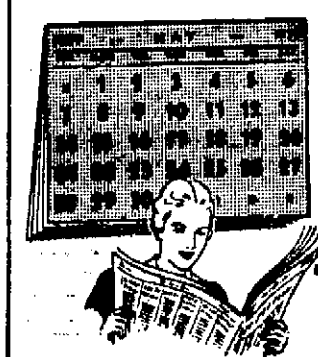

On Thursday evening the Service League is sponsoring a program of unique entertainment in the Ramsey Memorial Hall. This event will take the form of an old fashioned spring festival and the committee in charge is headed by Mrs. Clifford Van Valkenburgh.

Mrs. Andrew W. Lent was the guest speaker and gave a most interesting and inspiring talk, taking as her topic, "The Challenge of Change to the Women of Today."

A social hour was enjoyed with tea being served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ward B. Tongue and Mrs. Robert Murray.

Guilty Poisoner

Mrs. Anna Louise Sullivan (above), 50, pleaded guilty to first degree murder in the poisoning of her 18-year-old step-son, James Sullivan, in Milwaukee, Wis., recently. Previously, the district attorney said Mrs. Sullivan had confessed the poison deaths of Sullivan, her second husband Fred Rickles, 36, and attempts on the lives of her third mate, Michael Sullivan, and his daughter, Theresa, 11.

Would Shift Fisheries

Washington, May 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt was said by usually well-informed legislators today to be considering shifting the bureau of fisheries from the commerce to the interior department. The change may be included in a new reorganization plan Mr. Roosevelt is expected to send Congress next week.

Area Scouts Plan For Trip to Fair

Russell Broughton of Troop 6, Kingston, will be scoutmaster in charge of the troop of 36 scouts from the Ulster-Greene Council area who will go to the World's Fair September 26 to October 3. Assistant scoutmasters will be Howard Mosher of Troop 53, Tannersville, and the Rev. H. L. Todd of Troop 34, Woodstock. Scout Executive Burns says that the council feels fortunate in having these men volunteer to take the group to the fair.

Applications for a place in the troop are reported to be coming in rapidly, as it is realized that this is a splendid opportunity for the scouts. Apparently it will be necessary to select the boys on their records as scouts. Mr. Burns says that the council officials are anxious to have the best possible representation, as these scouts will reflect the training received in the troops of the Ulster-Greene Council.

Wawarsing Folk To Get Good Sum

property the owner received a small payment pending the determination of the award to be made by a commission.

Under the bill sponsored by Assemblyman Conway of this city which was signed into law last week by the governor, the city has to deposit a sum equal to one half the equalized value of property as assessed in the year prior to the taking. The state equalization rate for 1937 for the town of Wawarsing, where most of the Section 7 property is located, was 45 per cent. The rate for the town of Neversink in Sullivan county where Section 8 properties are located was 13 per cent. Consequently the city must more than double its deposit for the town of Wawarsing lands taken and in Neversink the deposits are 87 per cent greater than they would have been without the Conway bill.

Property owners who vacate and must seek new homes are thus greatly benefited by the new legislation by which the city makes much larger deposits as a condition of securing possession.

No Act of Possession

The city of New York has owned the parcels in Section 7, town of Wawarsing since November 16, 1938 and Section 8 since November 18, 1938. However no act of possession was taken. In order to secure possession of the parcels the city must deposit with order of the court the money prescribed by the law.

With activities increasing in the water works section the city is now seeking possession of the lands from Lackawack up to the Ulster line and into Sullivan county. Deposits will be made on the parcels desired.

A list of parcels which would be taken over for the first flooding in the area was given several days ago in The Freeman. In addition to that list the city is seeking possession of the following additional parcels which are now required for the progressing work. Flooding will begin early in June. Application for possession will be made at special term at Albany May 12 for the following lands:

of time under which hard coal miners have been working expires this week-end.

The bituminous conference snarled over the issue of a closed shop, on which Lewis insisted, claiming it as necessary protection against "raids" by rival unions.

To Lewis' demand, the operators made their "final" proposal—that the union be granted not the closed shop but a checkoff system, under which dues would be collected from both union and non-union workers. The union rejected this.

Among Developments

There were these developments: New York—Service on two of the city's three subway and elevated systems was ordered curtailed 25 per cent, with the possibility the third might have to follow suit soon.

Pittsburgh—Homes and institutions received coal only on doctors' prescriptions.

Wheeling, W. Va.—50 men were laid off by the U. S. Smelting Company and plans were made to furlough 300 more next week.

Washington—Federal buildings had enough coal on hand to operate "about a month."

Philadelphia—The Pennsylvania Railroad reported it had a month's supply of coal.

Miss Devine Directed Play

Miss Anna Devine, teacher at the Rock School, Rifton, who is well known, particularly for her activities with the young people of the 4-H clubs, directed a play for the 4-H club, given at the Rifton Hall, Wednesday night, May 3. Reports are that the play was a huge success. For several years Miss Devine has been directing these plays for young folk.

Beck Rejects Nazi
Danzig Demands

cance in Beck's unexplained reference to the "various other allusions" which he said were made in conversations with the German government.

These allusions, he declared, "reached far wider and further than subjects now under consideration" and he reserved the right to "return to this matter if necessary."

It was believed in some quarters that Beck referred to proposals by Hitler for a joint policy of Poland and Germany in regard to other European nations. Observers pointed out that Beck in not amplifying the point, carefully avoided any possible embarrassment to Hitler and the German government.

As Beck spoke, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and two Nazi leaders in the free city of Danzig—Albert Forster, the local fuhrer, and Senate President Arthur Greiser—were gathered in Berchtesgaden, Germany, for conferences with Reichsfuehrer Hitler whose "one and only offer" to Poland was disclosed just a week ago to the German Reichstag.

Berlin Reaction

The immediate reaction in Berlin, expressed by DNB (official German news agency), was that Beck's answer was "brusque."

In London and Paris, however, informed quarters regarded Poland's stand as parallel to the attitudes of Britain and France, both of whom have pledged their aid to help Poland defend her independence.

The British government was described as fully endorsing Beck's speech, which one source said was "calm and soundly argued."

It was delivered while British Prime Minister Chamberlain was attempting to convince his critics in the House of Commons that Britain was not responsible for delay in negotiations with Soviet Russia. The prime minister indicated he still was hopeful of aligning the Soviet Union in the British-French front.

Soviet Russia kept close watch on the issue between her western neighbor and Germany, still giving no clue to the sudden retirement of her foreign commissar, Maxim Litvinov, two days ago amid British-Russian negotiations and sharp European tension.

Pan American Airways reported 22,225 passengers to and from Latin America during the first quarter of 1939—an increase of 3,000 over the same period of 1938.

Three Men Raid
Nearby Roadhouse

Three young men carrying revolvers Wednesday night invaded The Riviera, a roadhouse, two miles north of Walden toward Walkkill, held up five occupants of the room, including the proprietor, Ray Sheeley, and within two minutes walked out with $85 in cash and the wallet of one of the patrons.

The three youths got into an automobile and drove off toward Walden. State police are searching for them.

Loot included $60 from the bar-room cash register, $22 from the pocket of Fred Coddington of Walkkill, a patron of the establishment, and a dollar from another patron. The bandits did not molest Sheeley or the two other persons in the room, Miss Phoebe Day of Lake Osiris and Lawrence Terwilliger of Walkkill.

ASSOCIATED PRESS PICTURE NEWS

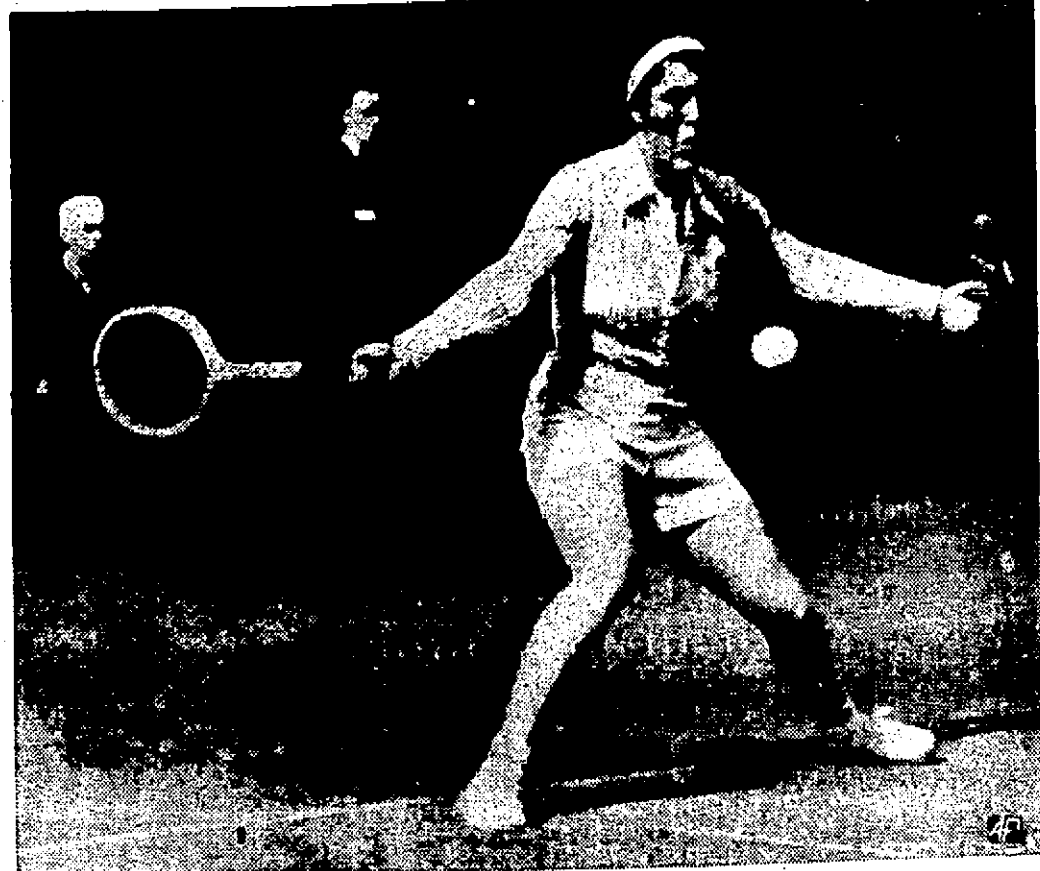

'YOUNGEST MALE IMPERSONATOR' is title claimed for Sandra Henville, shown with her mother, Mrs. Roy Henville, a native of San Diego. Sandra, at 15 months, played the part of the boy-baby complicating a recent Bing Crosby film. She earns $150 a week when she's working; $50 a week when she's not. Her contract runs seven years. She's "Sandy" for male roles.

ON THE BASEBALL 'FRONT' meet Lamar Newsome, Philadelphia A's shortstop, who has adopted this aluminum helmet for action under fire. He was hit in the head by a pitched ball last season, and he's taking no chances during the 1939 pennant race. The helmet (upper) fits into the regulation baseball cap and causes no inconvenience for the man at bat.

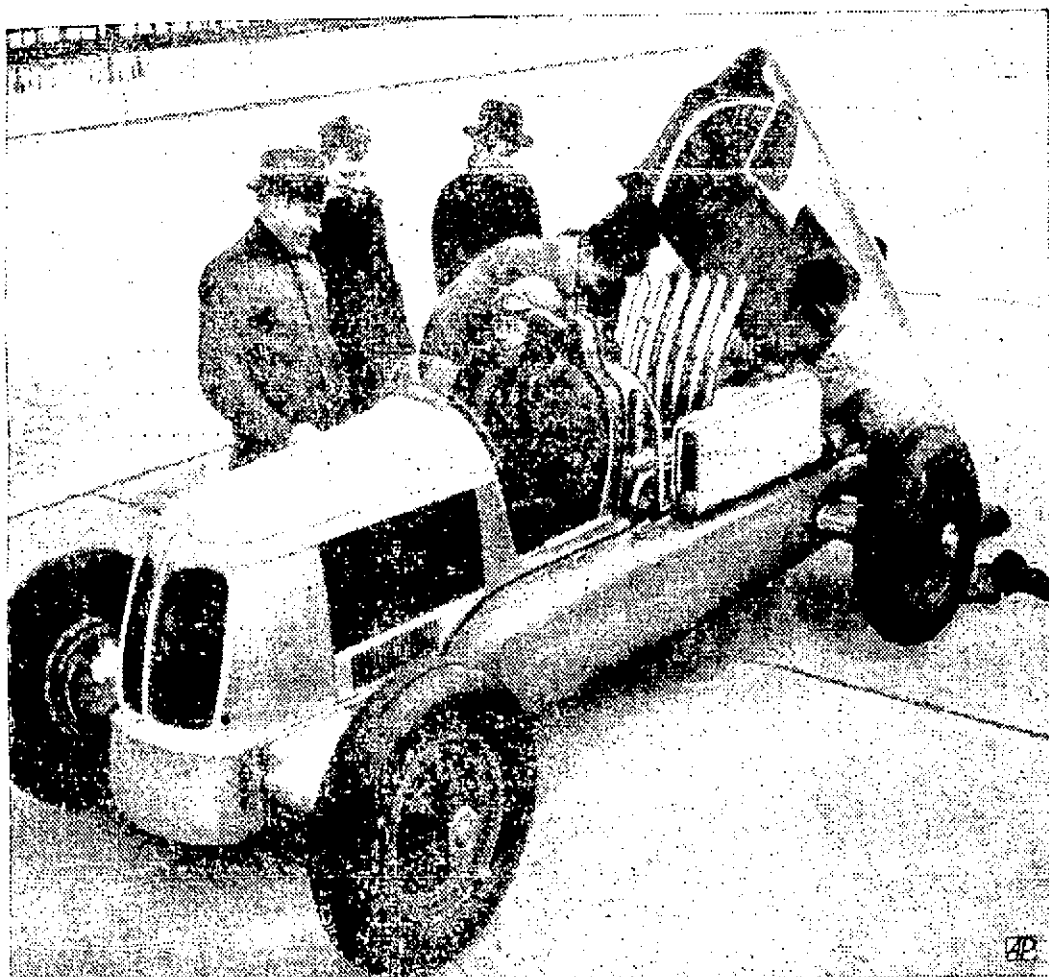

FORTUNES OF WAR altered the fortunes of Alfonso, former king who's been an exile since Spain became a republic in 1931. Franco-controlled Spain recently restored to the royal family all the private property it owned before 1931.

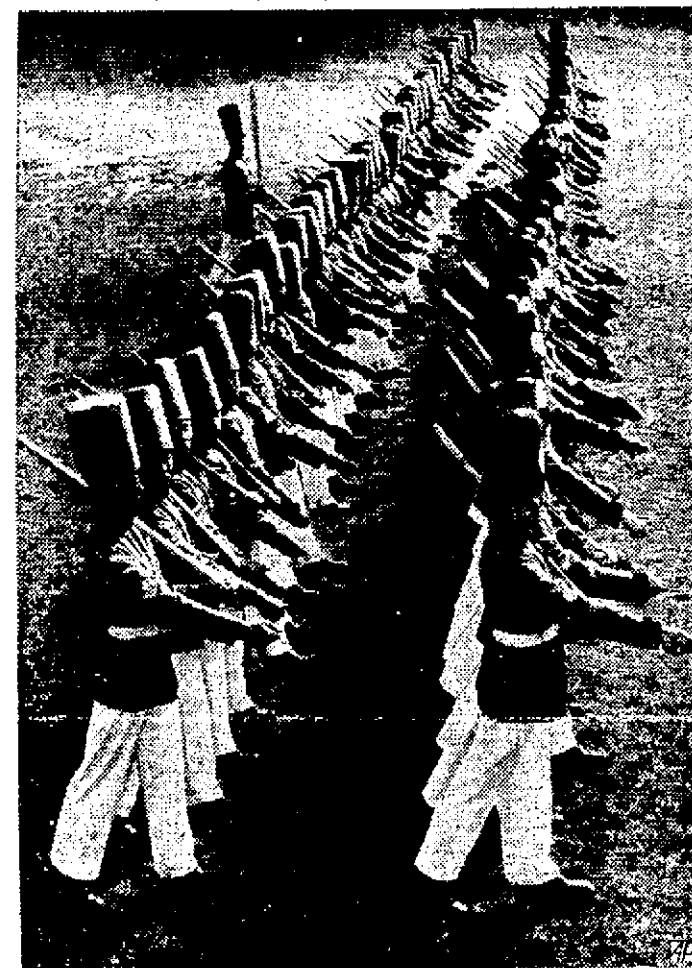

FORM BEYOND HER YEARS was shown in the tennis style of 14-year-old Miss Z. Koromoczy (above) who put up a game battle before her defeat by Kay Stammers in English match.

WRONG SIZE shoe for her, but Ita Bergen of Detroit finds interest in a new type baseball shoe to be tried out by the Tigers in practice sessions this season. The new shoe (left) compares with the regular created baseball shoe (right).

WITH ITS MOTOR AT THE REAR, one of the three rear-motor racers to be entered by Harry Miller in the Indianapolis Speedway May 30 gets a going-over by George Campbell (at wheel). The car is of four-wheel drive construction, and six exhaust pipes streamline out of the hood in back of driver. Pontoon-like gas tanks line left and right sides of chassis.

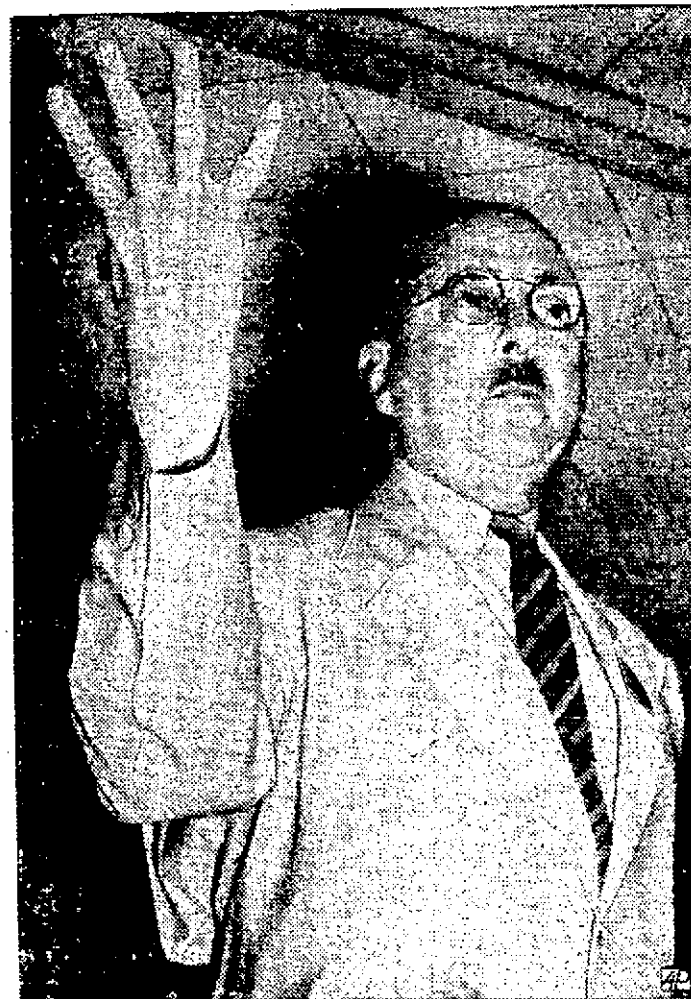

BRITISH 'TOY SOLDIERS' march—but only on the drill grounds of a Dover military school, preparing a "toy soldier" act for the Olympia tournament. England's most recent answer to the dictators' threat of arms was a conscription program to give 310,000 men in their 21st year six months of training.

FRENCH EMPIRE DEFENDERS, these barefoot warriors of French Morocco make up in fierceness for any lack in uniform. In his recent discussion of British conscription, Chamberlain said the "gibe that Britain was ready to fight to the last French soldier was being bandied about from capital to capital."

OPPOSITION to the appointment of Lord Lothian (above), 57, as Britain's new ambassador to U. S., succeeding Sir Ronald Lindsay, attained brief strength in London. The objections arose from Lord Lothian's reported pro-German sympathies.

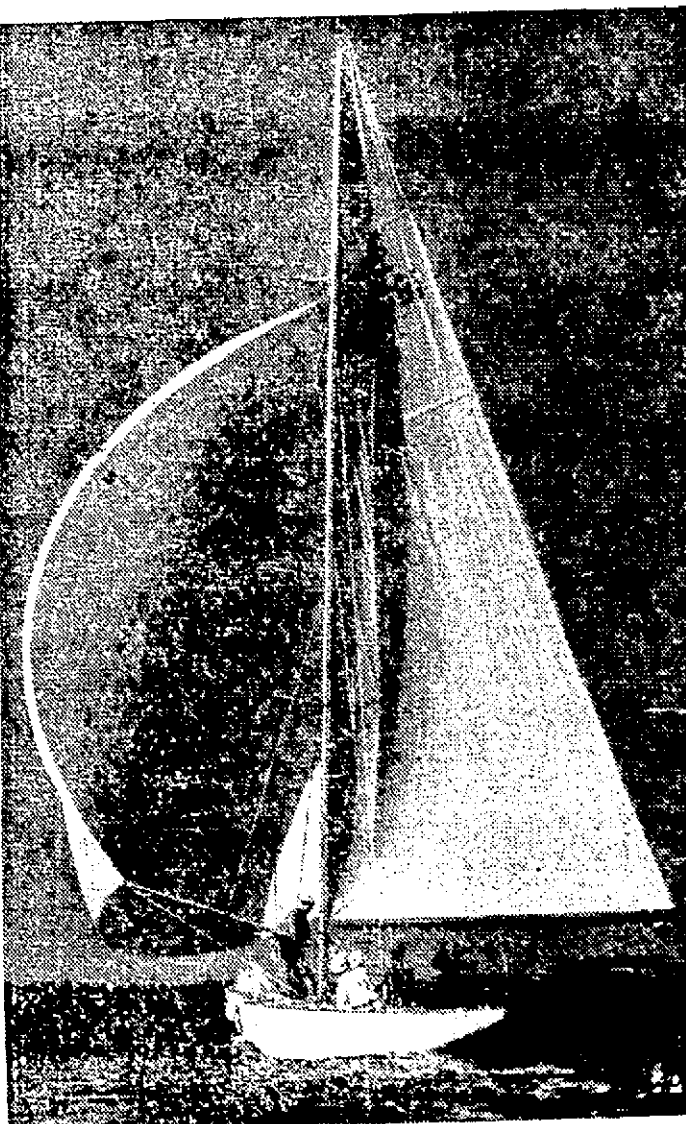

A HAND IN THE MEETING of southern cotton shippers at Memphis had Oscar Johnston, National Cotton Council president, shown discussing proposed cotton export subsidy plan.

SCIENTIFIC SEARCH carries Dr. David L. Macht (above) through countless experiments in his Baltimore laboratory where the doctor has already had success adapting deadly essence of cobra venom to medicinal uses as an effective agent in relieving pain.

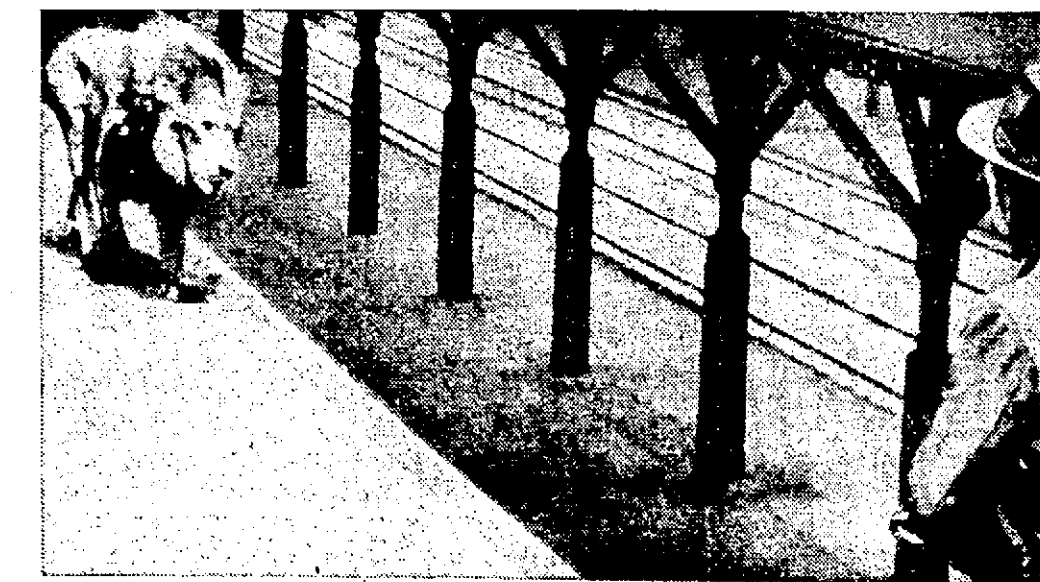

WHEN IT'S CHOW TIME in New Mexico's cattle country the cowhands driving herds to summer pastures, or to shipping pens, stop (as above) for the usual beans, biscuits and java. These hall from the 70,000-acre Brunner ranch, northwest of Albuquerque. Four-day trek of 2,000 cattle from Sonora, Mexico, to New Mexico's Bear mountain pastures is typical trip.

SHE'S A 'GOOSE' but in name only—this trim craft which won the Prince of Wales cup in a recent race series between American, Norwegian and Bermuda boats on Great Sound, Bermuda. The six-metre Goose is owned by George Nichols, one of the nation's most enthusiastic yachtsmen and secretary of the N. Y. Yacht club. See how wind fills the sails.

TRUCE was declared in the persistent opposition of Winston Churchill (above) to the policies of Prime Minister Chamberlain when the latter proposed conscription in England. Churchill, an arch Chamberlain critic, supported this measure.

URGENT BUSINESS ELSEWHERE emptied the walks when this lion escaped from a circus car at Boston and had 10 minutes of freedom. At the right is a wary would-be captor.

Johnny Adams Will Ride Technician In Harford's Place

Louisville, May 5 (AP)—A spectacular switch in riders, placing Johnny Adams astride Technician tomorrow's 65th running of the Kentucky Derby, supplied the chief topic of mint julep conversation today as every train, bus and airplane poured the horse pilgrims into this temporary mecca of the equine world.

The news struck the bars andistros last night that Herbert M. Woolf, owner of the west's hope in the mile-and-a-quarter scramble, had hired Adams, boy wonder from California, to replace Harford on Technician's broad back, and from then on there was talk of little else.

Santa Anita Star

Adams, hero of the past winter's western campaign, rider of the victorious Kayak II, in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, had been given the ride on Technician, and that made a big difference. It took the talk away from Johnston, which for two days past had monopolized the conversation. Technician looks now like a second favorite to Johnston.

Woolf, they say, brought in Adams over the strong protests of Ben Jones, trainer of Technician. Jones finally told him: "All right, you own the horse and you're shooting at the $50,000. In the opinion of most of the experts here, however, Woolf's move was a smart one.

Harford rode Technician to his important triumph in the Flaming Stakes at Hialeah Park this winter.

Break for Adams

For Adams it is a break he couldn't have hoped for. Up to a few months ago he didn't even have a contract. He rode when and where the opportunity offered. Then he was signed up by W. E. Boeing, the airplane manufacturer, who brought him here to ride Porter's Mite in the Derby. The Mite, gone stale from long training, was withdrawn from the big race two days ago, leaving Adams a forlorn little boy without a mount.

From the tenor of conversation, it would appear that the three horses actually in the big race are Johnston, Technician and Challenor, with the others, including El Chico and Heather Broom, only out for an expensive airing.

Rain Forecast

The prophecy is that it will rain tomorrow, breaking a run of three straight sunshiny Derbies. Johnston is known not to like muddy going very much, and if it really rains his owner, William Woodward, the New York banker, will have another of his horses, Challenge, in there as insurance. Challenge, a horse as big as a barn, like to get his hooves wet.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

Rookies are rampaging in the major league this spring in perhaps the greatest spree the freshmen class, as a unit, ever has had. There is scarcely a club in either circuit which isn't depending on one or more recruits for regular service. Looking back merely to yesterday's play proves the point.

The Red Sox beat the Tigers, 7-6, and five of their seven runs were knocked in by Ted Williams with a pair of homers. Williams, who came of age just last October after a great season with Minneapolis in the American Association, is one of the best reasons the Sox are pressing the Yankees from a game back.

The Chicago White Sox replaced Washington in third place by beating the Senators, 4-3, and two of their runs came on a homer by Catcher Ken Silvestro, up this year from St. Paul to do a great back-stopping job.

The St. Louis Browns humbled the Athletics, 9-3, with John Henry Kramer, a professional pitcher just three years, going the route on eight hits. It was his third start and second victory against no defeats. He was given plenty of working margin by Sophomore M. Mazzera, who batted in four runs on two homers.

Seven Off Salvo

In the National League the New York Giants trounced the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-3. Here it was Manny Salvo, late strikeout king of the Pacific Coast League, who weathered Johnny Mize's third homer of the year in a three-run first inning and finished the game with a total of seven hits. He is the only Giant pitcher except Harry Gumbert to go the route this year.

The losing teams have some rookie stars, too. The leading batter of the senior circuit is Morley May of the Phillies, who had a perfect day at bat even though his team was beaten by the Pirates, 6-4, on home runs by Jim Tobin and Johnny Rizzo and some swell relief hurling by Russ Bauers.

No youngster figured in Brooklyn's 6-2 conquest of the Chicago Cubs, but each team has a freshman pitcher who has won two and lost none—Whitlow Wyatt for the Dodgers and Gene Lillard for the Cubs. Yesterday's game became the trophy of Van Lingle Mungo, who gave up only one run in eight innings of relief pitching and batted in two himself.

Feller Flops

Both the Yankees and Cleveland Indians also are using rookie pitchers, although they played minor parts in the champions' 10-inning, 10-6 victory. This marked the collapse of Bob Feller's playhouse, for the young Indian lost his first game after three victories by giving 10 walks and 10 hits in 9 1-3 innings. The New York standout was Veteran George Selkirk, who got his third homer with two on in the fourth and singled home an extra run in the 10th.

The Boston Bees and Cincinnati Reds were rained out.

41 Trackmen Go to Middletown

Coaches G. Warren Kias and Loyne Connick will travel with 41 members of Kingston High School's track squad tomorrow afternoon to compete in a DUSO meet at Middletown. The team will leave the high school at 12 o'clock.

Although the coaches have an abundance of material on hand for this opening meet there are only a few men in each event who have had any actual experience. However from the practice standpoint to date the Kias-Connick forces look pretty good.

Probably the mile run is where Kingston is strong. Here Jess Shultis, Joe Toney and Babe Markle are listed. M. Spada will also have an opportunity to show his wares. In the pole vault event Tom Cully and Kippy Parslow will also be around. Culver Ten Brock, the individual star so far in the trial runs, is slated to go to work in the shot put and javelin.

The following is the complete squad: 100 yard dash, Tucker, Terwilliger, Nussbaum and Dodd; 440 yard dash, Cole, Ennis, Cully and Parslow; one-half mile, Beirach, Waltman, Rice and Bowers; 220 yard dash, Tucker, Fallon, Saehoff and Chris Perry; mile, Jess Shultis, Joe Toney, M. Spada and Babe Markle; pole vault, Bill Tsitser, Mel Samuels, Bill Ferguson and Auzziano; discus, Andy Murphy, Gill, Gray, Cook and Al Nock; relay, Saehoff, Chris Perry, Roger Goodsell, Dodd, Nussbaum, Terwilliger and Short; shot put, Culver Ten Brock, Andy Murphy, Hooley and Al Nock; javelin, Culver Ten Brock, Roger Goodsell, Gray, Hoffbauer, Gill and Nock; high jump, Ken Douglas, Myers, Bushnell, Timney and Churchwell; broad jump, Douglas, Fallon, Malsenholder, Short, Terwilliger and Nussbaum.

Regular Skeet Shoot Saturday

The regular bi-monthly skeet shoot will be held Saturday afternoon at the Ulster County Gun Club range on the Plank Road. The traps will be in operation at 1 o'clock and anyone interested is invited.

Trinity Practice

The softball practice to be held by the team from Trinity M. E. Church will take place on the lower diamond at Hasbrouck Park this evening instead of at Block Park. Starting time of the workout, with the N. Y. A. furnishing the opposition, is 6:30 o'clock. Trinity players are asked to be at the field no later than 6:15.

Closi Nine Will Practice Tonight

The Closi A. C. will practice tonight at 6:30 o'clock, and Manager Gus Steigerwald, is anxious to have all his men report on time at the Athletic Field.

Colonials Play Saugerties Game

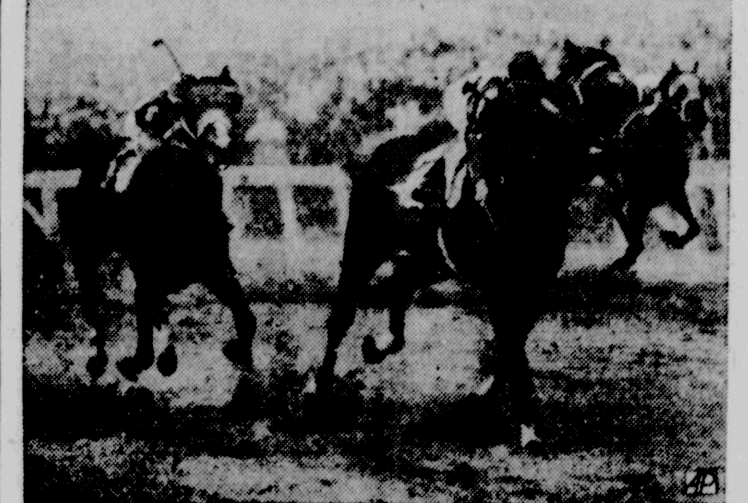

Manager Fred Davi of the Kingston Colonials will take his club to Saugerties Sunday for the first of a three-game series with the M. & F. nine. Davi will use either Charlie Neff or Toddy Uhl on the mound with Gabby Benjamin or Joe Hoffman behind the bat. Tweed is expected to pitch for Saugerties.

Professional Boxing Program Slated for 12th Is Called Off

The professional boxing show scheduled for Friday night, May 12, will not go on at the municipal auditorium, it was announced today by Samuel J. Ribier, matchmaker for the Kingston Sports Enterprises, Inc. "Contracts between the boxers and promoters must be filed with the State Athletic Commission five days in advance of the matches," he said, and added, "It is impossible to have the card ready in time for the 12th."

The End of Last Year's Derby

Lawrin, with Jockey Eddie Arcaro aboard, comes home first Dauber (left) responds to a flying crop to finish second. Can't Wait (on rail) closes fast to take third place.

Maroon Tossers Play At Saugerties Field In Saturday Contest

After telling the press yesterday that the Kingston High School-Saugerties baseball game would be played here tomorrow afternoon, the local school authorities have announced that the game will definitely be played at Saugerties instead. The game is scheduled for 2:30. Coach Cliff Miller has nominated Howie Brooks, a left handed, to attempt to make it two in a row. In case Brooks should weaken, Boss Miller will have Hank Tiano and Bill Windburn ready for action. All this week the local nine has been set through long drills in the hope of ironing out all rough spots. Most of the stress has been on the infield work, but Miller isn't satisfied with the hitting either. While Kingston was disposing of Ellenville in not any too spectacular performance last week, the Saugerties crew dropped a 7 to 6 decision to Middletown. But Saugerties has been aiming for this tilt tomorrow and will not stop at anything to upset the champs. Coach Cahill will start Garrison, who is one of the better flingers in this school district. The starting lineups: Saugerties: Reynolds, ss; Ferraro, 2b; Stoll, 1b; Naudain, 4b; Decker, 1b; Hopper, rf; Lindhurst, c; Berinato, ss; Mauro, c; Garrison, p.

Detroit Keglers Are Team Winners

Cleveland, May 5 (AP)—Five Detroit keglers rode the crest of the bowling world today as winners of the team event of the 39th Annual American Bowling Congress with a score of 3,151.

Representing the Fife Electric Supply Co., the motor city ten-pin artists are entitled to $1,000 in prize money and five diamond studded medals. Their sponsor receives a gold trophy.

Their score, compiled April 18 on game counts of 992, 1,122 and 1,037, is third highest in A. B. C. history. The Birk brothers hit an all-time high of 3,234 last year at Chicago. The Milwaukee Tea Shops won the 1924 event with 3,199.

The tournament's team event ended last night. Doubles and singles lower the curtain today on the 58-day classic in which 23,000 bowlers competed for $184,389 in prize money.

Kingston Bowling Elections Tonight

The annual election of officers of the Kingston Bowling Association will be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock, with every captain in the city eligible to vote. Team captains also must make reports of the number of reservations they desire for the dinner dance of the Kingston Bowling Association next Wednesday night at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Saints Will Play Schwenk Softies

There'll be a practice softball game tonight at 6:30 between St. Mary's and Schwenks at Block Park. Members of both clubs are asked to be on time for the drill, which is expected to furnish plenty of action.

Contract Trouble Halts Show—Stratton Receives $30,000

Harry B. Walker, ex-mayor, is all smiles today. ... One reason is because the Kingston Horsemen's dinner he arranged for last night was a big success. ... The other reason is a letter he received from Mario Severino, who struck up a strong friendship with the Broadway pharmacist when he boxed here as an amateur. ... Now Severino is a pro campaigning under the monicker of Marty Servo. ... Those professional boxing bouts scheduled for next Friday at the Municipal Auditorium have been called off indefinitely. ... Matchmaker Sam Ribier gives the reason as contract trouble. ... The papers on agreements between him and the boxers could not be whipped into shape in time. ... The boxing commission demands that contracts be filed five days in advance. ... The City Baseball League opens next Tuesday. ... Indications are that there will be a record turnout at the Athletic Field for the event.

The next highlight in bowling circles is the election of Kingston Bowling Association officers. ... Al Simmons will retire when he saves up another $25 for a rainy day. ... Milt Aron, Chicago scrapper, is the son of a rabbi. ... Les Patrick, coach of the Rangers, spent his Miami vacation, at the hockey rink. ... Sort of a busman's holiday. ... Monty Stratton will take the $30,000 he got from that benefit game and pay the mortgage on his farm. ... He'll put the rest away in annuities. ... Word is expected from Marshall Goldberg any hour that he'll play football with the Chicago Cardinals this fall. ... Tony Lazzari has a consecutive game streak of his own. ... He was playing his seventh in a row for the Dodgers when Gehrig broke his skinn. ... Tony made it eight yesterday. ... In Wichita the other day, the Knights of Columbus and Shriners played baseball for a trophy offered by a Jewish merchant.

20 Contests Are On First Half Bill At Athletic Field

Games to Start at 6:15 P. M. and Last Seven Innings—Four Contests a Week

Twenty twilight contests comprise the official Kingston City League first half schedule which gets under way Tuesday evening at the Athletic Field with the Independents and Jones Dairy booked for the opener. Two rounds of 10 tilts commencing May 9 and culminating on Friday, June 9, make up the initial half slate of games. All City League contests will get under way promptly at 6:15 during the first half with seven-inning games being booked for the baseball faithful.

Postponed and tie games will be re-slated for the following Monday of each week, an open date on the four game per week card. Four games per week getting underway on Tuesday and running through Friday are listed on the official first half roster of games. With Memorial Day occurring on Tuesday, May 30, the Boiceville Rangers-Independents clash has been carded for Monday, May 29, to allow an open date.

Officials Return

Dick Dulin and Bill "Pie" Murphy will call the balls and strikes and officiate on the paths during the first half card with Bill Scully as alternate. Both Dulin and Murphy handled the arbiters' roles during the '38 season and are back for another season wearing the blue.

The Independents-Jones Dairy inaugural should be a natural as the two clubs shape up as outstanding contenders for the '39 twilight loop pennant. Gala plans for the opener are being arranged and if the weather man is in good humor, Tuesday, May 9, will see the '39 pennant chase get under way.

The official 1939 first half schedule for the City Baseball League follows:

Jury Returns $572 Verdict in Action Against Mrs. Katz

A verdict in the sum of $572 in favor of the Ulster Fuel Oil, Heat and Power Co., was returned Thursday afternoon by the jury in the action brought by the company to recover the price of two oil burners and fuel oil from Sophie W. Katz. On trial in Supreme Court before Justice Foster were in reality two actions, one brought by Conrad Robinson and the oil corporation against Mr. Katz and one brought by Mrs. Katz and another against the fuel oil operators.

Mrs. Katz sought to recover a sum of approximately $1,500 for damage, in excess of payments made in settlement by insurance firms, done to her house when she alleged an oil tank in the cellar exploded when a workman from the oil company was at work on the premises. The oil company in return sought to recover the price of an oil burner which was installed on the premises prior to the explosion in 1933 and also for a second burner which was installed to replace the one damaged by the explosion and fire.

The jury found no cause for Mrs. Katz and brought in a verdict for the amount sought by the oil company for the two burners and a balance on oil.

Run of Herring Amazes Officer

The herring are running these days and residents along the Hudson are reaping a harvest of the silvery fish, using them not only for immediate consumption but putting them down by hundreds for later use.

There are all sorts of stories as to the big schools of herring which run the Hudson and into the tributary streams to spawn. Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne, who comes from a section where big snake stories and the like are the predominating fiction and the herring are of the dried variety, came back to the court house a day or so since with his eyes fairly bulging as he told the boys of a fishing scene he had witnessed on his way to Highland.

Ray's story was that when he passed over the bridge that crosses Black creek, at the foot of the Col. Payne hill, the herring were running up the creek in such numbers that he stopped for a minute to watch some fishermen who were scooping them up with a net. While he stood there, he claims, they brought up a netful that contained 125 herring. They put the net in again and when they tried to raise it the load of fish broke the hoops. He says they were dumping the fish into feed bags, preparatory to carting them away.

Science has found a way to recover the oil from coffee grounds and to use it in refining sugar and in other processes.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Lovely but Little Known Shaggy Zinnia Wins Award

Scabiosa Blue Moon, which won honorable mention in 1939 All America trials for new flowers.

Shakespeare was wrong. A rose by any other name would not smell as sweet. Suppose it were christened with the Latin name for "itch," which is scabiosa. It might then be as little known and as seldom grown as the lovely flower which does bear that name.

Mourning Bride is another name for Scabiosa, but is not much better; it is also called "pincushion flower," but that name is not attractive and quite undeserved. The scabiosas, indeed, have been consistently out of luck with names, but that has not kept them from being an ambitious, progressive family.

The blossoms from two to three inches in diameter are double, and borne on long stems, on bushes growing to thirty inches high. Its chief merit is probably found in its exceptionally wide range of color, and the rich hues which it produces. Red, blue and yellow, all are found in the scabiosa in delightful variety. Lovely true pink, pale lavender blue, brilliant scarlet, and a crimson almost black are found in well fixed varieties.

"This is one of the choice cut flowers and is grown in variety by many amateurs who find pleasure in arranging flowers for indoor decoration. The plants are easy to grow from seed, and if the flowers are picked off as they fade, flowering will continue until the plants have been killed by frost.

Death of Mrs. M. G. Dunn Recorded From Gun Shot

According to the death certificate filed in the town clerk's office in the town of Rochester the death of Mrs. Maud G. Dunn of Kerhonkson was attributed to a self inflicted gun-shot wound in the head.

Mrs. Dunn, widow of Houston Dunn of Kerhonkson, 50 years old was said to have been in ill health and last Saturday her body was discovered at the home of her mother, Mrs. Josephine Gosselin. Coroner Humiston of Kerhonkson was called and issued the death certificate.

At the town clerk's office, Lloyd P. Barley of the town of Rochester, it was stated that the certificate stated death was from a self inflicted wound in the head.

Funeral services were held Tuesday with burial in Pine Bush cemetery.

Song in the Air

Amsterdam, N. Y., May 5 (AP)—There was a song in the air today as nearly 5,000 high school musicians came here for their annual statewide competition. Sixteen orchestras, 39 bands, 40 choirs, 54 ensembles and 200 soloists were listed.

Ellenville Man Badly Beaten Up

Harry Alexander of Ellenville and his twin brother, Roy Alexander, of Walkkill, R. D. 2, 38 years of age, were arrested Thursday by Sergeant John A. Hopkins of Ellenville, accused of having severely beaten up Charles Hoff of Ellenville.

The two men were arraigned before Justice Melvin D. Schoonmaker of Ellenville on a charge of assault in the second degree. They were committed to the Ulster county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The affair is said to have taken place on the road to The Cape, near Ellenville and Hoff was so badly beaten that his condition at the Veterans' Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, is reported to be very serious. His injuries included a puncture of the lung and two broken ribs.

Greatest for Mileage

Designed primarily as a safety tire, the U. S. Royal Master has proven itself to be the greatest mileage tire ever produced by United States Rubber Company, according to Harris Brown, of Brown's Servicenter, Inc., local U. S. tire dealer. "In the slightly more than three years since U. S. introduced the Royal Master tire," said Mr. Brown, "it not only has earned a reputation as America's premier safety tire, but it also showed that it had remarkable wearing qualities."

Duchess D'Andria To Be Guest Here

One of the guests of honor of the Apple Blossom Festival on Saturday and Sunday will be Duchess Carafa d'Andria. While not participating in the festival program she will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Fred Luther on Elmendorf street.

Duchess Carafa d'Andria is American-born, a descendant of Matthew Thornton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. In 1932, she became the wife of Duke Fabio Carafa d'Andria, a member of one of Italy's oldest and most illustrious families, a direct descendant of the King of Naples. To quote from the New York Tribune, "The Carafa d'Andria family has given to Italy since 1020 several kings and many warriors, cardinals and statesmen, and belongs to the Holy Roman Empire. In 1435 Gion Petro Carafa was created Pope at Rome under the name of Paul the Fourth. The Dowager Duchess Carafa d'Andria was from the historical De Medici family."

Duchess Carafa d'Andria is acknowledged to be one of the most beautiful, brilliant and talented women in artistic and social circles, both here and abroad. Having sung with unusual success for many seasons with the leading musical organizations throughout the country, including the Philadelphia and Chicago Symphonies, she gave up her career for the lecture platform, where she has made a great success.

Four patents for hosiery and other knitted fabrics made of nylon, the new organic textile fiber derived basically from coal, water and air, have been issued by the U. S. Patent Office. With the issuance of the patents, manufacturers asserted the inventions represented "a phenomenal advance in the textile arts," assuring "a truly successful stocking from a synthetic yarn."

Woodstock Bureau Entertains Women

Woodstock, May 5.—Members of the Woodstock Home Bureau were hostesses yesterday to more than 200 members of the Eastern District Federation of Home Bureaus. The afternoon's entertainment was public, so an additional crowd from Woodstock and Kingston was present. Tea was served in the Woodstock Art Gallery for the opening exhibition of a collection of paintings representing an important period in the early days of the Woodstock colony.

The federation women arrived at the town hall at 3 o'clock for a lecture by Judson Smith, well known Woodstock artist and lecturer. Mr. Smith spoke briefly of Woodstock artists and their position in the village, and gave a brief introduction to the show on exhibition in the gallery.

Following the lecture the group attended the exhibition and tea, then visited the historic Dutch Reformed Church just next door to the gallery, and wandered through the attractive Woodstock shops.

For the federation members the day brought to a close the two day convention held in Kingston by the Home Bureau women of eight counties. The group had had luncheon at Mt. Marion, then visited the studio of Tomas Penning in High Woods. Mr. Penning explained some of the history of the local blue stone industry and exhibited some of his own sculpture. From the Pennings the women drove to Woodstock for the lecture and exhibition.

The federation was in charge of Miss Mabel Knapp of Goshen and Miss Everice Parsons, who conducted the tour.

103 Indictments

Albany, N. Y., May 5 (AP)—The special grand jury investigation of alleged Albany county election frauds listed 103 indictments returned today. While 12 Albany lodging house proprietors pleaded guilty to charges of failure to file rooming house certificates and received suspended sentences, the grand jury returned 11 new indictments. Thus far, 46 persons have pleaded guilty, 33 of whom have been sentenced. There have been two trials, both of which ended in a jury disagreement.

Approximately 10,700,000 farm-family and hired workers in 1938 produced 25 to 30 per cent more farm products than 12,200,000 did in 1909.

Smart to See—Smarter to Buy!

The model illustrated is the Buick Special model 41 four-door touring sedan $990 delivered at Flint, Mich.*

Nobody has to tell you, skimming along at that brisk Buick pace, that plenty of eyes are turning your direction!

It's a smart car to see, all right—what you're discovering there behind the wheel is how much more there is to this beauty than a look or two will uncover!

You're feeling the eager power that a straight-eight can pour—when it's a Dynaflex eight with a cyclone in each cylinder to give life, lift—and thrust—to every smooth-flowing mile!

You're finding out that bumps can be tamed, that car riding can be level as flying—when all four wheels, not just the front, ride on stout coiled springs of soft and cushiony steel!

You're discovering how pleasant it is to look out through windows enlarged as much as 412 square inches. And you're enjoying that very special Buick "feel," firm and taut and steady, nowhere any skittery looseness, or wind wander, or hunt!

In a word, you're beginning to realize that, smart as it is to see, this Buick's even smarter to buy.

Smarter for the extra contentment you'll get from owning it—smarter even if you had to pay a premium to get it.

But you don't have to pay a premium! Instead, this great-eight beauty is today priced lower than some sixes. Costs are below those of a year ago. Total outlay—counting included equipment you'd pay extra for elsewhere—is often less than for some cars with lower advertised prices.

So what to do? Easy! Simply turn around, head for the showroom, get down to the details of trade-in terms, monthly payments, all that!

Even there you'll find your Buick dealer ready, willing, eager to serve—just like the good and gallant car he sells!

AND UP delivered at Flint, Mich.

*Prices subject to change without notice. Transportation, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra.

ONLY BUICK HAS IT! This sure-fire direction signal that flashes warnings of turns at a flip of a switch! Shows day or night. Standard on all models!

Wiltwyck Chapter Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary of DAR

The 50th anniversary of the Daughters of the American Revolution was celebrated by Wiltwyck Chapter Thursday with ceremonies which lasted throughout the day.

In the morning a dedicatory service was held in the churchyard of the First Reformed Church where the recently planted elm tree was dedicated by Mrs. George Duffy, New York State Regent, and a bronze marker was erected. The tree, presented by the local chapter and given by Mrs. T. C. S. Hooker, is near the grave of Governor George Clinton. Mayor Conrad J. Heislman spoke of the need for such organizations as the Daughters of the American Revolution to combat un-American "isms." Both speakers were introduced by the chapter regent, Mrs. Burdette Tuttle.

A drum corps from Boy Scout Troop No. 12 played the bugle calls and gave a short program of music.

Following the tree dedication some 50 members and a few invited guests of the chapter attended the luncheon at the Chapter House, arrangements for which were in charge of Mrs. Homer J. Emerick.

Among those seated at the head tables were Mrs. George Duffy, Mayor Heislman and Mrs. Heislman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Karmann, Mrs. Frank Asher of Rhinebeck, regent of the Chancellor Livingston Chapter, Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool, and officers of the local chapter, Mrs. Burdette Tuttle, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mrs. Lancelot Phelps, Mrs. William Macgregor Mills, Mrs. Adam Porter, Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence and Mrs. Clarence Dumm.

Assisting with the luncheon arrangements were Mrs. John Steinert, Mrs. David Terry, Mrs. George Hayes, Mrs. Adam Porter, Mrs. Howard St. John, Mrs. Hiram Whitney and five members from the Junior Group, Mrs. Frederick Hoffman, Mrs. Edgar Freese, Miss Frances Robinson, Miss Isabelle Swartzout, and Miss Margaret O'Sullivan.

The regular monthly meeting of the chapter followed the luncheon. Mrs. Asher brought greetings from the Rhinebeck chapter and Mrs. Duffy spoke on projects of the D. A. R.

Mrs. Duffy praised the local chapter for the splendid work it is doing and explained that during the past year a net gain of 555 members had been reported by the national society. Another fact reported by Mrs. Duffy is that one-ninth of the membership comes from New York state.

Mrs. Duffy then explained the four projects that the D. A. R. has undertaken for the jubilee year. One is to have a painting made of Mrs. Benjamin J. Harrison, first national president of the association, which will be hung in the Harrison home in Indiana. The second project includes reforestation in each state. The third is the raising of an endowment fund to care for Constitution and Continental Hall in Washington. The fourth project, to raise $2,000 for the air-conditioning of one of these buildings has already been completed. Two gifts of $1,000 each having been given in honor of Mrs. Duffy, state regent, and Miss Page Schwarzwelder of Chichester, N. Y., long an active member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

At the business meeting which preceded the regent's address, several important matters were transacted. Communications from Washington announced the acceptance of four new members into Wiltwyck Chapter, Mrs. C. Henry Amon, Mrs. Frederick Gronemeyer, Mrs. Walter Perret and Mrs. Henry Rigby, Jr. Announcements of special interest included the annual Hudson Valley conference at Catskill, an invitation to attend the exhibit of colonial handicraft work at the Saugerties Library and an invitation from the Junior Group of Wiltwyck Chapter to attend the final meeting May 29 when a special Dutch program will be given.

The Chapter House will be open Saturday from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. in connection with the Apple Blossom Festival. The local chapter is also planning special activities for Memorial Day and Flag Day. The next meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter will be held Thursday, May 18, when election of officers will take place.

Nursing Committee to Meet

The Nursing Committee of the Town of Ulster will meet at the Lake Katrine Schoolhouse Monday evening, May 8, at 8 o'clock. Dr. Clarence Gannon will be the speaker.

Quilt Exhibit at Port Ewen Tuesday

Port Ewen, May 5—Over 50 quilts will be on display at the Exhibit of "Heirlooms of Yesterday and Tomorrow," which will be held Tuesday afternoon and evening, May 9, at the Port Ewen Reformed Church under the auspices of the Dorcas Society.

There will be several very old quilts, over 100 years old, as well as some recently pieced quilts. A wide variety of patterns has been assembled. Of the old quilts, there is a star design done in blue and white owned by Mrs. Charles Gustafson of West Shokan. This quilt owes its remarkable state of preservation to the fact that it was used only as a spread for a sick bed. Mrs. Samuel Tinney is showing a six pointed star over 88 years old which was made by her great-grandmother Brewster, who was 93 years old at the time. Her husband was a direct descendant of Elder Brewster who came to Plymouth Colony on the Mayflower. Mrs. Tinney is also showing a star quilt and a wool log cabin quilt pieced by Mrs. Esther Anne Ellinge over 50 years ago. Mrs. Elvin Hutchings is exhibiting an appliqued basket quilt with tulip border which was made by her mother 100 years ago. Mrs. Basil Potter has an unusual quilt of appliqued pineapple design which is over 100 years old. The quilt won a blue ribbon at the Trinity M. L. Church exhibit. Mrs. Charles Nicce is showing an unusually intricate quilt made 80 years ago by Mrs. Isiah Hutchings. Mrs. Nicce is also showing a box quilt made by her mother, Mrs. Israel Hutchings. Mrs. Myrtle Taylor will display a quilt, appliqued 80 years ago by Elizabeth Wilson Taylor for her son, the Rev. John Wesley Taylor, an early pastor of the local reformed church. This is done in many different patterns and is of exquisite workmanship. Mrs. Nate Williams of Kingston is showing a quilt in blue and white, applique of original design, which was made by her great-grandmother, Esther Elmhurst of Woodstock, over 125 years ago. Mrs. Farris Williams of Kingston is showing a quilt made by Mr. Williams' grandmother, of over 4,000 pieces in domino blocks. Mrs. Frank White is showing one in blue oak tree design on white, made over 125 years ago by descendants of Stonewall Jackson, one made by her grandmother in blue and white geometrical design 160 years ago, and one with blocks forming a T, which is 75 years old. Mrs. Arthur Fowler has an appliqued quilt in rose and bud made by her grandmother, Mrs. Newell Thayer.

An unusual quilt of special interest to older members of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will be the album quilt done in pinwheel pattern in dark blue calico and white muslin. This quilt bears the inscription, "Blue Circle, Clinton Avenue M. E. Church," Kingston, N. Y., 1891-1892. The quilt is now owned by Miss Milfred Lawrence of Maplewood, N. J., a granddaughter of Grenville Finger, whose name appears on the quilt. Miss Lawrence is a sister of Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, a member of the sponsoring organization of this exhibit.

Mrs. Matthew Fowler is showing a silk log cabin quilt made 50 years ago by her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Doyle; a fringed silk quilt made by Mr. Fowler's grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Smith; a snowball and Toad in Hole made by Mrs. LeGrand Doyle, and an eight pointed star by Mrs. Matilda Major. Mrs. William Webster is showing a white quilt embroidered in red silk having child's hand, dogs, cats and such on, which was made by her grandmother, Mrs. Richard Douglas. Mrs. Patrick Cain has one made by her grandmother of very small intricate blocks. Mrs. Edgar Freese of Kingston is showing a penny quilt with small round pieces which is very old, and a double wedding ring made for Mrs. Freese by Mr. Freese's mother, Mrs. Jesse Freese. An unusual counterpane quilted and stuffed will be shown by Mrs. Harry Van Orner.

Other patterns and exhibitors will be Miss Ella Jones with a white embroidered flower quilt; Mrs. Isabella Brayton with a four-pointed star; Dorothy Hornbeck with a basket quilt; Mrs. Bevier Slight with a flying swallow; Mrs. Floyd Beesmer, a silk crazy quilt; Mrs. Leona Dougherty a stuffed log cabin quilt; Mrs. Scott Vining a yo-yo quilt; Miss Audrey LeFevre a snowball quilt; Mrs. Orsen Smith an album quilt; Mrs. Ellsworth Doyle a silk crazy quilt, and Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth an appliqued alphabet quilt, Solomon's Puzzle, Dresden Plate, and a Mother Goose alphabet crib quilt of original design.

Pioneer Descendant Engaged to Wed

MISS HELEN LASHER

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Lasher of Brooklyn, formerly of Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Mae, Oscar Theodore Galler, son of Mrs. Oscar T. Galler of Brooklyn and Pine Bush.

Miss Lasher is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Swart of Flatbush, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Slater of Kingston. She is a descendant of well-known Ulster county pioneers, among whom was Colonel Wessel Ten Broeck, one of the first settlers of the Hudson valley region and prominent in early Kingston history.

Mr. Galler is a graduate of the Engineering School of Science and Technology at Pratt Institute and is employed by the Pioneer Aviation Instrument Company, Bendix Airport, New Jersey.

Both Miss Lasher and Mr. Galler have spent a great part of their lives in Ulster county.

The wedding will take place this summer.

Birthday Party

Richard Maines, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maines of Port Ewen, entertained a few of his friends at his home Wednesday in honor of his 6th birthday. A peanut hunt and other games were enjoyed. The table represented a circus with a tent of a Jack Horner pie. Balloons and a large birthday cake decorated with circus animals completed the decorations. Guests present were Thomas Morrissey and Bruce Wilson of Kingston, Arthur Maurer of Kingston, Robert Munson, Roger Winchell, Wayne Berens, Frank Terwilliger, Matthew Doyle and Cameron Page.

Woolsey-Alliger

Edith E. Alliger of Henry street and Charles E. Woolsey of Clinton avenue were united in marriage Wednesday morning by the Rev. C. L. Palmer at his home on Washington avenue. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mosher of Greenville Park. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Woolsey will make their home in Kingston.

Hostess on Birthday

Miss Patricia Craft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Craft of Johnston avenue was hostess at a dinner party Wednesday in celebration of her 11th birthday. Her guests were Helma Rosenberg, Jane Anne Fort, Marjorie Gage, Jeanne de La Vergne, Margaret Pheasant, Pam Mandell, Barbara Fred, Judith Strong and Betty Roosa.

Elected Class President

Roger Mable, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Mable of Green street, Port Ewen, was recently elected president of next year's senior class at Syracuse University.

Mable won the post over a field of four other candidates with a plurality of 37 votes. It was the first class election at Syracuse ever to be held in the spring in accordance with new regulations.

Junior in the College of Business Administration majoring in transportation, Mable is a member of Delta Upsilon social fraternity, Corps and Coffin junior honorary, and Boar's Head dramatics honorary. He is also manager of the varsity football team for next season and a member of the crew.

Choir Meeting Held

The monthly meeting of the newly organized Reformed Church of the Comforter choir was held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of the president, Mrs. Henry P. Elmhurst, 23 Lindsley avenue. A constitution and by-laws were submitted and adopted, and plans for future activity were discussed. The meeting was closed with a social hour and refreshments.

HOME BUREAU

Lake Katrine Unit

The members of the Lake Katrine Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. William T. Hooley on Thursday afternoon. A lesson on laundering slips and foundation garments was given in a very efficient manner by Mrs. Herman Schuler and Mrs. Donald Parish. They also demonstrated a simple way of testing fibre content of cottons, rayons and silks.

Arrangements and reservations were made for the federation meetings, banquet, luncheon at Mt. Marion and tea on Thursday at Woodstock.

Mrs. Everett, Mrs. Sagendorf and Mrs. Graham Parish volunteered to help serve tea at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Wednesday.

The next meeting of the local unit will be held at the home of Mrs. Richard Van Etten on Thursday, May 11. Archie Van Benschoten will talk on cupboard arrangements. On May 15 the members of Lake Katrine are invited to visit her home to look over recent improvements she has made in her kitchen.

Those present were the hostess, Mrs. W. Hooley; Mrs. W. Powers, Mrs. H. Schuler, Mrs. R. Everett, Mrs. T. Munson, Mrs. J. Forman, Mrs. E. Sagendorf, Mrs. G. Adams, Mrs. D. Parish, Mrs. K. Parish and Mrs. G. Parish.

Your Philosophy—Is It Chance or Plan?

Live Your Life Successfully

A philosophy of life—you have one whether you know it or not! Unconsciously you may have a defeatist philosophy. In the face of opportunity you give room to such thoughts as "Oh well, it's all the same in a hundred years." But what a winning philosophy is yours if your mind is filled with courageous thoughts, if great philosophical thinkers are your guide.

Fearlessly you get what you want—a job, success, happiness. You say to life like the Greek philosopher, Epicurus, "Bring whatever you please, and I will turn it into good."

Not for you then to drift along from day to day. But you strive ever for perfection, the great Plato's recipe for happiness.

In little things as in big your life can change for the better. See anew your immediate circle, the world around you. The modern Lin Yutang said joy is to be found in the most everyday experiences and it is true.

Build a winning philosophy on the noble thoughts of inspiring thinkers. Our 32-page booklet interestingly explains the teachings of great philosophers—from Epicurus of the ancients to Bertrand Russell of the moderns.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of PHILOSOPHY: A GUIDE TO HAPPIER LIVING to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

Here is a frock that answers the question of what to wear to cocktails and on to an informal dinner. Schiaparelli made it of black crepe with a yoke of guipure, which looks enough like lace to be its twin. There's news in the bust-framing frill and the lacquered wings on the back capeau.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Music Club Meets
Highland, May 5.—A short program on opera favorites was presented Tuesday afternoon by Miss Ruth Goldsmith at the meeting of the Music Study Club at the home of Mrs. Julius W. Blakely.

"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from Samson and Delilah, Saint Saens, was given as a piano solo by Miss June Reynolds; vocal solo, "Song of the Flea," from Faust, Mrs. Arthur Kutz; Miss Elizabeth Salese gave a half hour playlet of one act, "Enter the Hero," piano solo, "Largo," Handel, Mrs. Oliver Kent; piano duet, "Il Trovatore," Verdi, Mrs. N. D. Williams, Mrs. Julius Blakely.

During the business meeting presided over by the president, Mrs. Kurtz, a nominating committee of Mrs. George E. Dean, Mrs. William Lais, Mrs. Elmer Fisher, was appointed. They will report at the meeting on May 16. It was also decided to hold an evening meeting later in the month as the closing event for the club.

The musical numbers will be arranged by the president and Mrs. Kurtz. At this time each member is entitled to ask one guest.

The hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. Albert Martin and Mrs. Elmer Fisher, served refreshments. Those present were Mrs. Jennie Abrams, Mrs. W. D. Bond, Mrs. William D. Corwin, Mrs. Oliver Kent, Miss Helen Kent, Mrs. A. Jerome Pratt, Miss Reynolds, Mrs. Victor Salvatore, Miss Salese, Mrs. A. W. Williams, Miss Julia Van Keuren, Mrs. Helen D. Brown, Mrs. Kurtz, Mrs. Lais, Mrs. Irving Rathgeb, Mrs. Blakely, Mrs. N. D. Williams, Mrs. Franklin Welker and Miss Goldsmith. Miss Ada Van Nostrand was a guest. Summer is the musical subject for the meeting on May 16, with Mrs. Welker as chairman and Miss Edna Curry and Mrs. Harry Colyer as hostesses.

Village Notes

Highland, May 5.—The past masters will confer the third degree upon a class of three candidates at the next communication of Adonai Lodge, 715 F. & A. M., on May 8.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dunsinbere were present in Marlborough Friday evening when their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Shurtler were given a surprise on the 25th anniversary of their wedding. Mr. Shurtler is organist in the Presbyterian Church and following church rehearsal that evening the Rev. Claud McIntosh invited the choir to the manse where were gathered others, Mr. and Mrs. Shurtler were presented with a silver sugar and cream set and a wedding cake baked by Mrs. Fred Velie.

There were about 50 members of Sunshine I. O. O. F. and Vineyard Rebekah Lodges, who attended the service in the Presbyterian Church Sunday evening in commemoration of the 120th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. Gladys Mears sang "My Task" as a special number and the sermon touched on the blessings Job received when he forgot his troubles and prayed for his friends.

Camp-o-Ree Plans Near Completion

Plans for the third annual Camp-o-ree of the Ulster-Greene Boy Scout Council, to be held on the army grounds, Kingston, June 2 to 4, are nearing completion and Executive Burns says that indications are it will be an outstanding event.

Troops are working hard on the program and an attendance of around 600 scouts and scouters is looked for. The following program for the week-end has been arranged:

Friday afternoon—Troops arrive and set up camp.

Friday evening—District campfires.

Saturday morning—Rehearsal for the circus to be given in the afternoon.

Saturday afternoon, 3:30 o'clock—Scout circus, with all scouts taking part. This is a 10-act show, demonstrating some of the things scouts do in the troops. The public is invited and there is no charge for admission.

Saturday evening—A big council fire will be held.

Sunday morning—Church services for Protestants and Catholics will be held on the grounds.

Sunday afternoon—Camp will be broken.

New ways to prepare spring greens are described in Cornell bulletin E178, "The Art of Vegetable Cookery," which may be obtained free by writing to the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y.

Rail and Utility Stocks Show Small Gains on Thursday

Rail and utility stocks yesterday showed small gains, continuing the rise of the past three or four days, but industrials edged off toward the close, showing a loss for the day of 0.44 point, to 131.86 in the Dow-Jones average. Rails were up 0.27 point, to 26.93 and utilities were head 0.14 point, to 23.18. The news that failing to continue to mark the coal wage negotiations and that a nationwide coal strike was threatened had its effect on the market in the afternoon.

Bond averages showed a slight gain for the day although the close was below the best levels. Commodities were mixed with the index up fractionally. Cotton futures closed two points higher to one lower. Wheat went up sharply, gaining a cent and a quarter in Chicago as British purchases were reported. Raw sugar sold in the British market at a nine-year high level, equal to 1.52 cents a pound, f.o.b. Cuba. Wool tops closed steady and unchanged to five points higher on a turnover of around 475,000 pounds. Corn was up 5-8 cents a bushel in Chicago.

There was early weakness in the London market following the resignation of Russian Foreign Commissar Litvinov, but there was a brisk rally and the close was practically unchanged. Paris market closed irregular.

Early reports from Detroit auto factories indicate that domestic sales of new cars and trucks in April did not come up to what had been expected. Incomplete estimates for seven makes, comprising 50 per cent of the industry's total, indicate that April volume was off about seven per cent from March and up only 38.8 per cent from April last year.

The 2,000 delegates of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, meeting in Washington, yesterday adopted 26 specific recommendations, asking for repeal of the Wage and Hour Act and revisions or abandonment in a large number of other New Deal key regulations.

The Wage and Hour Act was declared impracticable of application to widely varying conditions. Complete abandonment of the underlying philosophy of the WPA was also recommended.

The Wagner Act was asked for. Carloadings last week rose 27.309 cars, total being 586,015, an increase of 7.9 per cent over the same week in 1938.

Loft Candy Co. showed net loss of $393,734 for the first quarter of this year, compared with net loss of $195,545 in the 1938 quarter.

Continental Can had net income of $715,840 for the 12 months ended March 31, vs. net of $8,362,025 in preceding year. Humble Oil had net in 1938 of $35,800,353, $3.98 a share, vs. net preceding year of $46,924,001, $5.22 a share.

Columbia Broadcasting declared dividend of 35 cents on Class A and B common; paid 25 cents three months ago.

The soft-coal shutdown was extended to about 95 per cent of the industry yesterday. B. M. T. R. subways in New York were to curtail operations by 25 per cent this morning because of threatened fuel shortage. Major industrial users apparently have supplies sufficient for at least a week. Utility firms are said to be even better supplied.

Glass on Wheels

A railroad train, the coaches of which were constructed entirely of glass between wheels and roof, left Liverpool, England, in November, 1937, on a tour of important cities of England, Scotland and Wales to demonstrate the possibilities of glass for construction, homes building and equipment. It required more than 120,000 pieces of special glass to construct the exterior of the train. The interior even had a glass bathroom. Manufactured by a Lancashire firm of glass makers, the train was equipped with practically every known product of the glass-making industry.

San Spots Upset Babies
If your radio gives consistently bad reception, think twice before blaming the manufacturers. It may be due to sun spots, according to A. L. Durkee, engineer of the Bell Telephone laboratories, who explains that the latest 11-year sunspot cycle is due to reach its peak sometime in 1939. Studying the record of 18 such cycles, Durkee has found that the cycle maximum is followed by a period of magnetic disturbance that may twist words beyond recognition, make the phonetic sound like a group of anagrams.

Guilty Poisoner

Mrs. Anna Louise Sullivan (above), 50, pleaded guilty to first degree murder in the poisoning of her 18-year-old stepson, James Sullivan, in Milwaukee, Wis., recently. Previously, the district attorney said Mrs. Sullivan had confessed the poison deaths of Sullivan, her second husband Fred Rickles, 36, and attempts on the lives of her third mate, Michael Sullivan, and his daughter, Theresa, 11.

cookies, candies and candy will be on sale. An enjoyable evening is promised to both old and young who attend.

Clayton Vredenburg was re-elected as trustee for the coming year at the annual school meeting which was held on Tuesday evening, May 2, at the school.

The school has received many compliments on improving the school grounds by having evergreen shrubs set across the front of the building. The school officials are grateful to all who participated in this work.

Arbor Day was fittingly observed on Friday, April 28. The school and school grounds were cleaned and several trees and plants were set out. The children enjoyed refreshments consisting of cake and soft drinks.

Ernest Myer, one of the local school teachers, attended the spring banquet of the teachers of the first supervisory district at "Les Lias" in Mt. Marion last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Enos Every and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palen of Glenford called on friends in Rochester Center one night last week.

For Committees Only

President George Reis of St. Peter's Holy Name Society announces a correction in regard to a society meeting announcement in Thursday's Freeman. The special meeting does not include the entire society but only members of the communion breakfast, entertainment and sports committees, and the scheduled time is 8:30 tonight.

Would Shift Fisheries

Washington, May 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt was said by usual well-informed legislators today to be considering shifting the bureau of fisheries from the commerce to the interior department. The change may be included in a new reorganization plan Mr. Roosevelt is expected to send Congress next week.

Area Scouts Plan For Trip to Fair

Russell Broughton of Troop 6, Kingston, will be scoutmaster in charge of the troop of 36 scouts from the Ulster-Greene Council area who will go to the World's Fair September 26 to October 3. Assistant scoutmasters will be Howard Mosher of Troop 53, Tannersville, and the Rev. H. I. Todd of Troop 34, Woodstock. Scout Executive Burns says that the council feels itself fortunate in having these men volunteer to take the group to the fair.

Applications for a place in the troop are reported to be coming in rapidly, as it is realized that this is a splendid opportunity for the scouts. Apparently it will be necessary to select the boys on their records as scouts. Mr. Burns says that the council officials are anxious to have the best possible representation, as these scouts will reflect the training received in the troops of the Ulster-Greene Council.

Wawarsing Folk To Get Good Sum

property the owner received a small payment pending the determination of the award to be made by a commission.

Under the bill sponsored by Assemblyman Conway of this city which was signed into law last week by the governor, the city has to deposit a sum equal to one half the equalized value of property as assessed in the year prior to the taking. The state equalization rate for 1937 for the town of Wawarsing, where most of the Section 7 property is located, was 15 per cent. The rate for the town of Neversink in Sullivan county where Section 8 properties are located was 13 per cent. Consequently the city must more than double its deposit for the town of Wawarsing lands taken and in Neversink the deposits are 87 per cent greater than they would have been without the Conway bill.

Property owners who vacate and must seek new homes are thus greatly benefited by the new legislation by which the city makes much larger deposits as a condition of securing possession.

No Act of Possession

The city of New York has owned the parcels in Section 7, town of Wawarsing since November 16, 1938 and Section 8 since November 18, 1938. However no act of possession was taken. In order to secure possession of the parcels the city must deposit with the order of the court the money prescribed by the law.

With activities increasing in the water works section the city is now seeking possession of the lands from Lackawack up to the Ulster line and into Sullivan county. Deposits will be made on the parcels desired.

A list of parcels which would be taken over for the first flooding in the area was given several days ago in The Freeman. In addition to that list the city is seeking possession of the following additional parcels which are now required for the progressing work. Flooding will begin early in June. Application for possession will be made at special term at Albany May 12 for the following lands:

Champlin R. Yale, Parcel 1332; John and Carrie Coddington, Parcel 1333; Delbert and Beulah Osterhoudt, Parcels 1338 and 1339; Frank and Laura Patruino, Parcel 1342; William Dierker, Parcel 1343; Archie and Mac Grant, Parcel 1347; Urban T. and Myrtle Kemble, Parcel 1351; Bruce Fuller and Genevieve Fuller, Parcel 1356; Leland and Delia Dayton, Parcel 1365; Smith Estate, Parcel 1367; Willis N. and Eva N. Smith Ryan, Parcels 1374 and 1375; Salome Whiteley, Parcel 1394; Sheldon and Helen DuBois Moore, Parcel 1397; Reformed Dutch Church of Grahamsville, Parcel 1403; Benjamin and Mabel Hill, Parcel 1404.

Henry R. Bright and Vincent G. Connolly appear for the City of New York and claimants are represented by Thomas J. Plunkett, Hon. Charles W. Walton, Manuel Dittenheimer, Joseph H. Forman and Lyons, Smith and Washington.

Babies should have their first teeth between six and nine months of age; after that they should average one a month, until at about two and one-half years when they have a total of 20 teeth.

Ellenville Man Badly Beaten Up

Harry Alexander of Ellenville and his twin brother, Roy Alexander, of Wallkill, R. D. 2, 38 years of age, were arrested Thursday by Sergeant John A. Hopkins of Ellenville, accused of having severely beaten up Charles Hoff of Ellenville.

The two men were arraigned before Justice Melvin D. Schoonmaker of Ellenville on a charge of assault in the second degree. They were committed to the Ulster county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The affair is said to have taken place on the road to The Cape, near Ellenville and Hoff was so badly beaten that his condition at the Veterans' Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, is reported to be very serious. His injuries included a puncture of the lung and two broken ribs.

Greatest for Mileage

Designed primarily as a safety tire, the U. S. Royal Master has proven itself to be the greatest mileage tire ever produced by United States Rubber Company, according to Harris Brown, of Brown's Servicenter, Inc., local U. S. tire dealer. "In the slightly more than three years since U. S. introduced the Royal Master tire," said Mr. Brown, "it not only has earned a reputation as America's premier safety tire, but it also showed that it had remarkable wearing qualities."

C.D.A. Communion Sunday Morning

Sunday, May 7, is National Communion Day for the Catholic Daughters of America, and Court Santa Maria, 164, the local branch, will receive Holy Communion at the 8 o'clock Mass in St. Joseph's Church.

After the Mass, the Catholic Daughters will go to the Kirkland Hotel for their annual communion breakfast. The guest speaker will be the Rev. John McCaffrey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, formerly the chaplain at Sing Sing prison. A pleasing musical program has been arranged by the officers and committee.

Child Sustains Slight Injuries, Struck by Car

Shortly before 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon "Bobby" Rich, a six-year-old girl of 380 Washington avenue, was bruised about the body, but not seriously hurt when she was struck by a car driven by William Schatzel of Lay street.

Mr. Schatzel in reporting the accident to the police department said that he was making a left turn at the intersection of Wash-
